Nancy,
That is the way that I have understood it.
The John is the one that in most documents is more commonly referred to as Jans Claes Romeyn and his info was given in that long post that Lisa Leatherman sent out at the end of last month so I didn't include it in my other post on the chart.

He died before 23 June 1763, when his will was probated in Bergen Co, NJ. The will was written 13 Oct 1753, however, and he may have died closer to that date and his estate may not have probated until after the death of his son, Nicholas.
