Matthew N. Ijames, judge of Wayne County, Mo., was born in Mocksville, N. C., on January 13, 1843, his parents, Beal and Rachel C. (Lock) Ijames, being natives of the same State. They were of German and Welsh descent, and the father is still living on the farm on which he located in 1835. He has held several county offices, and is yet an active man, although he is in his eightieth year. Their family, who are living, are: Beal R., Matthew N., Basil G., Robert S., Marion, Margaret A. and Mary. Those deceased are John and James D. The mother died in 1871, at the age of fifty-nine years. They were church members, and the father was an Ancient Free and Accepted Mason. Matthew N. joined the Confederate army in 1861, and served three years and eight months under Gen. Lee. At the close of the war he returned home, and in 1866 came to Missouri, and located with his brother on Black River, where he now lives. He followed the occupation of farming and school-teaching, and was constable of Mill Creek Township for two years. He held the office of justice of the peace for four years, and was elected one of the county court in 1886. He has a good farm of about 200 acres, is a member of the Baptist Church, and belongs to the A. F. & A. M. In 1869 he married Lucinda A. Moss, who was born in Hamilton County, Ill., in 1833, and died in 1882, leaving five children: Mary, Belle, Ida, Charles and Osker. Two children are dead: Beal and Lillie. In 1883 Mr. Ijames married Mrs. Levinia (Swezen) Moss, widow of Edward Moss, who died in 1881. They had two children: Samuel L. and William E., both of whom are living with their mother.

Jackson Ing was born in Franklin County, Ill., July 2, 1837, and is the son of Matthew and Sarah Ing, the former being a native of Edgecombe County, N. C., and the latter of Sumner County, Tenn. They moved to Franklin County, Ill., in 1829. The father served during the War of 1812, as a private, and died in 1864, his widow survived him till 1879. The subject of this sketch was reared in Franklin County, Ill., and when thirty-one years of age moved to Posey County, Ind. His advantages for acquiring an education during his boyhood were limited, and as a matter of necessity, he was compelled to earn his living by hard but honest toil. His occupation has been that of a farmer from his earliest years. In 1872 he moved to Henderson County, Ky., where he resided two years, going thence to Wayne County, where he has since lived. He married Emeline Burlison, of Franklin County, Ill. Their family consisted of six children, of whom four are now living, V. V., J. E., O. L. and Almon. Mrs. Ing has been married twice, and of six children by her former husband, two are still living, Aaron and Joseph Burlison.

Frederick M. Johnston was born in Ripley County, Mo., in 1841, and is a son of William and Catherine (Miller) Johnston, who were natives of Missouri. The father died in Ripley County about 1844 or 1845, and his widow afterward married Pinus Mann, and died in 1878. She was the mother of the following children by her first marriage: Elizabeth (deceased), Lucinda and Frederick M. She had one child by her second husband, Margaret. At the early age of fifteen years, Frederick M. Johnston began working for himself. In 1858 he was married to Frances Copeland, who was born in 1839, and died in 1861, having borne one child, William (deceased). Mr. Johnston next married Margaret, daughter of Pennington and Louisa McFadden, and their union was blessed in the birth of eight children: Martha L. (McFadden), Sophronia M. (Kitchens), Richard P., Mary O., Willie W., Eugene, John and Clive W. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and their four eldest children are members of the Christian Church. Mr. Johnston belongs to the A. F. & A. M., at Piedmont, and is the owner of 160 acres of land.

Hiram W. Jones was born in Blount County, East Tennessee, and is the son of John W. and Martha (Massey) Jones. The father is from Virginia, and the mother was also born in Old Virginia. The elder Jones was in the War of 1812, and served in a Virginia regiment, and was a soldier through the entire war, serving with credit to himself and the country. After the war was over, he returned to his farm, but afterward moved to East Tennessee, and then to Barren County, Ky., where he died, leaving ten children, seven living: Polly A., Hiram W., Lewis, Joseph, Nancy, John and Francis M. The subject of this sketch lived with his father until he was twenty-one years old, when he accepted a position as overseer under Col. Scott, which position he held for four years. After leaving Col. Scott he took charge of a German colony, as blacksmith and stonemason, where he remained three years. He married his first wife, Miss Polly A. Holaway, October 25, 1838, and had five children, one living, John, married to Martha Payne, living in this county, and has four children. In 1846, Mr. Jones contracted to build Montgomery County jail, which took him eighteen months to complete. He lost his first wife in 1849, and married, the same year, Miss Barbara Rhoads, and by whom he had seven children, three living: Martha (married to Russell Moss), Hiram W. (married to Jane Hills) and Barbara E. (married to Thomas J. Luckett), all living in this county. After his second marriage he moved to Barren County, Ky., and went to farming, and remained there six years. Thinking he could better his fortune in Missouri, he located on a small farm in Wayne County, in 1851. Hearing such glowing accounts of the State of Kansas, he sold out with the expectation of going, but as it was late in the season he concluded to make another crop on a rented farm. In the meantime the war broke out, and he then concluded not to go, and purchased another small farm on Big Bushy, which he afterward exchanged for his present home, about one mile from the railroad town of Williamsville. It consists of about 185 acres of good bottom land, of which 125 acres are cleared and in cultivation, with all necessary out-houses and good dwellings. He was a magistrate in Morgan County, Tenn., for about nine years, and also held that position in this county for about three years, after the close of the war. Mr. Jones and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which they joined when very young.

Alexander S. Jones is a native of Jefferson County, East Tenn., where he was born in the year 1839. He lost his father when very young, but was taken care of by his mother and elder brother. In 1852, his mother concluded to come west, and located in Wayne County, Mo., on St. Francis River, near the Blue Springs, purchasing a tract of land, it being a Spanish grant. On this place Mr. Jones lived during his boyhood. In 1870 he purchased his present home and moved his mother on it, she dying the same year. The place consists of 160 acres of good bottom and ridge land, of which there are cleared about sixty-five acres, in good cultivation, with all necessary improvements and out-buildings. He was educated at the public schools in his neighborhood and received an education such as those schools could afford. He was married November 27, 1881, to Miss Nancy E. Foster, by whom he has had three children, two now living: Mary A. and Hattie. The place Mr. Jones now owns was a wild tract of land, but, by energy and industry, he has been able to fence and put into cultivation at least, sixty-five acres in the last ten years.

Joseph L. Kelly was born in Wayne County, Mo., in 1857, and is the son of Noah and Margaret (Pigg) Kelly, both of whom were born in Missouri. The father grew to manhood in Wayne County. He always followed the occupation of farming, and died August 8, 1885. His wife died about 1864. Pearly T. (deceased), Joseph L., Stephen M., Sarah C. and Mary A. (Daffron), are their children. After the death of the mother, Mr. Kelly married Julia Daffron, and Ella, Lizzie, Smithie and Eli are their children. The latter two were twins and died in infancy; the two eldest died when several years of age. The mother died in 1868 or 1869. Joseph L. Kelly began teaching school when about twenty years of age, and in connection with farming, has followed that occupation all his life. He has a good farm of 175 acres, fifty-five acres of which are under cultivation, and in 1884 was united in the bonds of matrimony to Lydia A. Duncan, and by her is the father of two children: Della May and Tony Pearle. Mrs. Kelly's parents were William and Millie Duncan, who were natives of Wayne County, and died in 1865. Three of their four children died in infancy.

Wallis Kirkpatrick is a son of James and Mary (Kennell) Kirkpatrick, and was born in Wayne County, Mo., April 21, 1840. The parents and paternal grandfather were natives of Tennessee, and came to Wayne County in 1831, where James Kirkpatrick entered and cleared land. By earnest endeavor he became the possessor of 400 acres of land. He was sheriff of Wayne County for one term, and also held the offices of county judge several years, assessor, and justice of the peace. He was born in 1804, and died in 1867. His wife was born in 1802, and died in 1871. Six of their twelve children are living: Andrew J., Wallis, James, Zerilda (Butler), Mary (Davis) and Minerva (Hoples). Wallis Kirkpatrick has been identified with Wayne County for nearly half a century. He began working for himself at the age of twenty years, at which time he married Missouri A. Barnhart, and by her became the father of five children, two of whom are living, James H. and Viola F. (Yates). Mr. Kirkpatrick has a fine farm of 110 acres, located on the St. Francis River. In 1862 he enlisted in Company H, Thirty-first Missouri Infantry, and served for about fourteen months. He was at the siege of Vicksburg, and was wounded in the thigh by a gun-shot, and was taken to the hospital at Paducah, Ky. Two months later he rejoined his regiment, and the following July was sent to Jefferson Barracks' hospital, where he remained for about four months. In November, 1863, he was discharged and came home. His wife died in 1870, and in 1871 he was united in marriage to Eleanor A. Cowan, and two children have been the result of their union. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick are members of the Baptist Church, and he belongs to the I. O. O. F. and Farmers' Alliance.

A. T. Lacey, merchant and farmer of Wayne County, Mo., was born in Madison County, of the same State, September 12, 1859. His father, John M. Lacey, was a native of Cape Girardeau County, Mo., and the mother, Sophia (Buckner) Lacey, was born in Madison County. The former was a printer by trade, but is now engaged in farming. His children are John, now in California, Henry, Alfred T., Robert and Martha. A. T. Lacey learned the printer's trade at Fredericktown, Mo., and in February, 1877, came to Wayne County, and located at Greenville, where he worked on the Wayne County Journal until 1891. He then purchased the paper, which he conducted until December, 1895, and then sold out to W. D. Wright. In 1884 he engaged in the mercantile business with M. Warmack, and is still engaged in the same. Mr. Lacey also carries on farming. He owns 230 acres of land, seventy acres of which are under good cultivation. In November, 1884, he married Martha Rhodes, and their union has resulted in the birth of two children: Rhodes and Clara. Mr. Lacey is a member of the Methodist Church, and he belongs to the I. O. O. F. and A. O. U. W.

Capt. W. T. Leeper, one of the prominent men of Wayne County, Mo., was born in Maury County, Tenn., March 8, 1823, and is a son of Hugh and Sarah (Davis) Leeper, and grandson of Hugh Leeper, who was a Virginian. He went to Kentucky in 1805, and located where Lexington now stands. He purchased a large tract of land at that place, but as the title was not clear, he removed to Maury County, Tenn. Here he died, leaving a family, some of whom are still living there on Leeper's Creek. He was a great Indian fighter. His son, Hugh, reared a family of nine children, six of whom still survive: William T., Greenwood D., Benjamin F., John H., George W. and Samuel B. All of these sons were in the late war, three serving in the Union army, and three in the Confederate army. William T. was reared in Maury County, and received such education as the schools of that day afforded. In 1857 he moved to Wayne County, Mo., where he purchased 235 acres of land, and by industry and economy, has accumulated a fine property. In 1858 he was elected county surveyor, which position he occupied until the breaking out of the war, when he organized Company D, Twelfth Regiment, Missouri State militia, and went out with it as its captain. In 1863 he was employed by the Government to do duty in different regiments, and about the close of the war was promoted to colonel of the State Militia, and was stationed at Ironton. He is one of the prominent men of Southeast Missouri, and held a number of important offices. From 1868 to 1872 he represented Wayne County in the State Legislature, and then practiced law until 1882, having been admitted to the bar in 1858. December 25, 1845, he married Amanda Micks, of Tennessee, by whom he has had nine children, five living: Matilda, Martha A., Prudence C., Lura and Thomas A. Those deceased are Sarah (who died leaving three children), Louisa, William T. and Ellen. Mrs. Leeper died in October, 1873, and he took for his second wife Margaret B. Lee, and by her became the father of five children, four living: John H., Sidney L., Amanda A. and Lorraine. Margaret is deceased. Mr. and Mrs. Leeper are members of the Christian Church, and he belongs to the I. O. O. F., and is president of the Farmers' Alliance. He is a man of strict integrity, and has much influence in the community in which he resides.

William S. Linville, teacher and farmer, and ex-school commissioner of Wayne County, Mo., is a native of the county, born in 1859, and is the son of Lewis H. and Mary C. (Taylor) Linville, who were born in 1827 and 1835 respectively. In 1848 they both came with their parents to Southeast Missouri, and were married in Wayne County. The father was justice of the peace in Cedar Creek Township, for fourteen years, county sheriff four years, and collector for eight years. He is a member of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Piedmont, and a member in good standing of the Missionary Baptist Church. He and wife are the parents of four children: David F., William S., Mary B.

(Mrs. W. A. Dunn) and Lizzie J., who resides with her parents. At the age of twenty years William S. left home, and began attending the high school in Fredericktown. In 1880 and 1881 he attended the Normal School at Cape Girardeau, and in 1883 went to Keokuk, Iowa, where he graduated in July, 1883, from Pierce's Business College. He returned home and taught school for several years, and in 1885 was elected school commissioner, which position he held for two years. In 1885 he wedded Christie Morris, a daughter of John E. and Elizabeth Morris, who was born in Wayne County. They have two children, Morris H. (who died in infancy) and Beulah B. Mr. and Mrs. Linville are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Mr. Linville is the owner of considerable real estate.

John K. Lowrance, merchant, was born in Madison County, this State, in 1842, and is the son of David A. and Lucinda (O'Bannon) Lowrance. The father was born in North Carolina, and the mother in Madison County. David Lowrance was a tanner, and followed the business near Fredericktown, but afterward engaged in farming, and finally, at the age of seventy years, and after the death of the mother, in the early winter of 1887, came to live with his son, John K., who resided in Wayne County. They had nine children, six living: Missouri, Amanda E., Ann, William L., David M. and John K., the eldest and the subject of this sketch. He received an education such as the schools in Madison County could afford, away back in the fifties. He entered the army at the outbreak of the war, having just turned his eighteenth birthday, and enlisted in Company F, Missouri State Guards, under M. Jeff. Thompson, and served in the State service six months. He then entered the Confederate service under M. M. Parsons, and served under him two years. He closed his war record under Nelson B. Forest, and was surrendered near Jackson, Miss., in 1865, and then returned home. He was in the battle of Fredericktown, while in the State Guards, and several other battles. He received a wound in the right arm from a Winchester ball at the battle of Wolf Creek, Tenn. After his return home he engaged in farming. He afterward commenced clerking at Fredericktown for Hill & Nall, which position he held until 1880, when he moved to Williamsville, Wayne County, and opened business for himself. He does a large general trade in dry goods, groceries and hardware. He carries a large stock of goods. He married first in 1867, Miss Eliza A. Mitchell, of Holmes County, Miss., but she dying in Fredericktown, Mo., he married again, Mrs. Alice M. Willson, but they have no family. He owns forty acres of land and four town lots in Williamsville, besides one-half interest in thirty acres of granite land in Granite Bend, which is considered very valuable, and contains an inexhaustible supply of granite. He has land in Butler County, on which he has a fine saw-mill, and can saw from 15,000 to 25,000 feet of lumber per day. He has also a planing mill attached, with capacity of 8,000 to 10,000 feet per day. He employs about thirty men at his mills, besides others cutting and getting out logs. He is a member of the Knights of Honor, and A. O. U. W. and Masonic lodges, and is secretary of the Masonic lodge at this place. Mr. Lowrance and his wife are members of the Baptist and Methodist Churches, respectively. There is said to be iron ore on his land in Butler County in great quantities.

Thomas C. McCorkle, retired printer, was born in Dalton, Ill., in 1842, and is a son of William and Sarah (Carroll) McCorkle, who were born in Kentucky and Ohio, respectively. The paternal and maternal grandfathers came to Illinois in 1830 and 1818, respectively. The former was a carpenter by trade and died in 1868. His widow died in 1875. They were the parents of seven children, four now living: Mrs. Mary Watkins, Thomas C., Samuel S. and Mrs. Sarah S. Griffin. Those deceased are Mary E., John C. and William H. Thomas C. McCorkle remained at home until August 10, 1862, when he enlisted in the Ninety-seventh Illinois Regiment, but shortly afterward was discharged, owing to lung trouble. He had learned the printer's trade previous to enlistment, and was working on the Alton Telegraph. After his return he resumed his trade, which he followed for three years, and the following two or three years was engaged in buying grain in Dalton. From that time until 1883 he farmed near Litchfield, Ill., and in the fall of the same year came to Southeast Missouri, and purchased land in Wayne County. He now owns 154 acres of land, eighty acres of which are under cultivation. Mr. McCorkle is unmarried, and is an industrious man and a good citizen.

The father was from Kentucky, and the mother from Indiana, and they were married in the very early times. In 1852 they moved from Indiana to Missouri, and located in Greenville, where they lived on a rented farm for two years. In 1854 they entered the home their son now occupies, which is about ten miles south of Greenville. The father died in 1878, and the mother in 1880. Out of four children William H. is the only one living. He attended the schools in his neighborhood, and finally finished his education in St. Francois County, where he had a half-sister living. He entered the army in 1861, and enlisted in Company H, Forty-seventh Missouri Volunteers, and served ten months. He took part in the battle of Pilot Knob, in this State. He was in the hospital some time, having contracted a sickness from which he has never fully recovered. After his return from the war he commenced farming on his own place, which consists of 200 acres of good creek bottom land. He has 100 acres cleared and in cultivation, with all necessary improvements and good buildings. He married, in 1868, Miss Mary L. Reed. Mr. Morgan is Senior Warden of the Masonic lodge of Williamsville. He was shot in the leg while in the war, although not in action at the time. He has a half-brother living, Joshua N. Foster.

Charles Morgan was born in St. Louis in 1853, and is the son of Charles and Matilda Morgan, who both were of English descent, and came to this State in the year 1840, and located in St. Louis when that city was but a small town, with little prospects of being the city it is now. He was a shoemaker by trade. He had six children, four of whom are now living: Edward, George, Charles and John R. Charles attended school at St. Louis, and received a good common-school education. At the close of the war his father came down to Wayne County, and commenced farming on Lost Creek, but afterward moved back to St. Louis. Charles married, in 1872, Miss Mary E. Catron, and later moved to his wife's home on Otter Creek. It consists of about 260 acres, about seventy-five of which are in cultivation. The Cape Girardeau Southwestern Railway runs through his farm. Charles and Mary E. Morgan have had seven children, five now living: John A., Artie E., Charles Arthur, Zed C. and Irvin S. Mr. Morgan is a member of the Baptist Church, Farmers' Alliance and the Agricultural Wheel.

Daniel Moore was born in East Tennessee in the year 1845, and is the son of John and Eliza (Berry) Moore, who were born in Tennessee. They immigrated to this State in 1841, and located in Wayne County, on Otto Creek, where he died, leaving his place to his children: Robert, William, Lewis and Daniel. The latter entered the army in 1862, and enlisted in Company L, of the State Militia, in which he served eighteen months; he again enlisted in Company C, Seventy-fourth Missouri Cavalry, and served nine months. On his return home he commenced farming, and for several years worked rented land. In 1867 he rented 160 acres of land, upon which he is now living. He owns 300 acres, with about 120 acres under cultivation. He married, in 1863, Miss Margaret Sutton, who died May 26, 1884. He was again married December 25, 1884, his second wife's maiden name having been Lewella Rucker. She was first married to Hammon Sutton, and afterward to J. W. Alman, having one child by the former marriage, Mary Lizzie, and two by the latter, Martha L. and Isalah. Mr. Moore's first wife bore him the following children: James H., Eliza, John Lewis, Margaret J., Mary F., William, Robert, Martha and Miss M. M. Moore. Mr. Moore and his first wife were members of the Missionary Baptist Church, in which he still retains membership.

Robert L. Moore was born in Madison County, Mo., April 8, 1847, and is the son of William and Araminta (Woolford) Moore, who were from Tennessee, and moved to this State when they were children, and were, in fact, the pioneers of Madison County. They were the parents of eight children, five living: Robert J., Samuel J., Permella C., Maria A. and Armita E. Robert L. lost his father when he was sixteen years old, and he then had to start and make his own way through life. He first hired out by the month as a farm hand. He was employed in a flour mill for three years as engineer, and afterward held the same position in a saw mill for three years, at Mine La Motte, stayed there nearly two years, then coming to Wayne County, and working in different positions in a saw mill. He finally accepted a position as head sawyer in the large saw mills of H. N. Holladay, where he is now engaged. He married twice, first in 1872, to Miss Mary R. A. Compton and had three children: Carrie B., Ada M. and Maggie L. His second wife was a Miss Harriett A. Hughes, whom he married in 1884.

John E. Morris was born in Hall County, Ga., in 1827, being the son of Joseph and Isabel (Henderson) Morris. The former was born in South Carolina in 1800 and died in 1888, and the latter was born in Georgia in 1797 and died in 1856. Their children are Eliza C., Keziah E., Permella A., John E., Elizabeth, Andrew, Nancy C. and William C. Two children died in infancy. The father was twice married, the second time to Elizabeth Hale, who died in 1881. John E. Morris lived at home until 1847, when he began farming for himself in Georgia, continuing the same until 1857, when he came to Missouri and located near where he now lives. When the war broke out he enlisted in the Confederate army and served for three years. Since then he has followed the occupation of farming, and is the owner of 160 acres of land with 100 acres under cultivation. November 11, 1847, he married Elizabeth Griffith, who was born in 1826, and by her is the father of ten children: Joseph D. (deceased), William E., Harris B., Frances I. (Jones), James Y., Lemuel A., Christie Belle (Linville), Diana M., Margaret J. (Sprott) and Stella E. (deceased).

Abel J. F. Moser was born in Catawba County, N. C., January 16, 1842, and is the son of J. R. and Barbara (Thomas) Moser, who were also natives of North Carolina. They were of German descent, and came to Missouri in 1852, and engaged in farming. The father was a minister, and was the organizer of the Lutheran Church at Gravelton. He was born July 29, 1813, and died September 10, 1885, of paralysis. His wife was born January 22, 1816, and died July 24, 1854. The following are their family: Anna C., Selinda C., Sarah R., Abel J. F., Philo W., Solon C. and Samuel G. All are living but Philo W., who died December 25, 1864, of small-pox. The father was married the second time to Hannah A. Bollinger, of Bollinger County, Mo., who died several years after her marriage. His third wife was Catherine S. Whitener, who was born in Bollinger County, Mo., May 15, 1825. Two of her three children are living: Susan A. (deceased), Mary B. E. and Minnie S. In 1862 Abel J. F. Moser enlisted in the Enrolled and Missouri State militia, and served until the close of the war. From that time until 1879, he farmed, and since that time has been engaged in milling. He is one of the trustees of the Concordia College, and since its organization has been president of the board. He is a member of the Lutheran Church, and has been an elder in the same for fourteen or fifteen years. August 23, 1866, he married Susan Rhodes, who was born in Madison County, Mo., May 27, 1845.

Matthias M. Myers, contractor and builder of Gravelton, Mo., was born in the Old North State, in 1847. His parents, Thomas and Catherine (Zink) Myers, were born in the same State as himself. The former's birth occurred in 1715. He was a son of Jacob Meyers, who was of German descent, and Catherine (Heppler) Myers, who came from Germany to the United States when she was but four year old, and died here in 1862. Thomas Myers is still living in North Carolina. He and wife were the parents of thirteen children, eight of whom are living: Mary E., Andrew L., Matthias M., George E. T., Eve C., Sarah L., Triphena and Margaret. Those deceased are Eli, Bashaw, Romulus, Jacob and Jane. The mother died in 1863, at the age of forty-seven years, and the father took for his second wife Louisa Lambreth, by whom he had two children, Walter H. L. and Lunda A. Matthias M. Myers began working for himself in 1867, and followed the occupation of house-carpentering, which he has continued up to the present time. He resided in Bollinger County, until the spring of 1874, when he came to his present location. He was appointed postmaster in 1882, and justice of the peace in 1887. He was married to Eliza C. Brinley, and to their union five children have been born: Orla A., Ala A., Cora C., Grover M. and Marvin H. Mr. and Mrs. Myers are members of the Lutheran Church, and he is one of the trustees of Concordia College.

Timothy O'Keefe was born in Ireland, April 12, 1849, but came to this country at the age of four years, locating with his parents in Massachusetts, at Cape Ann, but afterward moved to Virginia, December 18, 1871. He afterward came to Wayne County, November 26, 1884, and is now manager of the Stifel & Ruckert Granite Company, at Granite Bend, Mo., an immense business, employing some 400 men. Mr. O'Keefe commenced as a hand in the quarry, when a boy, and worked himself up to his present position through his industry and ability. Through his management one of the largest blasts ever known on record was made, requiring the labor of eight men six months, and eighteen tons of powder to effect it. A shaft eighty-five feet deep was sunk perpendicularly, with two chambers branching from the bottom, each twenty feet long. Dividing the powder in each chamber, he filled the balance of space up to within twenty feet of the top of the shaft with solid masonry. At the explosion the entire bill seemed to move, and a granite rock of many thousand tons was uprooted from its slumbering position and lifted many feet in the air, and sufficient granite was loosened to last the company for years, for which engineering skill Mr. Timothy O'Keefe deserves great credit. He married, in 1873, Miss Mary J. Buckley, but has no issue.

George R. Patterson was born in Wayne County, Mo., January 21, 1845. His parents, William and Eliza (Fulton) Patterson, were Virginians, and came to Wayne County, Mo., in 1835. They purchased 640 acres of land where Patterson now is, and the town was named in his honor. Four of their nine children are now living: John, George R., Finlay and Andrew. George R. has always resided on the farm which his father purchased. In 1865 he made a trip to California, via New York and the Isthmus of Panama, and was engaged in copper-mining the three years that he was there. Since 1868 he has followed the occupation of farming, with the exception of two years spent in merchandising at Mill Spring. He owns 300 acres of land, and is considered a first-class farmer. March 27, 1887, he and Martha E. Settle were united in marriage. They are members of the Baptist Church. Fort Benton, where the Federal troops camped, was on Mr. Patterson's land, and he would often go in and camp with them. In 1863 a raid was made on the camp, several persons being killed, and Mr. Patterson's house was made a hospital of.

Josiah Payne, the son of Josiah and Roda (Campbell) Payne, was born in Williamson County, Ill., on January 11, 1841. His father was born on June 16, 1789, in Christian County, Tenn., where he lived until he was thirty-five years of age, having, in the meantime, married the second time. His first wife, Fannie Burris, lived only six years, and was the mother of four children, two of whom are now living, Jane and Sarah A. He married again, in 1821, this time Heroda Campbell, daughter of Mannan Campbell, and by this marriage was the father of ten children, of whom five are living: Nancy, James H., Elizabeth, Joseph and David C. The subject of this sketch was an own cousin of the renowned Davy Crockett, of Tennessee, and served during the War of 1812 as a private under Gen. Jackson. Being of a very patriotic disposition, his ambition was to see his boys shoulder their muskets and march to the front in defense of their convictions in the late war. He lived to be something over seventy years of age, a respected and honorable citizen. He was constable for a term of eight years, and was also a justice of the peace for a number of years. He retired from public life in 1872. He passed away peacefully, with the knowledge of having been a useful man, to his country and to his Maker. His wife also lived a long and useful life, dying in 1867, at the advanced age of sixty-four years. Mr. Josiah Payne was married, on March 10, to Mary J. Odell, daughter of Benjamin Odell, and by her was the father of four children, two of whom are still living, Rhoda and John H. His second wife was Elizabeth Kimbal, daughter of O. H. Kimbal, but neither of them are now living. He was married again, July 5, to Litha Bennett, daughter of James Bennett. They have had five children, two of whom are living: Margaret S. and Alpha O. Mr. Payne served during the war in Company K, Sixty-eighth Missouri State Militia, under Capt. P. L. Powers, serving nine months, and was captured while at home on a furlough. He was in one or two small fights, Bollinger's Mill and Castor, and was released from prison on parole, never having been exchanged. Mr. Payne is a plasterer, stonemason and blacksmith, but through choice has devoted his life to farming, owning a farm of 130 acres, forty of which are cleared. Mr. and Mrs. Payne are members of the Missionary Baptist Church. He is also a member of the Farmers' Alliance. He was a constable for four years, and has been justice of the peace for six years, and has two more to serve.

Reuben H. Perkins was born in North Carolina, in 1849, where his father was also born, coming from there to Missouri in 1858, and locating in the northern part of this county, where he purchased a home for his family, the same upon which he died in 1879. His wife's name was Jemima Cline. They had six children, five living: Julius F., William F., Reuben H., Harriet E. and John H. Reuben H. married, in 1872, his first wife, Mary E. Whitener, and had one child. His second wife was Miss Catharine Skaggs, whom he married in 1876, and by this union there were five children, four living: Jemima E., John T., William H. and Adolphus F. He lost his second wife in 1882. He then married Mrs. Nancy J. Conner, by whom he has two children, Sarah L. and Wiloughby C. In 1876 he purchased his present home, on Asker Creek, a small farm of ninety-one acres. It is good bottom land, with about thirty-five acres in cultivation. He is a member of the Farmers' Alliance. His wife is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Mrs. Esther C. (Creasy) Pigg was born in Wayne County, Mo., in 1844, and is a daughter of William and Beersheba Creasy. [See sketch of William Creasy.] Mrs. Pigg was married in 1866 to Matthew Pigg, who was born on the farm where Mrs. Pigg now lives, in 1838. His parents were Stephen P. and Mary Ann (Warmack) Pigg, who came to Southeast Missouri about 1833, and located in Wayne County. They moved to their present location in 1836 or 1837, where the mother is still living. She was born in 1816, and became the mother of five children, all of whom are dead. Her husband died July 17, 1880. Matthew Pigg was a man noted for his honesty and industry and in his lifetime accumulated considerable property. He died January 17, 1887, leaving a wife and one child, Mary Ellen, to mourn his loss. Mrs. Pigg is a refined and estimable lady and is much esteemed by her neighbors. She has a fine two-story frame residence, which cost about $2,000, and one of the finest farms in Wayne County, consisting of 320 acres, with 100 under cultivation. She is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Pinckney L. Powers was born in Lincoln County, N. C., in 1823, and is the son of Gilliam and Barbara (Rhyne) Powers, both of whom were born in North Carolina. They had two children, Pinckney and Matilda. Pinckney was quite an infant when he lost his father. His mother married again, this time to a man by the name of William Jones. He lived in Perry County, Mo., with his step-father until he was sixteen years of age, when he apprenticed himself to his uncle, to learn the trade of wagon-making. He remained about three years at his trade before commencing business for himself, in Perry County, Mo., where the family had immigrated some years previous. He was moderately successful in his business undertakings. In 1845 he married Miss Elizabeth Butts, by whom he had ten children; seven are living: Minerva (dead), James F., William H., Matilda C. (dead), Julia A., Mary A., Barbara (dead), Albert G., Sheridan L. and Alice E. Mr. Powers moved from near Perryville to Appleton, where he remained three years. He then went to California, where he followed mining and merchandising as a means of making a living. Three years later he returned to Wayne County, Mo., and resumed his trade of wagon-making, building a saw mill in 1854, with a grist mill attached, also a large shop adjoining the buildings, but was unfortunate in losing all his property by fire in 1857. He reopened his shop and followed his trade until the war broke out, when he entered the Federal army, and commanded four different companies; first, the Fourth Regiment of Missouri Militia, but owing to some misunderstanding the company was not attached to the Fourth Regiment, regular army, but used as scouts. He then had charge of the Sixty-eighth Enrolled Militia, Company K, and finally took charge of Company L, Eighth Provisional Regiment, and Company H, of the Forty-seventh Regiment Missouri Volunteers, and held command as captain until the company was disbanded, in 1865. He was wounded in the battle of Pilot Knob, receiving a shot in the shoulder, and, although partially recovering, he still feels the effects of his wound. He was in the battles of Fredericktown, Pilot Knob, Bloomfield, and many other skirmishes, but arrived at Nashville, Tenn., too late to participate in the battle; also followed Hood down through Tennessee to Pulaski, Tenn. After the close of the war he returned to Wayne County, and was appointed assessor, serving one term. He represented Wayne and Butler Counties in the Legislature in the term of 1863-64, and was again elected, but the election was counted out by fraud. He served one term again in 1879, from Wayne County. He was postmaster at Cold Water for eight or ten years before the war. Retiring from political life, he settled down to his trade, and in 1887 he married Mrs. Kelly, but has no children. He owns about 350 acres, besides some town property, in Piedmont, Mo. Mr. Powers is a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

David F. Rhodes was born in Madison County, Mo., and is the son of David and Nancy (St. Clair) Rhodes. David Rhodes was born in North Carolina, and came to this State with his parents in the early pioneer days. His wife is a native of Madison County. He represented Madison County in the Legislature for three terms, and served with great credit to himself and the county. He owned large milling and farming interests in Madison. He died in 1875, having had thirteen children, four living: William, Maude, Mary and David F., who, after leaving his father and finishing his education, learned to be a carpenter, and worked at that trade for awhile, and afterward took up farming. He married in 1861 Emeline Halladay, and has had seven children, five living: Dadie (married to V. A. O'Bannon), Lillie (married to Otto Larie), Minnie (married to J. W. Farley), and David and Hiram. Mr. Rhodes moved to his present home about eighteen months ago, and is a very able and successful farmer. He is a member of the A. O. U. W. lodge. He was coroner and acting sheriff for Madison County, for nine months, in 1873. He and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

James A. Rhodes is a son of Matthew and Nancy P. Rhodes and a grandson of Allan and Elizabeth Rhodes, who were natives of Alabama, and became residents of Missouri in 1839 or 1840. Allan Rhodes died in 1859, and his wife several years previously. They were the parents of eleven children, all of whom are dead. The father, Matthew Rhodes, grew to maturity in Wayne County, and in 1851 married Nancy P. Farrell, who was born in 1839, and came to Wayne County from St. Francois County, Mo., about 1835, with her parents, James and Martha Farrell, native Kentuckians. The former died in 1876 and the latter in 1862. Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes became the parents of seven children, six of whom are living: Sarah C., James A., John F., Charles M., Harriet J., Matthew L. and Martha E. The mother is living with her son, Matthew, and is a member of the Baptist Church. Her son, James A., was born in Wayne County, in 1852, and assisted his parents on the farm until he was nineteen years of age. At the age of twenty years he was united in marriage to Nancy M. Hughes, a native of the county, born in 1853, and daughter of John L. and Harriet (Bennett) Hughes, who are residents of the county. The following are their children now living: Sarah, Alice, Nancy, Charles L. and Anna Belle. James A. and Mrs. Rhodes are members of the Baptist Church, and he belongs to the A. O. U. W., and is the owner of 240 acres of land.

John F. Rhodes, county clerk and a native of Wayne County, Mo., was born August 24, 1856, and is the son of Matthew and Nancy (Farrell) Rhodes, who were born in Tennessee and Missouri, respectively. Matthew Rhodes came with his father, Allan Rhodes, to Wayne County, Mo., about 1838, and entered land on Otter Creek. Here Allan Rhodes died. Matthew Rhodes died in 1878, but his widow is still living. They were the parents of six children: James A., John F., Charles M., Harriet, Martha and Matthew. John F. Rhodes remained at home until twenty-one years of age. He received a liberal education, and attended the Normal School at Cape Girardeau. He taught school for two or three years, and in 1879 bought the Wayne County Journal, which he edited until December, 1881, when he sold out. He held the office of county commissioner of public schools for two years, and in October, 1881, was appointed county treasurer by Gov. Crittenden to fill the vacancy. In 1882 he was elected county clerk, and was re-elected in 1886. He has also been engaged in farming, and is the owner of about 400 acres of land, about 225 of which are under cultivation. He takes considerable interest in fine stock breeding, and has a fine residence on the banks of the St. Francois River. In 1879 he was married to Sallie McGhee, by whom he has four children: Walter, Matthew, Ira and Charles. Mrs. Rhodes is a member of the Baptist Church, and Mr. Rhodes is a member of the I. O. O. F. and A. O. U. W.

Matthew L. Rhodes was born in Wayne County, Mo., in the year 1864, and is the son of Matthew and Nancy P. (Farrell) Rhodes, who were both residents of Wayne County, Mo. The father was a farmer by occupation, and died on the farm where his son, Matthew L., now lives, in 1878. His widow still resides on the home place. The following are their children: James A., John F., Charles M., Harriet J. (Mrs. I. L. White), Matthew L., Martha E. (Mrs. A. T. Lacy), Sarah C. S. (deceased). Matthew L. has resided at home most of his life, with the exception of what time he spent in school. He attended Hale's College in the year 1881, and in the year 1882 went to Dunklin County and kept books for T. A. Slicer & Co., of Malden, and returned home in the year 1883. He has since resided on the farm, with the exception of what time he has spent in school teaching. In 1886 he was married to Mary Alice Creasy. She was born in 1860, and is the mother of one child, Harry D. Mr. Rhodes is a member of the Farmers' Alliance, and is the owner of 160 acres of land.

James B. Robinson was born in 1852, in Washington County, Mo., and is a son of Richard and Catherine (Welker) Robinson, who were also Missourians. Richard Robinson was a miner and farmer, and is yet living on the farm where he was born and reared. His wife died about 1857, leaving four children: James B., Docia E., Sarah A. and Mickie E. The father took for his second wife Juda A. Wright. James B. Robinson resided on the old home place until he was nineteen years of age, when he rented a farm, and in connection with tilling that worked in the mines until 1877, when he came to Wayne County, and purchased land near where he now lives. Here he resided until 1886, when he moved to his present place, a farm of 255 acres, with 160 acres under cultivation. In 1878 he married Mary E. Yates, and their union has resulted in the birth of four children: Joseph F., Lillie May, Leslie and one who died in infancy. Mr. Robinson is a member of the I. O. O. F. and Farmers' Alliance, and since 1884 has held the position of public administrator.

T. L. Roussin is a Missourian, was born in 1840, and is the son of Michael and Sophia (Janis) Roussin, who were also born in Missouri. Grandfather Roussin was of French extraction, and was one of the first to settle in Kaskaskia, Ill. Michael Roussin followed carpentering until 1854, when he took 1,100 head of cattle to California, and while on the ocean voyage home was taken sick and died. He is supposed to have been robbed, for no money was found on his person at the time of his death. His widow was left destitute, with a family of six children to support. She was largely aided by her sons, and is now living with her son Leon, who is editor of the Osceola (Arkansas) Times. The other children are Charles A. (a stock dealer of California), T. L., Mary (wife of G. Valley), Clara (widow of a Mr. Sullivan) and Lulu (wife of G. R. Brickey). The last two are residents of Osceola, Ark. T. L. Roussin began learning the printer's trade at the age of twelve years, his first work being on the Ste. Genevieve Plain Dealer. He gave up this work at the end of three years and went to St. Louis, where he worked with a jeweler and gunsmith until 1861, when he joined Col. Frost's regiment, and was taken prisoner on the 10th of May, but was soon after paroled. He was then a resident of St. Louis until the 1st of July, when he returned to Ste. Genevieve, where he joined a company and went south from Missouri, where he joined Jeff. Thompson in the State service and served until the close of the war. He taught school in Arkansas for some time, and the following three years was a clerk at Memphis, Tenn., in the transfer department of the Charleston & Memphis Railroad. He was proprietor of the Gayoso Democrat, in Pemiscot County, Mo., and later had an interest in a paper at Bolivar, Tenn. This interest, however, he soon sold out and came to Piedmont, Mo., where he started the Vindicator, but later moved to Bloomfield, where he sold out. He then edited the Farmington Reveille for one year, and then came back to Piedmont and started the Banner, which he conducted until 1883. After that time he farmed, and is now the owner of 230 acres of land. Recently he has started the Wayne County Democrat as editor and proprietor, at Piedmont, Mo. In 1882 Mr. Roussin was united in marriage to Sarah E. Carter, who was born and reared in Ohio. In 1882 he was appointed judge of the probate court for one year, to fill a vacancy.

Lafayette Rubottom, one of the pioneer farmers of Wayne County, Mo., was born on the farm where he now lives on November 1, 1824. His parents were Ezekiel and Parmelia (Parish) Rubottom, and his grandfather was Simon Rubottom. The latter was born in Wales, and came with his uncle to the United States, and died in North Carolina. He was a surgeon in the Revolutionary War. Joseph Parish, father of Mrs. Rubottom, was born near Richmond, Va., and served seven years in the Revolutionary War. He was in all the principal battles that were fought under Gen. Green, and was at the siege of Yorktown. He lived to be eighty-six years of age, and his wife to be eighty-seven. Ezekiel Rubottom came to Missouri in 1806, and a year later located in Wayne County, where he entered eighty acres of land. He was one of the very earliest settlers, and in 1822 was elected to the Legislature and served two terms. He held the offices of county judge, county treasurer and justice of the peace for many years, and had unbounded influence in the county. He was a member of the Baptist Church, and a Mason, and died in 1856 at the age of eighty-six years. His wife died in 1844, during the cholera epidemic. They were the parents of twelve children, eight of whom grew to maturity, but only three of whom are now living: Lafayette, Thomas P. and Simon T. Lafayette Rubottom is the owner of 280 acres of fine land. In 1862 he enlisted in Company A, Eleventh Missouri Infantry, and after serving for twelve months was transferred to the cavalry, and served faithfully for two years and three months. February 7, 1850, he was married to Martha Creasy, by whom he is the father of six children: Ezekiel C., Mary E., Frances P., Richard M., Benjamin H. and Sallie P. Mr. and Mrs. Rubottom are members of the Baptist Church, and he is a Mason and a member of the Farmers' Alliance.

John P. Sebastian, M. D., is a son of Edwin C. and Artemissa E. (Pettet) Sebastian, and was born in St. Francois County, Mo., in 1848. The father was born in Missouri in 1813, and the mother in Texas in 1816. The former was reared by Capt. James Caldwell from infancy, and has made farming his occupation through life, and at one time was quite an extensive slave holder. Of his ten children seven are now living. He was a member of the State Legislature for two years, and was elected sheriff of St. Francois County in 1846. He was also county judge for several years. His son, John P., remained at home until 1871, at which date he graduated from the St. Louis Medical College, and soon after located in Greenville. At a later period he went to Iron County, but a short time after came to Patterson, where he has met with good success in the practice of his profession. He is a member of the Southeast Missouri Medical Association. In 1879 he was united in the bonds of matrimony to Alice M. McGhee, who has borne him two children, Grace and Merkie. He has always voted the Democratic ticket.

Andrew J. Seabaugh was born in Bollinger County, Mo., in 1861, and is the son of Andrew and Margaret (Cook) Seabaugh, who were also born in Bollinger County, and inherited land from their parents, who were very early settlers of that county. Andrew Seabaugh married, August 29, 1886, Martha Deaton, and has one child, Albert. He (Andrew) is a very large planter for Wayne County. He owns several head of stock and other property. His father died January 11, 1885, leaving a wife and two sons, Andrew's brother being Jake Seabaugh.

E. P. Settle, county treasurer of Wayne County, was born in Bollinger County, Mo., July 17, 1834. He is a son of William W. and Sarah (Barrett) Settle, who were natives respectively of Tennessee and Alabama. They came to Missouri in 1834, and entered about 400 acres of land in Madison County. About three acres were under cultivation, and the rest was densely timbered. He died in October, 1870, and the mother in 1857. The father was a minister of the gospel for about thirty-five years, and built up many of the churches in the southeast part of Missouri. He was employed in the years 1836, 1837 and 1838 as missionary by the Home Mission Board of New York, for Southeast Missouri. He was the father of four children, who lived to be grown, only two of whom are now living: Edward P. and John. Edward P. was reared principally in Madison County, on a farm, receiving such education as the schools of that day afforded. In 1861 he joined the State militia for six months, and in September, 1864, he enlisted in Company H, Forty-seventh Missouri Infantry, and was mustered out March 29, 1865. He held the rank of second lieutenant, and was in the engagement at Pilot Knob. From 1865 to 1870 he was a farmer of Wayne County, but since the latter date has been a resident of Greenville, and was county and circuit court clerk up to 1889. Since 1883 he has been engaged in the practice of the law. For nearly sixteen years he has held various offices. In 1857 he was married to Martha H. Wallen, by whom he became the father of three children: Martha, John and Lucy. The wife died in 1872, and in 1873 he wedded Mary F. Giles, by whom he has six children: Anna, Carrie, Willie, Newton, Charles and Frank. Mr. and Mrs. Settle are members of the Baptist Church, and he is a member of the Masonic fraternity and of the A. O. U. W.

William H. Shanks was born in Cape Girardeau County, Mo., and is the son of Solomon and Rachel (Davis) Shanks. The father was born in New York, but moved to Kentucky, where he married. He afterward came to Missouri, and worked as a carpenter. He died in Cape Girardeau in 1849. They had ten children, six of whom are living. William H. was eighteen when his father died, and remained with his mother until her death in 1850, and then started out for himself, going to California in 1852. He was not very lucky; like most of those who went to the gold diggings, his wealth did not come. After the close of the war in 1865 he came back to this State, and located in Cape Girardeau County, and turned his attention to farming. He spent some time in Bollinger County, and then came to Wayne, where he now resides on a place he purchased. He has about eighty acres, with about fifteen cleared and cultivated. He has also a good dwelling. He married in 1866 Caroline Cobb, whose maiden name was Headrick. They have had nine children, four living: William P., Francis C., John Henry and Odie Lee. Mr. Shanks is a member of the Farmers' Alliance. He and his wife attend the Baptist Church.

Rev. David Sheets, stock farmer and superintendent of the county poor farm, was born in Ashe County, N. C., October 9, 1820. His parents, George and Rachel (Young) Sheets, were also born in North Carolina, and were of German descent. George Sheets was a shoe-maker and chair-maker by trade, and the last time his son heard from him (1878) was still residing in Ashe County, N. C. The mother died in 1878. They were the parents of a large family of children, six of whom grew to maturity: Teenia (now deceased), Martin, David, Elizabeth, Polly and Young. At the age of seventeen years, David Sheets went to western North Carolina, and was married to Frances E. Hayes, and four of the six children born to them are living: Mary L., Sarah E., Rachel C. and Dicy E. The mother died in 1853, and in 1854 Mr. Sheets married Mary C. Foster, and by her became the father of ten children, eight living: Nancy J., William M., Merritt M., Buel B., Columbus, Kansas V., John B. and Adome M. Mr. Sheets came with his family to Missouri in 1872, and located in Wayne County, where he owns about 400 acres of land, with 170 acres under cultivation. He has taken care of the poor of Wayne County since 1873. He and family are members of the Baptist Church, and he has been a minister of that church for twenty years. He was ordained in North Carolina.

Francis M. Shipton was born in Iowa, in 1848, and is the son of Jesse and Josephine (Gallion) Shipton. His father was born in Illinois, and his mother in Tennessee, but they moved west in 1859, and located in Shannon County, Mo., and on the outbreak of the war they moved to Washington County, and finally to Illinois, where Mr. Shipton died in 1875, leaving five children, living: Martha Ann, William Henry, Francis M., Sarah Jane and Clantha M. In 1863 Francis M. enlisted in the State militia, and was in Price's raid, where all his company were nearly killed. In 1878 he came to Wayne County, and lived on rented farms for nearly five years, until he purchased his present home, which consists of eighty acres, twenty-five of which are cleared and under cultivation. He married, in 1872, Miss Mary Hightown, and had eight children, seven living: Edward, Stella, Lucy, Robert, John, Ella and Maggie. Mr. Shipton is a member of the Farmers' Alliance, and also of the Baptist Church.

W. F. Short, ex-county judge, was born in Smith County, Tenn., October 9, 1811. He is a son of Thomas R. and Susan (Ferguson) Short, the former a native of Virginia and the latter of Scotland. They moved to Tennessee in 1799, where he practiced medicine, being a graduate of the Philadelphia Medical School. He also followed the occupation of farming. His death occurred in 1836. The mother died in 1817. Only two of their eight children are living: Washington F. and Sarah. At the age of sixteen years, W. F. Short left home, and for nine years was overseer on his uncle's plantation at New Orleans. He then returned home, and in 1837 was married to Miss A. C. Rushing, and by her is the father of the following children: Joseph G., Martha S., Slibert, Lucy E., Bennett and Alexander A. His second wife was Adeline C. Paullus, who bore him three children, all deceased. His third wife was Margaret Bollinger, whom he married in 1865. Their living child is John L. He married his fourth wife, Beersheba Cannon, in 1878. She is a member of the Christian Church. In 1847 he came to Missouri, and has since been a resident of Wayne County, where he owns a fine farm of 300 acres. He served for fourteen years as county and probate judge, and for over three years as county treasurer. He received but little schooling in his boyhood days, but is well versed in the business affairs of life. He has devoted a great deal of his time to the interests of the public, and his efforts have been appreciated by his many friends. He was made a Mason in 1840, and since 1844 has been a member of the I. O. O. F., of which he is a charter member. He is a staunch Democrat in his political views, and is one of the most prominent and influential citizens of Wayne County.

Lysander Sloan was born in Wayne County, in May, 1840, and is the son of Alexander and Nancy (Morrison) Sloan. The father was born in North Carolina, and the mother is a native of this State. His forefathers came to this State in 1807, and located in the Bellevue settlement in Washington County, and were farmers. Lysander's father purchased a farm about eight miles south of Greenville, and upon his death he deeded it to his sons. He died in 1880, leaving seven children, six living: Henry, Lysander, Eliza, James, Alexander, Samuel and John. Lysander attended the district schools. When the war broke out he went to California, and after peace had been declared returned home to his parents, and helped them to regain their fortunes, which had been shattered by the late war. He married, in 1869, Miss Ann Matheson, and had seven children, six of whom are living: Cassey, Frank, Jennie, Luther, Lee and Newton. Upon his marriage he built himself a home on the old homestead. His father willed him 120 acres, with about fifty under cultivation, with all the necessary buildings. He is a member of the Farmers' Alliance.

W. R. Smith, judge of the probate court, a native of Wayne County, Mo., was born March 11, 1852, and is the son of Champ and Pelisia (Rubottom) Smith, who were natives of Tennessee and Missouri, respectively. The paternal grandfather, George Smith, was a Virginian by birth, and was one of the early settlers of Tennessee. He came to Wayne County, Mo., about 1843 and located on Otter Creek, but removed from there to Ripley County, where he died. The maternal grandfather, Ezekiel Rubottom, came to Wayne County about 1801, and here resided until his death. He was a North Carolinian by birth. Champ Smith was about fifteen years of age when he came to Missouri. In 1859 he went to Butler County where he remained for about five years, and in February, 1865, was killed by the Federal troops. He was a farmer by occupation and was the father of the following children: William R., Anna, Mary E., Wayne D. and Mason T. The mother died in 1857. Judge William R. Smith spent his boyhood days on a farm, and after his father's death began working for himself. Through his own efforts he acquired a liberal education, and up to the time of his election as judge has followed the occupation of farming. June 17, 1875, he was united in marriage to Mary E. Roberts, of Wayne County, Mo., and by her is the father of four children, Effie E., Willie E., Hiram N. and Ada A. Mr. Smith is a member of the A. O. U. W. and is an intelligent and cultured gentleman, well fitted for the office he now holds. He and wife are members of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Finis A. Stephens, blacksmith and farmer of Greenville, Mo., was born one mile east of that place, November 13, 1846. The father, Young F. Stephens, was born in Madison County, Mo., and the mother, Emily A. (Atkins) Stephens, was born in Virginia. The father came to Wayne County in his youth, and was here married. He was killed July 4, 1864, by the State militia, because his sympathies were with the South. He was a farmer and blacksmith. His wife died in 1893. Their family consisted of eight children, five of whom survive: Martha (Mrs. I. L. Dale), Amelia (Mrs. C. F. Brill), Finis A., James A. and Eli W. Finis A. Stephens learned the blacksmith trade with his father, and also assisted him in farming. He remained at home until the close of the war, providing for his mother and brothers and sisters. In 1864 he and his mother were banished from the place. They went to Pittsfield, Ill., where for about two years he was steward of a hotel. He then resided in Clarksville, Mo., for about two years, and in 1868 came back to Greenville and resumed working at his trade. He owns eighty acres of land and twelve lots in Greenville. In 1874 Ellen J. Wright became his wife. They have three children, Lulu, Freddie and Marvin. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens are members of the Baptist Church, and he is a man who has been identified with the interests of the county for nearly three-quarters of a century.

Peter Stilts was born in Germany in the year 1841, and is the son of Peter J. and Gertrude (Metzen) Stilts. His parents moved to this country from Germany in 1846, and located in St. Louis, where he obtained employment. In 1867 he joined his son in Wayne County. However, he returned to St. Louis in 1869, and died that year. Mr. Stilts had a family of six children, three of whom are living: Joe, Anthony and Peter, the subject of this sketch. Peter lived with his father until his seventeenth year, and becoming dissatisfied, he left home, and came down to Wayne County, engaging himself with farmers from time to time, until the war broke out in 1861, when he enlisted in the State Guards. After it disbanded he went in the regular army, Company B, Second Missouri, under Col. McCullough. He served one year, and then went with Marmaduke's command on the west side of the Mississippi, in which company he stayed until 1864. He was in the battle of Corinth, and several other skirmishes. Quitting the army he went to Illinois, staying there one year, and then went to the St. Joe lead mines. He returned to Wayne County, and located on his present farm, a very fine one, which he purchased in 1873. It consists of 320 acres, about 200 of which are under cultivation, well improved, with good dwellings and out-buildings. This is said to be one of the best farms in Wayne County. Mr. Stilts was married in 1867 to Mrs. McGee, a widow with four children: Martha E., Thomas, Catherine S. and Daniel C. Mr. Stilts is the father of six children, four living: Peter F., Louretha A., John Henry and Flora J. Mr. Stilts is a member of the Farmers' Alliance, and is also a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as is his wife.

John G. Swezea, a prominent farmer and native of Wayne County, Mo., was born in 1841. He is a son of James N. and Catherine (Brown) Swezea, and grandson of Charles and Elizabeth Swezea. The latter couple came from Hickman County, Tenn., to Missouri in 1821, and were among the very earliest settlers of the county. They were the parents of five sons and three daughters. Charles is the only one now living. James N. Swezea was born in Tennessee, in 1817, being the next to the youngest in the family. He farmed in Wayne County until his death, which occurred in 1861. He was the father of eight children, two of whom are living: John G. and James N. Marquois and Mary died after reaching maturity. The mother died in 1859. In 1861 John G. Swezea joined Col. Green's regiment, Marmaduke's brigade, and served until the close of the war, when he came home, purchased a horse, and began farming. He first rented the farm where he now lives for four years, and in 1883 purchased the farm. The total amount of his land is 560 acres, with 350 under cultivation. He was married, in 1862, to Catherine Williams. The Williams family were old settlers of the county, but Mrs. Swezea is the only one of the family who is now living. Both Mr. and Mrs. Swezea are members of the Baptist Church. He has made two trips to Washington Territory, California and Oregon, making the last trip in 1882.

Rev. Alson G. Twidwell was born in Davidson County, N. C., on October 13, 1824. His parents, Obadiah and Elizabeth (Canady) Twidwell, were also natives of North Carolina, the former of whom, in 1837, moved to Johnson County, East Tenn., where the mother died in 1857. The father was a mechanic, and was noted for being a fine cooper. He moved to Wayne County, Mo., in 1857, and there died about 1860. Four of his ten children are living: Mary (Reggons), William, Alson G. and Nancy (Heath). Alson G. Twidwell learned the blacksmith's trade and also wagon-making, and is said to be the best blacksmith in Wayne County. He became a minister of the Baptist Church while in East Tennessee, and was ordained after coming to Missouri. His residence in Wayne County dates from the fall of 1857. He has been a devoted worker for the cause of Christianity, and for thirty-five years has been a minister of the gospel. He owns 200 acres of land, a portion of which he entered on coming to Missouri. He has a blacksmith shop and grist mill, and does his own blacksmithing and milling. January 21, 1844, he married Elizabeth Heath, of East Tennessee, who bore him nine children, six living: Tabitha (Mrs. William B. Graham), Amanda (Mrs. F. M. Bennett), Obadiah E. (who married Margaret Bollinger), Sarah (Mrs. Samuel H. Hood), Nancy C. (Mrs. James Clark) and Mary (Mrs. A. J. White). Mr. Twidwell has proved a valuable citizen of Wayne County, and is one of its progressive and enterprising farmers, energetic and painstaking in all he does.

G. W. Toney, M. D., was born in New Madrid County, Mo., December 17, 1854. He is a son of William K. and Rebecca (Pettet) Toney, who were born in Wayne County, Mo. The paternal grandparents were born in Virginia, and came to Missouri about 1810. The grandfather, John L. Toney, was a graduate of a medical college in Virginia, where he practiced for some years. After coming to Missouri he farmed, and also practiced medicine. He died in 1856. He was in the War of 1812. William K. Toney was a farmer, and served as sheriff and collector of Wayne County for some time. When the war broke out he threw up his business, and enlisted in the service. He did not serve long, however, owing to disability. He was a prominent man and a good citizen, and died in 1863. His widow is still living. Three of their four children are living: George W., William P. and Sarah E. (Mrs. T. A. Johnson). G. W. Toney was reared and educated in Wayne County. At the age of eighteen he began the study of medicine, and in the spring of 1879 graduated from the St. Louis Medical College, and has since been a successful practitioner of Wayne County. Dr. Toney was married, in 1883, to Lizzie L. Barnett, a native of Illinois, by whom he has two children, Elliott and George H. Mrs. Toney is a member of the Baptist Church.

Rev. Luther M. Wagner, president of the Concordia College, of Gravelton, Mo., was born in Washington County, Tenn., in 1851, being the son of John Adam and Sophia (Smith) Wagner, who were born in Pendleton County, Va., in 1807 and 1813, respectively. John Adam Wagner was the son of Lewis Adam Wagner, who was born in 1746, in Germany. He married Barbara Watmiller, also of Germany, and settled in Pendleton County, Va. They had nine children, Sophia (Smith) Wagner is the daughter of William Smith, son of ——— Smith, of England; his wife (of Ireland) was the great-granddaughter of ——— Fisher, of Germany. John Adam Wagner was a very active officer in the Lutheran Church for many years. Himself and wife, as stated, were of German descent, and in 1846, moved to East Tennessee, where the father followed carpentering, and he was also one of the finest cabinet-makers the county afforded. His death occurred in 1885. His children are all living, and are Louisa, John A., Lydia J., Deniza, McChesney, Virginia E. and Luther M. The mother is living in Tennessee with her daughter, Mrs. Lydia J. Bradshaw, wife of Maj. Bradshaw. John A. was a captain in the Union army during the late war, and McChesney served in the same regiment, Fourth Tennessee Infantry Volunteers. The former is now a prominent architect, and the latter is representing Washington County, Tenn., in the State Legislature. Luther M. Wagner remained at home until nineteen years of age, receiving good educational advantages, and was graduated from Mosheim College in 1875, receiving the title of B. A. He was ordained a minister of the Lutheran Church the same year, and spent the following year preaching the gospel in Barton and Polk Counties, Mo. He received the degree A. M. in 1880. In 1877 he came to his present location, and here organized the Concordia College, which opened with an attendance of seventy pupils, and now has an enrollment of 120. It is in a very prosperous condition, and is spoken of in very complimentary terms by the best citizens of the county. He is also the present pastor of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church. In 1879 he was married to Mary Emeline B. Whitener, a daughter of F. E. Whitener, and granddaughter of Rev. J. R. Moser. She was born in 1861, in Bollinger County, and is the mother of four children: Viola Virginia, John A. F., Charles L. (deceased) and Effie S. C. Mr. Wagner has a farm of 180 acres, with seventy acres under cultivation.

John H. Walker was born in this county (Wayne) in 1858, and is the son of Hiram and Nancy Walker. His father was a farmer, and lives in this county, upon land which he owns, ten miles south of Greenville. Mr. John Walker left his father when he was only eighteen years old, and started in life for himself. He worked in saw-mills for two years, and at other kinds of work until 1878, when he married Miss Margaret A. Cobb, and has had four children: Artie L., Nellie R., William B. and Lillie B. He was educated at the public schools, and received a very fair education, considering the advantages one had in those days. He owns a creek bottom farm, consisting of about 136 acres, with about fifty acres cleared and fenced. He is a member of the Farmers' Alliance. He and wife are members of the Baptist Church.

Yancy Ward was born in North Carolina, in 1836, and is the son of Joshua and Mary (Williams) Ward, who were also born in North Carolina. Joshua took part in the War of 1812, under Gen. Porter. His father, William, also went through that war, without injury. He died at the age of ninety-four, on July 22, 1854. Joshua Ward died in 1866, in North Carolina, at the age of eighty-four, leaving six children, five living: James, Eliza, Susan, Andrew and Yancy (the subject of this sketch). The latter lived with his father until his death. He entered the Confederate service during the war, and enlisted in Company G, Forty-fourth Regiment, North Carolina Militia, and served three years. He was in the battle of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania Courthouse, Malvern Hill, Chickahominy, White Oak Swamp (south of Petersburg), Culpepper Courthouse, Fredericksburg, Cold Arbor, Cedar Run and other skirmishes. Mr. Ward escaped through the entire war without a scratch. He was taken a prisoner at Petersburg, and held until the close of the war. He then returned to North Carolina, and settled down to farming. In 1866 he married Miss Nancy Ward, and has seven children: Josephine, Mary Jane, Thomas, Rebecca, Edgar and Talitha; Minnie Ellen is dead. Mr. Ward is a member of the Agricultural Wheel. He came from North Carolina to Wayne County, Mo., in 1874, and purchased his present home. It consists of eighty acres of good land, with about thirty-five acres cleared and improved. He thinks there are minerals on his place—iron and lead. Mr. Ward's two daughters are members of the Baptist Church. His great-grandfather, upon starting for this country, was concealed in a salt barrel, from which hiding-place he emerged after getting out at sea. He served in the Revolutionary War under Washington, and was killed at the battle of Waterloo.

Meshach Ward was born in North Carolina, in Orange County, in 1804, and is the son of William and Deliah (Compton) Ward, who were also natives of that State, and died when Meshach was only eight years old. He was raised by Caleb Wilson, with whom he remained until he was twenty-two. He married his guardian's niece, immigrated to Tennessee in 1826, and located near Columbia, on the Duck River, and went to farming, where he remained four years. He went from there to West Tennessee, locating at Paris in that county, where he remained for thirteen years, after which he went further west, and moved to Wayne County, Mo., where he has since lived. He married, in 1825, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, and has fourteen children, four living: Mary Jane (married to William Bennett, and has fourteen children), Mahala C. (married to Alexander C. Tarlton, and has six children), Francis M. and Iveson M. (married to Martha Warmack, and has seven children). Although not enlisted in the war, Mr. Ward was in several skirmishes. He was elected justice of the peace and served two years, serving in the capacity of judge of the county court for two years. He located on his present home in 1850, which he deeded to his son some years ago. Both he and his father live together on the old home. This son, who takes care of his father in his old age, was born in West Tennessee, in 1836, and moved with his parents to this county, and has always lived with his father. He never married. He entered the army in 1861, and enlisted in Company C, commanded by Capt. Hale, in which he served until the close of the war. He has 320 acres of land, with about sixty acres under cultivation, with dwellings and all necessary out-buildings. There is said to be large deposits of iron on the place, and it requires only the necessary means to develop the mines.

William Warmack, of the firm of Lacy & Warmack, merchants, of Greenville, Mo., was born in the county where he now resides June 25, 1854, his parents being Richard and Mary (Skiles) Warmack, who were born in Tennessee and Missouri, respectively. The paternal grandfather, Matthew Warmack, came with his family to Missouri at an early date. He was among the very early settlers of the county. His son Richard was married in Wayne County, and reared a large family of children, ten in all, only three of whom are living: Mary, James and William. He was an extensive farmer and stock dealer. He died in December, 1866, and the mother in December, 1861. William Warmack remained on the home farm until twenty-one years of age, receiving a liberal education. He has been engaged in various kinds of business, and has held the office of county sheriff. In 1885 he engaged in the mercantile business with A. T. Lacy, and has continued the same with good success. The firm is known as Lacy & Warmack. December 25, 1881, he married Jennie McGhee, and of their three children two are living, Nannie and Mamie. He served in the Mexican War, and served in the late war in Company K, Sixty-eighth Kentucky Enrolled State Militia. In 1863 he was wounded in the side and lung by a gunshot. His marriage with Louisiana Sanderson occurred on the 28th of October, 1836. Their children are Edward A., Arthur N., Emily J., Henry C. and Peter (died in infancy). The mother of the above children died in 1844, and Mr. Wilkinson then married Sarah A. Young, who was born in Macon County, Tenn., in 1822, and died in 1854, having borne three children, two children who died in infancy and Judy Ann, who died in 1886. Arthur N., son of John M., was born in Smith County, Tenn., December 6, 1838, and remained with his father until his marriage with Sarah A. Cole, September 16, 1868. The following are their children: James T., Louella, John F. and Daniel W. The mother died June 14, 1883. The family are church members.

W. B. Wilson was born in what is now Cape Girardeau County, Mo., June 1, 1830. He is a son of John and Jane (McDowell) Wilson, natives of North Carolina, and early immigrants to Missouri. Of their ten children, three are living at the present time: Sarah (Mrs. Philip Schell), William B. and Pressia M. The father was a farmer by occupation. W. B. Wilson was seven years of age when his father died. He remained with his mother until about twenty-six years of age, and in 1851 went to Southern California, where he mined for about a year, but owing to ill-health was compelled to give up that work. He remained about four years longer, engaged in farming, and then came home. He followed farming and merchandising until 1864, when he joined Company G, Forty-seventh Missouri Volunteers, and was commissioned first lieutenant. He was afterward commissioned captain, and served until peace was declared. In 1866 he moved to Wayne County, and located on the St. Francois River, about fifteen miles from where he now lives. In the fall of the same year he moved to his present farm, which consists of 1,500 acres of fine land. March 19, 1857, he married Margaret Whyfark, who died in 1862, leaving one child, Nevada. April 13, 1863, he wedded Elizabeth Harrison, and by her became the father of five children, four of whom are living; Monroe, George, Jane and Lucy. This wife died September 16, 1879, and August 1, 1880, he was united in marriage to Martha (Sebastian) Thompson, and by her has two children, Florence and John. Mr. Wilson is a Mason, and is one of the substantial and intelligent men of the county. He was elected county treasurer at one time without his consent, but would not serve.

John W. Wilson was born in Wayne County, in 1824, and is the son of Josiah and Sarah (McBride) Wilson. The parents came to this State in 1812, locating at the head of Black River. The father was in the War of 1812-15, but was fortunate to escape without a wound. He died in 1850 in Wayne County, leaving three children: Madison, Mary and John W. The latter remained with his father until he was grown to manhood, receiving a very fair education at the country schools. He married in 1852, and had seven children, two living: Nathaniel G. and Martha A. At his marriage he received, with his wife, forty acres of land, their present home. He has since added to it at different times about 140 acres. He owns a half interest in another ninety-two acres. He is an Oddfellow. He has been a member of the Baptist Church for forty-one years.

Francis M. Womack, a native of Pope County, Ill., was born in the year 1837, and is the son of Ranson P. and Martha J. (Hogg) Womack. The father was born in Tennessee, and the mother in Illinois. He moved to Illinois and married, and died a few years afterward, leaving five children, two of whom are living: Martha (married to Iveson Ward) and Francis M., the subject of this sketch. He was about ten years old when he lost his father, but remained with his mother until grown to manhood, attending the schools in his vicinity, although the advantages of education were very limited at this period. He married in the fall of 1874, Miss Jerusha Bennett, by whom he has six children, three living: Arizona, Thomas and James. In 1861 Mr. Womack entered the army, and enlisted in Company F, Sixth Missouri Cavalry, in which he served over three years, and was discharged. He was in the siege of Vicksburg, after which he was put under charge of Gen. Banks, through Louisiana and Texas. He was at Sabine Cross-roads and Pleasant Hill, where he had to take part in the struggle, which lasted about forty days. The Confederates were commanded by Gen. Kirby Smith, when he was compelled to retreat. On his return from the war he returned to Wayne County, Mo., where he farmed and is following that occupation. He was registering officer of this county shortly after the war, which position he held for one year. He is a member of the G. A. R. and Wheelers of Wayne County. He purchased his present home about 1865, which comprises 400 acres, with about 150 in cultivation, being one of the largest farms in the township. He owns besides this 600 acres, of which there are about eighty acres under cultivation, this making Mr. Womack one of the largest farmers in Wayne County. Both places are well improved, and have good dwellings on them. He owns some town property in Wappapello. He is a Republican in politics.

James E. Wynn was born in Dent County, Mo., in 1854. His mother's maiden name was Arminta Causey. His father, Daniel O. Wynn, was born in North Carolina, and when but a young man immigrated to Tennessee and from that State to Illinois, finally settling in Dent County, Mo., where he lived for twelve years, devoting his time to agricultural pursuits. He was in the late war serving in the State Militia as a private, and was confined in the Salem guard-house for several months. The mother was born in Tennessee, where she lived until her marriage with Mr. Wynn, when she left her native State for Illinois, and then went with her family to Dent County. There were six children, five of whom are now living: John W., Arminta, Jane F., James E. and Jasper. James Wynn, the subject of this sketch, lived in Dent County until twelve years of age, and with his father came to this county in 1886. He was twenty-one years of age when he married Nancy Jane Harris, daughter of S. A. Harris, one of Wayne's pioneer settlers. Mr. Wynn is the father of three children, all now living: Evan M., Cora and Daniel S. Mr. Wynn's advantages for an education were very limited, therefore he had only a common school education. He is a carpenter by trade, but has never followed it for a living. He has spent most of his life farming and stock raising, although sometimes taking a hand at his old trade. Mr. and Mrs. Wynn are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Wynn is a member of the Farmers' Alliance. He has eighty acres of land, thirty being under cultivation.

Joel Yancey is a Virginian by birth, born August 13, 1830. His parents, Robert J. and Catherine L. (Ross) Yancey, were also Virginians and were of Welsh descent. Great-grandfather Yancey and three brothers came to the United States from Wales, and settled in Virginia and Kentucky. One of the brothers was killed at the battle of Eutaw Springs, S. C., during the Revolutionary War. The grandfather, Joel Yancey, served as major in the War of 1812. He died in Virginia. Robert J. Yancey and wife came to Missouri in 1835, and soon became residents of Wayne County. The father was a lawyer by profession, but after coming to Missouri followed the occupation of farming, and at the time of his death was a poor citizen. His death occurred in July, 1861. He was county clerk at one time, and for many years was justice of the peace. Five of their eight children are living: Joel, Mattie A., Jennie, Charles D. and Virginus R. The eldest of these, Joel, was about nine years old when he came to this county. He made his parents' house his home until the breaking out of the war, and he immediately enlisted in the Missouri State Guards and served six months. In 1862 he enlisted in Company B, Fourth Missouri Infantry, Confederate States army, and served until the close of the war. He rose to the rank of second lieutenant, and was a participant in the battles of Fredericktown, Mo., Prairie Grove, Helena, Ark., Little Rock, Jenkins' Ferry, Pleasant Hill and Sabine Cross Roads, La. He was also in several sharp skirmishes but was not seriously wounded during his entire service. After returning home he worked at the carpenter's trade, and also wagon and carriage making, in connection with farming. He owns about 315 acres of land, and is one of the thrifty farmers of the county. October 22, 1858, he married Alice Q. Taylor, and by her became the father of ten children, only eight of whom are living: Charles R., John L., William L., Jesse B., Lawrence R., Margaret V., Mary A. and Zenia R. The wife died March 31, 1875. Mr. Yancey is a Mason and was Worshipful Master of the Blue Lodge for six years, and was District Deputy Grand Master for ten years. He has taken the Royal Select Master's degree and was Noble Grand of the I. O. O. F. He has always taken a great interest in these organizations.

DUNKLIN COUNTY.

Joseph R. Allgood, sheriff at Kennett, Mo., is a native of Daviess County, Ky., born September 13, 1853, and is the son of A. S. Allgood, also a native of Kentucky. The father grew to manhood in his native State, and there married Miss Matilda Waltrip, also a native of that State. The parents are now living in Daviess County, Ky., and the father is a farmer by occupation. Their son, Joseph R. Allgood, attained his majority on the farm in Daviess County, and there received a common school education. In 1877 he came to Missouri and located in Dunklin County, in October of that year. He farmed for some time, and then engaged in the grocery business at Clarkton for five years. He then went to Holcomb, and here clerked for some time. He was elected constable there and served two years. March 14, 1880, he married Miss Lena Franklin, a native of Dunklin County, and a daughter of Robert Franklin (deceased). Mrs. Allgood died April 16, 1881, leaving one child, who died at the age of six months. In November, 1886, Mr. Allgood was elected sheriff of Dunklin County, and is at present filling that office in a capable and efficient manner. He is a member of the I. O. O. F. and also a member of the A. O. U. W.

John P. Allen was born near Cairo, Ill., on the 20th of December, 1845. His father, Alexander Allen, was born in Scotland and came to the United States when a lad of fourteen years old. He made his home in Indiana until reaching years of maturity, when he moved to Illinois, and there married Louisa Parker, a native of that State. They were tillers of the soil, at Cairo, Ill., until the father's death. The mother is a resident of Dexter, Mo. After reaching man's estate, John P. Allen began clerking in a store in Cairo, and there laid the foundation for a successful business career in after-life. He came from Cairo to Missouri in 1878, and clerked for several years, and in 1888 began business for himself. The firm carry a large and select stock of hardware and furniture, and are doing a successful business. May 15, 1870, he married Julia A. Martin, a native of Illinois, and daughter of Thomas Martin (deceased). They have five children living: Ida, Watson, Martin, Fred and Stella. Mr. Allen is a member of the Masonic, I. O. O. F. and K. of H. fraternities.

Eli T. Anderson, M. D., physician and surgeon and merchant at Hornersville, Mo., is a native of Lebanon, Ind., where he was born December 20, 1844, being the son of Henry Anderson, also a native of Indiana, where he grew to manhood, and there married Miss Elizabeth Miller, a native of Tennessee. After marriage, and in 1850, they removed to Iowa, locating in Madison County, and there resided until 1854, when the father died and Mrs. Anderson removed to her own people in Claiborne County, Tenn. She now resides at Nobleville, Ind. The Doctor spent his youthful days in Claiborne County, Tenn., and at the age of sixteen, August 9, 1861, he enlisted in the First Tennessee Regiment for three years, under Col. R. K. Byrd. He was discharged at Nashville, in August, 1864, at the end of three years, as a non-commissioned officer. He participated in the battles of Wild Cat and Mill Spring, Ky., Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, where he was taken prisoner and held nine months at Libby prison; was also at Danville and at Andersonville, Ga., where he made his escape, reaching his regiment much reduced in health. He was unfit for duty and went home on a furlough, where he remained until the expiration of his time. The Doctor then returned to Indiana, remained there several years, and then commenced the study of medicine in his native town, under Dr. Bounnell, one of the leading physicians of Lebanon. Dr. Anderson took his first course of lectures in the winter of 1868-69 at Indianapolis (the Medical College of Indiana). He then located at Waynetown, Ind., and there practiced for two years. In the winter of 1871-72 he took a second course of lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Indianapolis, after which he returned to Waynetown and continued his practice there. During the winter of 1876-77, he returned to the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and graduated from that institution in February, 1877. He then returned to Waynetown, and shortly afterward moved to Missouri, locating at Cotton Plant, Dunklin County, and has practiced in this county since that time. The Doctor located at Hornersville in the summer of 1886, and has been in the drug business since 1884. He put in a general stock of goods after coming to Hornersville, and has had a good trade ever since. In connection with this he practices his profession. The Doctor was first married in 1864 to Miss Julia Lynch, a native of Campbell County, Tenn. After her death the Doctor (April 24, 1888) married his present wife, Mrs. Josie H. Egan, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, where she was reared and educated. The Doctor is a member of the Methodist Church, and is a member of both the Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges.

Hon. Henry A. Applegate was born in Burlington, N. J., on the 28th of December, 1828. His father, Dr. H. A. Applegate, was born in the same State. He was a graduate of Princeton College, and took a medical course at Philadelphia. In 1839 he moved to Tennessee, and located in Obion County, where he purchased land and resided until his death. Hon. Henry A. Applegate resided in Tennessee until he attained man's estate, and received a good education in the common and high schools. He was married in Obion County, in 1854, to Mary E. McMurray, who died in the fall of 1863, leaving one child, Mary E., who is the wife of Monroe Dement. He came to Dunklin County, Mo., in the fall of 1857, where he purchased land and now resides. His family came here a year later. He has a farm of 170 acres with good buildings. In his political views he was formerly an old line Whig, but since the war has affiliated with the Democrat party. In 1865 he was elected to represent Dunklin County in the State Legislature, and at the expiration of that term was re-elected for another term. In the fall of 1870 he was again elected, and represented the county two terms. He has since been attending to his farm. During the war he was captain of an independent company for some time, and was in several engagements. In 1863 he began selling goods in New Madrid, but two years later moved his stock of goods to Dunklin County, and continued the same until 1868. In August, 1867, Mr. Applegate married Mary E. Patton. She died April 2, 1875, and their daughter Florence is now keeping house for her father. He is a member of the Agricultural Wheel.

A. C. Austin was born May 19, 1826, in Henderson County, Tenn., the son of Charles Austin. With a rural experience familiar to most farmer boys, he became a man, and in November, 1846, was married to Miss Margaret Frazier. It was in 1859 that they left Tennessee, located in Dunklin County, Mo., and opened up a farm near where he now resides. Since then he has had a varied experience in hunting, farming, acting as constable, census-taker, and enroller of the school children, so that he is well known, and has, himself, an extensive knowledge of the county. He now owns forty acres of land, thirty-four acres of which are in good cultivation and well-improved. His residence of twenty-eight years in the county decides him in making it his permanent home. In 1874 Mr. Austin was elected assessor. His family of five children are all now married, and live in this county. He tells of a peculiar metal found by him during the war, and of their making bullets of it, the material being somewhat harder than lead. He is well informed on the statistics and general information of the whole region. Mr. Austin was a fond and successful hunter in all the early days of the county, and did space but permit, many interesting anecdotes might be related of the game brought down by his trusty rifle.

Rev. Martin V. Baird was born near Lebanon, Wilson Co., Tenn., June 7, 1837. His parents were Thomas and Mary (Martin) Baird, and they were born in the same State and county as himself. The family came to Missouri in 1860, and located in Dunklin County. After making some improvements on a farm which he bought, the father moved to Clay County, Ark., where he resided until his death, in November, 1876. From thirteen years of age until he attained manhood, Martin V. Baird resided in Gibson County, Tenn. He became a professor of religion, when quite a small boy, and joined the Baptist Church, and, at an early period, began his studies for the ministry. He was licensed to preach in 1864, but did not do any extensive work until 1870. About the close of the war Mr. Baird purchased his father's old farm, and has cleared and made valuable improvements thereon. His farm consists of about 420 acres, with 200 acres under cultivation. He has a good residence and out-buildings, and a large orchard. March 30, 1860, he was married to Ollie B. Hopper, a native of Scott County, Ark. They have two sons, Walter P. and Thomas J. The eldest is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, and both have completed the elementary course in the Normal School at Cape Girardeau, and are teachers in Dunklin County. The father is a Mason, and a member of the I. O. O. F.

Judge John W. Baker was born in Russellville, Logan Co., Ky., June 20, 1830, and is a son of William C. M. Baker and wife. Mrs. Ann (Rayburn) Dunscomb. The father was born in Virginia, and reared in Logan County, Ky., and from 1831 to 1835 was a resident of Canton, Miss. He was a soldier in the Mexican War, and was killed at the battle of Alamo. John W. Baker was then taken back to Kentucky, and, at the age of ten years, was taken to Memphis, Tenn., where he grew to manhood. He was married in Logan County, Ky., August 18, 1858, to Ann Eliza Jones, and, after residing there one year, moved to Dunklin County, Mo., and there farmed until the breaking out of the war, when he moved to Kentucky, and resided in Logan County two years. After again residing a short time in Missouri he went to Texas, and, after a two years' residence there, returned to Missouri and purchased his present property. In 1886 he was elected county judge, and has filled the office to the satisfaction of all. July 26, 1883, Mrs. Baker died. She was the mother of the following family of children: Albert J., Edgar, William, Rayburn, Marietta, Samuel H., Charles, Melinda, Belle and Lucy. Mr. Baker was married to his second wife, Julia A. Miller, November 4, 1885. She is a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and he is a Mason, and the owner of 160 acres of land. He was one of the first men in the county to raise a crop of cotton. This occurred in 1862.

Judge T. E. Baldwin, merchant at Kennett, Mo., and one of the prominent men of Dunklin County, came to the county in 1870, and took charge of a mercantile business at Clarkton for a firm at Cape Girardeau. He remained here one year, and was then elected clerk of the common pleas court, and at the expiration of his term of office he was re-elected, and held the office until the court was abolished under the new constitution of 1875. Two years later, Mr. Baldwin was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of the circuit and county clerk, and, at the next general election in 1878, he was chosen to fill that position. In 1882 Mr. Baldwin was elected probate judge, and filled this position four years. After holding this office two years the judge was elected county treasurer, and both terms of office expired in 1886. Previous to the expiration of his term of office, Mr. Baldwin had entered into partnership with W. F. Shelton in the mercantile business. Mr. Baldwin has had an extensive experience in the mercantile business, having, when a young man, entered the service of A. D. Leech, of Cape Girardeau, one of the most successful and extensive merchants of that city, and with whom he remained a number of years, laying the foundation for a successful and useful life. Mr. Baldwin is a native of Missouri, born in Cape Girardeau County, October 23, 1849. The Baldwin family are among the early settlers from Virginia, and settled in Scott County, Mo. Thomas Baldwin, father of the Judge, was but a child when his parents settled in Scott County. He grew to manhood in Scott County, and there married Miss Elizabeth Lobdell, a native of Louisiana. After marriage Mr. Baldwin moved to Cape Girardeau, where he carried on his trade, that of contractor and builder, until his death in 1859. His wife died the same year. Judge Baldwin was married in Clarkton, Dunklin County, in 1872, to Miss Mary Pankey, daughter of Col. D. Y. Pankey, now of Kennett. Mrs. Baldwin is a native of Virginia, but was reared and educated in Dunklin County. To the Judge and his wife were born four children: Sallie, Edward, Ernst and Paul. Judge Baldwin is a member of both the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges, and he and his wife are members of the Presbyterian Church. He takes a great interest in educational matters, and since coming to Kennett has worked hard for the advancement and building up of the schools of the county.

He was elected to his present position in 1884, and is filling the duties of his office to the satisfaction of all. He was appointed marshal in 1885, but resigned the office in 1888. He was married in Tennessee, in 1868, to Mary Jane Carlock, a native Tennessean, and their union has resulted in the birth of six children: Balor, Mary, Sallie, Lakin, Walter and Elmer. Mr. Bledsoe owns a fine farm of 206 acres, with 140 acres under cultivation. He belongs to the Masonic and I. O. O. F. fraternities, and is Master of his lodge in the former order. His wife is a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

William G. Bragg, circuit clerk and merchant, was born in Knox County, Tenn., September 21, 1852, and is a son of Capt. William G. Bragg, a native of Kentucky, where he was reared and educated, and where he married Miss Francis Tully, also a native of Kentucky. They moved to Missouri about 1827, settled in Knox County, where he engaged in merchandising until 1865, when he removed to Dunklin County, locating in Kennett, and there died in 1888. He was a Republican, politically, and served as circuit clerk for several years, and also served as deputy for some years. He then followed merchandising the remainder of his life. In 1862, while in Knox County, he formed a company and was elected captain, but was not commissioned. William G. Bragg, Jr., moved with his parents to this county, and received a common school education. He began clerking when quite young, and after reaching years of discretion engaged in business for himself, under the firm title of Tatun & Bragg. In May, 1877, he married Miss Kittie Chapman, who bore him nine daughters and three sons. All lived to mature years, but three daughters are now deceased. In 1878 he was elected to the position of clerk, and in 1882 was re-elected to the same position, serving six years. When elected clerk he sold out his mercantile business, but afterward engaged in the same business under the firm title of White & Co. For the past three years Mr. Bragg has owned a fine farm, one and one-half miles south of Kennett, and this he carries on in connection with his mercantile business. Mrs. Bragg was born in Kentucky, is the daughter of Turner Chapman, and a member of the Christian Church. Mr. Bragg is a member of the Kennett Masonic Lodge, and a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Ambrose D. Bridges, farmer and merchant of Union Township, Mo., is a native of Mercer County, Ky., born near Frankfort January 10, 1823, and is the son of William Bridges, a native of Kentucky, who married Miss Nancy Davis, also a native of Kentucky. The father was a farmer and mechanic by occupation, and resided in his native State a great many years. He moved to Missouri in 1844, and settled in what is now Dunklin County, where he died in 1854. A. D. Bridges came to Dunklin County, Mo., with his parents, when a young man of twenty-one, and here married Miss Charlotta Russell, a native of Kentucky. Her father, Jacob Russell, was one of the early settlers. After marriage Mr. and Mrs. Bridges located on the land where they are now living.

They have about 1,500 acres, 700 being cleared, and have good buildings on the same. He first settled in the woods when game was plenty, and many a fat deer or bear has he brought down from his door. He can relate many interesting anecdotes connected with the early history of the county. His family consisted of eleven children, all of whom lived to be grown: Elizabeth (deceased), Minerva W. (wife of Newton Thompson), William (whose sketch follows this), John H. (a merchant at Campbell), W. J. (who died in childhood), Margaret P. (wife of J. F. Laswell), Marion D., Eliza D. (wife of L. Taylor), Sadie Ann (wife of Frank Bristol), Louisiana and Josephine. Mr. Bridges engaged in the saw mill business in about 1861, and followed this business until May, 1888. He also engaged in the mercantile business as silent partner with his son-in-law and sons, and is a member of the firm of Bridges & Sons. He is a Mason of thirty years membership, and Mrs. Bridges is a member of the Baptist Church.

William Bridges, farmer, merchant, and who is also a raiser and dealer in mules, at Campbell, is a native of Dunklin County, Mo., born March 28, 1850, and is the son of A. D. Bridges, a native of Kentucky, who, when a young man, came to Missouri, locating in Dunklin County, and there married Miss Lottie Russell, also a native of Kentucky. Their son, William Bridges, was reared in this county, and spent his early youth upon the farm. In 1871 he engaged in the mercantile business at Four Mile, and also purchased a cotton gin. After remaining here for several years he moved his stock to Malden, and here continued the same business up to January, 1888. During his stay at Malden Mr. Bridges started a store at Campbell, which business he still continues. He carries a large and complete stock of general merchandise, and has also been engaged in carrying on a cotton gin at Campbell, and is extensively engaged in the stock business, buying and selling mules, also handling a great many cattle. He has about 2,600 acres of land, 1,400 acres under cultivation, a part of which is rented out. He is a thorough-going business man, and has been quite successful in all enterprises. August 17, 1871, he married Miss Martha J. Taylor, daughter of L. J. Taylor (deceased), and a native of Dunklin County, Mo., where she attained her growth. To their marriage were born two children, John L. and Effie E. Mr. Bridges is a member of the Masonic lodge, and is a Master Mason.

Cicero C. Capshaw was born in De Kalb County, Ala., on the 20th of April, 1854. His parents, B. W. and Margaret (Lawson) Capshaw, were born in Alabama and South Carolina, respectively. They removed from Alabama to Illinois in 1864, and located in Gallatin County, where they resided until 1872, and in November of that year moved to Missouri, and became a resident of Dunklin County. He died on the farm now owned by Cicero C. in 1879. The latter remained with his father until twenty-two years of age, and then worked in the neighborhood for some time. After the death of his father the farm was sold, and he purchased it. It consists of eighty acres of land, with sixty acres under cultivation. On February 2, 1881, Mr. Capshaw married Callie, daughter of Rev. M. J. Whittaker. She was born and reared in Dunklin County, and is the mother of three children: Olive, Jay and Joseph H. Mr. Capshaw is identified with the Democratic party, and was elected justice of the peace of Freeborn Township in the fall of 1886. Mrs. Capshaw is a member of the Baptist Church.

Reuben S. Chapman, son of Solomon and Feriba (Ferguson) Chapman, was born in the town of Montgomery, Ala., February 3, 1840. The parents were natives of South Carolina and Georgia, respectively, and were married in the last named State. In 1836 they removed to Alabama, but three years later they removed from there to Kentucky, locating where the town of Hickman is now situated. Here the father died, in 1842. Their son, Reuben S., attained his growth in Hickman, and in 1861 enlisted in the Confederate service under Gen. Forrest, in the Twenty-first Tennessee Cavalry Regiment. He surrendered at Gainesville, Ala., in 1865. He participated in the battle of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and Teshamingo Creek, Mississippi, and his regiment made five or six raids through Middle Tennessee, and were under fire fifty-seven days in one year. He followed Forrest through the war, and after the surrender he returned to Hickman, Ky., where he followed contracting and building for some time. In 1872 he removed to Missouri, and located in Dunklin County, at Cotton Plant, and has been with his father ever since. In 1885 he took charge of his father's affairs, and has conducted the business since, to which he gives his whole time and attention. He was elected justice of the peace, and served a part of one term, when he resigned. He was married, at Cotton Plant, December 24, 1876, to Miss Ellen Parker, a native of Dunklin County, and a daughter of Elijah Parker. Two children were born to this marriage: Elbert and Alvin, aged, respectively, eight and six years.

John B. Cook, farmer and stock raiser, near Senath, Mo., was born in Maury County, Tenn., in 1852. His parents came to Missouri in 1859, and located in Salem Township, Dunklin County, where the father of J. B. Cook engaged in farming. Mr. Cook, the subject of this sketch, was married in January, 1874, to Miss Luretta, daughter of David Rice, and at once settled on the farm he now owns, and upon which he lives. This consists of forty acres, under good fence, in excellent cultivation, with good buildings, orchard and other improvements. He also has 160 acres of timber land. This is all the fruit of J. B. and Luretta Cook's independent labor, and they have made property now worth about $4,000. Since 1881 Mr. Cook has served as one of the school directors of his community. Mr. and Mrs. Cook have two children (one girl and a boy): Rosetta A. Cook (born in 1876) and Columbus C. Cook (born in 1879).

Daniel R. Cox, attorney at law and real estate agent, at Malden, Mo., is a native of Marshall County, Tenn., born August 7, 1852, and is a son of Moses and Sarah R. (McWhorter) Cox, who were born in North Carolina and Tennessee, respectively. The father was a farmer and stock trader, and was killed at Gainesville, Greene Co., Ark., in 1867. The mother died in 1860. Daniel R. Cox was reared on a farm in Arkansas, and received a good education in the schools of Little Rock, Ark., and the common schools of the country. He became a resident of Dunklin County, Mo., in January, 1868. He was appointed deputy sheriff and collector of the county in 1872, and held that position four years. He was a disciple of Blackstone during this time, and was admitted to the bar, and shortly after went to Texas, where he was afterward appointed deputy sheriff and collector of Johnson County. He served two years. He returned to Missouri in 1879, and began working for Levi & Co., remaining with them six years. He has a good farm, and gives considerable of his attention to stock raising. In 1887 he engaged in the real estate business with Phillips & Haynes, and is doing well financially. He was married, in Arkansas, September 24, 1874, to Fannie L. Sarver, a native of Tennessee. They have a family of six children: Robert A., Mattie M., George Leslie, Jesse, Ollie and Inez. Mrs. Cox is a member of the Methodist Church, and Mr. Cox is a Mason, and belongs to the I. O. O. F.

William J. Davis, of the firm of Davis & Smyth, is a native of Lawrence County, Tenn., born February 3, 1854, and is the son of John S. Davis, a native of Lawrence County, Tenn., born October 29, 1832, who grew to manhood in his native county, and there married Miss Jane F. Chidress, a native of the same State and county. After marriage Mr. and Mrs. Davis moved to Arkansas, locating in Mississippi County of that State, in 1866, and there remained for two years, and then Mr. Davis removed to Dunklin County, Mo., about 1868. He lost his wife while living in Arkansas, but he is now living and residing in this county. His son, William J. Davis, attained his majority in this county, received a good education in the public schools of Dunklin County, and in Bond County, Ill. He then began clerking at Hornersville, where he remained for about eight years. He was elected county assessor in the fall of 1880, and, at the expiration of two years, was re-elected and served four years. During this time he also carried on farming. December 22, 1881, he married Miss Mary F. Smyth, a native of Dunklin County, and the daughter of J. A. Smyth (deceased). They lost their son Frederick A., who died September 12, 1887, at the age of five years. They also lost two infants. In the spring of 1886 Mr. Davis engaged in merchandising at Hornersville, Mo., and has since continued the business at this place. The present firm was established in the fall of 1886, and a new business house was built in 1888. They have a large, neat store and carry a general stock of merchandise. Mr. Davis was appointed postmaster, first in 1878, and was appointed again in 1886. He is a member of the I. O. O. F., has been through the chairs of this body, is Deputy at the present, and has represented his lodge in the Grand Lodge of Missouri for two terms. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Mrs. Davis is a member of the Baptist Church.

William Jefferson Davis, merchant at Malden, Mo., was born in Obion County, Tenn., August 10, 1862, and is a son of Thomas H. and Minerva J. (Jones) Davis, both of whom were born in Tennessee. They located in Dunklin County, Mo., in 1864, and here the father died the following year. William J. Davis received a common school education, and in 1879 engaged in clerking, and in 1881 began clerking in Malden for Mr. Bridges. Four years later he became a partner in the business, and, in January, 1888, bought out Mr. Bridges, and the firm is now known as Davis & Bailey. This firm has four rooms, carry a large stock of general merchandise, and do an extensive and profitable business. August 24, 1887, he married Cora V. Wilkins, a native of Mississippi. She was educated in Jackson, Tenn. Mr. Davis is a Mason, and is one of the enterprising and successful business men of Dunklin County.

Isam F. Donaldson, merchant at Kennett, Mo., is a native of Tennessee, born in Gibson County, August 31, 1847, and is the son of Judge and Judith (Davis) Donaldson. The father was reared in Wilson County, Tenn., and was married in 1826. His wife was also a native of Wilson County, Tenn., and after their marriage they resided in Wilson County, until 1855, when they moved to Missouri and settled in Dunklin County. Here he died in 1882, and his widow in 1888. Mr. Donaldson served as one of the county judges one or two terms, and was a much respected citizen. Isam F. Donaldson grew to manhood in Dunklin County, and the principal part of his education was received at home, and since coming to years of maturity. He then engaged in farming with his father until thirty years of age, when he was elected constable, and served in that capacity two terms. In 1878 he clerked in a store at Malden, when that town was started, and there remained until the spring of 1882. In April, 1885, he married Miss Penola Rayburn, a native of Dunklin County, where she was reared and educated, and the daughter of W. C. Rayburn. To this union were born two children: Thomas H. and Mabel. Mr. Donaldson is a Democrat in his political views, and was elected to the office of sheriff and collector of Dunklin County, in the fall of 1882. At the expiration of his term he was re-elected, and filled that position for four years. In 1887 the mercantile house in which he does business was erected. He carries a good and complete stock of dry goods, clothing, etc., and has built up a good trade. Mr. Donaldson is a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge at Kennett, and Mrs. Donaldson is a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Asa B. Douglass is a son of Asa B. and Fannie M. (Barksdale) Douglass, and was born in Wilson County, Tenn., July 26, 1834. The father was a native of South Carolina, and became a resident of Missouri in 1856. In 1863 he moved to Texas, and there died in 1864. His wife died in Dunklin, Mo., in 1861. His son, Asa B. Douglass, grew to manhood in Tennessee. He received an excellent education in the higher English branches, mathematics and surveying, and taught one term of school in Dunklin County. He clerked in Clarkton after coming to Missouri, and about the breaking out of the war purchased his present farm of 120 acres. He has a fine apple and peach orchard, and his financial prospects are good. He was married June 15, 1859, to Mary H. Marshall, and by her is the father of eleven children: Fannie (Westfall), Ella (Gwin), Benjamin H., John A., Walter E., Rosa Lee, Kittie Pearl, Asa B., Earl H., Norwell A. and Harry M. One daughter, Mary D., was the wife of W. Y. Taylor, and is dead. Mr. and Mrs. Douglass are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and he is a Democrat in his political views. In 1884 he was elected county surveyor, and is still holding that position.

Rev. Robert H. Douglass was born in Montgomery County, Tenn., February 7, 1839. His father, A. T. Douglass, was a native Virginian, in which State he grew to manhood. He went to Kentucky when a young man, and in that State married Miss Elizabeth Mott, a native of Kentucky. He then located in Tennessee, where he resided for about two years, and then removed to Kentucky, and after residing there ten years returned to Tennessee. In 1850 he moved to Missouri, arriving in Dunklin County November 25 of the same year. He entered land in what is now Clay Township, near where his son, Rev. Douglass, now resides, and there reared his family, three of whom have sketches in this history. Mr. Douglass died in 1876. Rev. Robert H. Douglass was but ten years of age when he came to Missouri with his parents. He received a common education, and finished his growth in Dunklin County. He is mainly self-educated, having spent considerable time in study since he attained his growth. In 1861 he enlisted in the Second Missouri Cavalry (Confederate States army), under Col. Robert McCullough, until the close of the war. However, after his term had expired, he enlisted in the Second Missouri Cavalry in Col. Kitchen's regiment, and participated in a number of engagements, the most important being Corinth and Price's raid through Missouri and Arkansas. At the close of the war Mr. Douglass was paroled, with his regiment, at Wittsburg, Ark. He then returned to his home in Dunklin County, and has ever since been engaged in agricultural pursuits, which he at present continues in connection with ministerial duties. Previous to the war, in 1858, Mr. Douglass married Miss Rebecca J. Wagster, a native of Obion County, Tenn. Three children were born to this union. Two died in infancy, and Thomas J. Douglass, merchant at Nisbet, is living [see sketch elsewhere]. Mr. Douglass married his present wife, Mrs. Mary E. Richardson, in New Madrid County, in August, 1866. She is the daughter of Rudolphus Lamb, one of the early settlers of Madrid County. Two children were born to the last marriage: Robert S. and Mary E. Mr. Douglass located on his present farm in 1870. He was ordained a minister in the Missionary Baptist Church in September, 1881, since which time he has devoted most of his time to the ministry. He has had charge of from one to three churches constantly since that time. Mr. Douglass is a Royal Arch Mason, and has served as High Priest of his chapter, and in other official positions. He is a man who has many friends, and is universally respected.

Judge James M. Douglass, farmer and stock raiser, is the son of A. T. and Elizabeth Douglass, and was born October 27, 1847, in Fulton County, Ky. He came to Missouri at three years of age, and on reaching manhood was married on Christmas day, 1881, to Miss Belle, a daughter of lawyer W. G. Phelan, of Stoddard County, Mo. Mr. Douglass has been largely devoted to farming and stockraising, and has now a fine and extensive estate of 600 acres of good land, with 125 acres under excellent cultivation, and in connection with which he runs a cotton-gin. Besides his busy life in this direction Judge Douglass has an extensive record in public life, in spite of the fact that his early educational advantages were limited to the common school. He was a teacher for some time. In 1877 he was elected to serve an unfinished term as assessor, and was afterward elected by a large majority to the same office. He served, too, as census-taker of his township, and was defeated for the office of county clerk in 1882. In 1884 he was elected district judge, and served with so great satisfaction that two years later he was complimented by having no opposition candidate and was, of course, unanimously elected.

A. W. Douglass, a prosperous farmer of Dunklin County, Mo., is a son of A. T. Douglass, who was born in Virginia, and became an early resident of Kentucky. He came to Missouri in 1849, and here died in 1876. A. W. Douglass was united in marriage in 1874 to Miss Senath Hale, a daughter of T. DeWitt Hale, and became the father of four children, aged respectively thirteen, twelve, nine and seven years. Mr. Douglas is the owner of 160 acres of fertile and well cultivated land. He has good buildings on his premises, and has almost three acres of land in orchard. Besides his home place he has eighty acres of land about four miles from his residence. He is the present justice of the peace of Salem Township, and has held the office for seven years, to the satisfaction of all concerned. He is a highly respected citizen and a prosperous farmer.

Thomas J. Douglass, merchant and notary public, Neshit, Mo., and the son of Rev. R. H. and Rebecca J. (Wagster) Douglass [see sketch elsewhere], was born in Dunklin County, Mo., July 17, 1859. He was reared in his native county, received a good education in the public schools and at the State Normal at Cape Girardeau, where he spent a part of three years, and has taught a part of seven years in Dunklin County. He commenced teaching at the age of seventeen, and continued this in order to have the means to attend school. In March, 1880, he accepted a position as clerk for W. V. Leech, at Cape Girardeau, where he remained for about four months, and then clerked for Satterfield, of this county. In September, 1886, he formed the present partnership. He was married in Dunklin County, December 17, 1885, to Miss Hattie A. Argo, a native of Tennessee, and the daughter of Joseph Argo (deceased), who was formerly of Tennessee. Two children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Douglass, a daughter named Blanche H., who died at the age of five months, and Hulda E., who is now nine months old. Mr. Douglass was appointed notary public in 1882, and re-appointed in February, 1886. He is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, is a member of the Cotton Plant Odd Fellows lodge and is Noble Grand of his order.

Jefferson N. Duckett, blacksmith and wagon-maker at Campbell, Mo., is a native of South Carolina, born April 15, 1850, and is the son of Elijah and Sarah Ann Duckett, both natives of South Carolina. They emigrated from their native State to Georgia, where they resided four years, and then, in 1855, they moved to Alabama, and from there to Mississippi, in 1869. Three years later they moved to Dunklin County, and from there to Arkansas, where they now reside. Jefferson N. Duckett was reared principally in Alabama, where he learned the wagon-maker's trade. He partly learned the blacksmith trade in Mississippi and finished in Dunklin County, where he settled in December, 1872, put up a shop and began blacksmithing and wagon repairing. June 26, 1873, he married Miss Susan E. McCown, a native of Mississippi. Four children were born to this union: Tennie D., Effie, Zula and Lawrence. In February, 1883, Mr. Duckett built the shop where he has since carried on his business. He builds some wagons, but does repair work principally, and hires from one to two men. He is a member of the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges, and is a member of the Baptist Church. Mrs. Duckett is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

George T. Edwards, farmer, of Union Township, was born in what is now Craighead County, Ark., July 2, 1847, and is the son of Reuben and Mary (Lane) Edwards, both natives of Tennessee, where they were married. They then resided in West Tennessee, Middle Tennessee, and afterward moved to Illinois, thence to Arkansas, where the father died, the mother coming finally to Missouri and settling in Dunklin County, about 1855. She purchased a claim and entered the land where G. T. now resides. Mrs. Mary Edwards died in 1876. George T. Edwards attained his growth on this farm, and January 14, 1866, he married Miss Nancy Moren, a native of Dunklin County. She died in her native county in 1875, and left two children: James W. and Mary L. Mr. Edwards took for his second wife, Miss Isabella Ann Davis, also a native of Dunklin County. She died in August, 1885, leaving three children, Joseph T., Bertha A. and Leechey F. May 20, 1886, Mr. Edwards took for his third wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Crawford, a native of Alabama. To this union was born one child, a daughter, America E. Mr. Edwards has lived on the home place the principal part of his life, and to the original eighty acres he has added 120 acres. He has about seventy acres under cultivation. He has been a member of the school board a number of years, is a member of the Wheel, a member of the I. O. O. F. and he and wife are members of the General Baptist Church.

Hon. Thomas R. R. Ely. Among the young men of Dunklin County who have worked their way to the front, and to a position of honor and prominence, is the subject of this sketch. Mr. Ely was born in Atchison County, Mo., January 19, 1859, and is the son of Thomas S. Ely, who was one of the early settlers of Atchison County, coming here in 1840, from Virginia, entering land and remaining here until his death. Hon. Thomas R. R. Ely grew to manhood in his native county, and attended the common schools of the neighborhood. When grown he attended the Westminster College, where he nearly completed the course, and was in the junior year, but was obliged to quit on account of limited means. He next entered the law department of the State University at Columbia, and he graduated from that institution March 31, 1881. In the spring of the same year Mr. Ely came to Dunklin County, and located at Kennett, where he began the practice of his profession. He is Democratic in his political views and has always adhered to the principles of that party. In the fall of 1882, he made the race for prosecuting attorney, of Dunklin County, and was elected to that position. At the expiration of his term, he was again elected and filled that position for four consecutive years. In the fall of 1886 Mr. Ely was elected to represent Dunklin County in the Legislature, and has filled this honorable position with distinction. He is to-day one of the leading men of his party in Dunklin County, and is held in high esteem and confidence by the people of this county. July 20, 1887, he married Miss Lulia Page, a native of Texas, in which State she was reared and educated. Mr. Ely is a member of the I. O. O. F. at Kennett.

R. Millington Finney, attorney at Kennett, is a native of Johnson County, Ill., born December 27, 1855, his father being J. M. Finney, who was born, reared and married in Illinois. Here he resided until his death, following the occupation of a farmer all his life. He held several official positions, and was quite a prominent man in his county. He was sheriff of his county two terms, was also superintendent of county schools, and followed the occupation of a teacher for a short time. He died March 8, 1866. His wife, Mary A. (Smith) Finney, was also a native of Illinois, and is living at the present time. Their son, R. Millington Finney, grew to manhood in Illinois, and received a good education at Southern Illinois Normal School, where he lacked but a few months of completing the course. He had commenced teaching school at the age of seventeen, and after leaving the Normal he resumed teaching, and followed this occupation for five years in Illinois. After coming to Missouri, he taught two years in Dunklin County. He came to this county in the spring of 1881, and while teaching commenced reading law, being admitted to the bar in November, 1883. He then commenced the practice of his profession, and has met with good success. In the spring of 1882, he was elected school commissioner, and re-elected in the spring of 1884, holding the position two terms. In the fall of the last named year he was elected public administrator. In September, 1884, Mr. Finney married Miss Maggie Fletcher, a native of Tennessee, but who was reared and educated in Dunklin County, and who is a daughter of Isaac Fletcher (deceased). To Mr. and Mrs. Finney were born two children, James M. and Nola N. Mr. Finney is a good attorney, a good business man and is a clever gentleman. He is a member of the I. O. O. F., being secretary of the same at the present time, and Mrs. Finney is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Winfield Scott Gardner, merchant at Malden, Mo., was born in Fayette County, Ala., August 2, 1856. The father, J. Q. A. Gardner, was born at Selma, Ala., and there married Mariah E. Bobo, a native of South Carolina, and of French parentage. The Gardner family moved to Illinois in 1863, and located at Anna, where they resided about seven years. In February, 1876, they moved to Missouri, and have since resided in Dunklin County, on a farm. Winfield Scott Gardner received a good education previous to his coming to Missouri. He taught school for some time in Dunklin County, and afterward attended the State Normal School at Cape Girardeau. After teaching again for some time he took a commercial course in the business college, at Keokuk, Iowa. After completing his course he accepted a position as bookkeeper and salesman with the firm of Bridges & Co., remaining with them for eight years. During this time he received a thorough business training, and became conversant with the technicalities of the mercantile business. In March, 1886, he engaged in the business himself, the firm being known as Gregory & Gardner. They carry an excellent stock of goods, and are doing well financially. November 7, 1880, Mr. Gardner married Anna P. Owen, a native of Missouri, and daughter of Dr. R. P. Owen (deceased). She died December 18, 1884, leaving one child, a son, Lyman S. Mr. Gardner is a member of the I. O. O. F., and in his political views is a Republican. He has held several political positions, and has given good satisfaction in the discharge of his duties.

John A. Goodrich was born in the Old North State, and at an early day immigrated to Tennessee, and took up his abode in Newbern, Dyer County. In December, 1865, he was married in that State to Miss Frances Skipper, a daughter of Arthur Skipper, of Gibson County, Tenn. She was born July 11, 1847, and is the mother of six living children. Mr. Goodrich's early educational advantages were quite limited, but he is a man well versed on the general topics of the day. He has 640 acres of good land, 200 acres of which are under cultivation, and four acres in orchard. The farm is in a healthy locality, and there has not been a doctor in his house for eight years. He is forty-eight years of age, and has been a resident of Dunklin County for about sixteen years.

William N. Gum was born June 2, 1822, and is a son of William and Melinda (Nugent) Gum, all of whom were born in Rutherford County, Tenn. The father was a brick-mason, and his son, William N., learned the trade of him and worked at it in Nashville. He was also a stone-mason, and cut some of the stone that was used in the Tennessee State House. He moved to Gibson County, Tenn., in 1852, and after residing for some time in both Weakley and Obion Counties, came to Missouri in 1869, and located on his present farm of 240 acres. He also has a fine farm of 154 acres on Horse Island. Besides this he has land in smaller tracts. He has always been very fond of hunting, and previous to the war his farm was left to the negroes' care, and a great deal of his time was given to hunting. He has killed about 1,000 deer, and some bears, and panthers. January 3, 1847, Mr. Gum was married to Margaret Ward, a daughter of Benjamin Ward (deceased). They have four children: Frances (Folly), Lucy (Thornburg), John A. and James A. Mr. and Mrs. Gum are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Thomas F. Ham, another successful farmer of Clay Township, Dunklin Co., Mo., was born in Dyer County, Tenn., September 25, 1838, and is the son of

T. H. Ham, a native of North Carolina, who was reared there until seventeen years of age, when he moved to Western Tennessee, and was one of the early settlers of that part of the State. While there he married Miss Frances Branch, also a native of North Carolina, and the daughter of John Branch. The grandfather of Thomas F. (John Branch) was government surveyor, and surveyed four counties in Western Tennessee. After marriage the father resided in Dyer County until 1840, and then moved to Missouri, located in what is now Pemiscot County, and purchased land in Missouri and Arkansas. He resided in the first named State for four years, and then moved to Arkansas, where he died in 1858. His son, Thomas F. Ham, was married in Dunklin County, Mo., January 4, 1863, to Miss Mary Ann Amelia Harkey, a native of Georgia, but who was reared in Dunklin County, and who is a daughter of S. J. Harkey, one of the early pioneers of Dunklin County, who is now residing in Salem Township. To Mr. and Mrs. Ham were born eleven children: Thomas H., Frances Elizabeth (both of whom are married), Lewis, Jones Mc., Mary L., John W., Maggie Belle, Sarah L., Clara A., Gracie P. and Allie Hugh (who is an infant). Mr. Ham remained at home until the breaking out of the late war, when he enlisted in the First Missouri Infantry (regular Confederate troops, under Col. Bowen), and participated in a number of engagements. He was in the battle of Shiloh, and was in that engagement two days. He was taken sick in December, 1861, and came home on a furlough, where he remained for a short time, and then returned to his regiment, remaining with the same until after the battle of Shiloh. He was afterward in active service in Price's raid through Missouri and Arkansas. After the close of the war, Mr. Ham returned home and located in Dunklin County, where he has since remained, with the exception of three years that he spent in Wayne County. Mr. Ham has 125 acres of fine land, all under cultivation. He was justice of his township one term, and his wife and all of the children who have arrived at years of maturity are members of the Methodist Church.

Capt. Daniel Haynes, notary public and real-estate agent, is a native of Wayne County, Ill., where he was born June 3, 1848. Asa Haynes, his father, a native of Tennessee, came to Illinois as a young man, and was married to Miss Nancy Turney, a native of Bowling Green, Ky. They led a life of agricultural pursuits there until the father's death, and since then the mother has made her home with the subject of this sketch. Capt. Haynes had little more than the usual farmer boy's educational advantages, except in a short course at Lebanon College. In April, 1861, he enlisted in Company G, Eighteenth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, as a private, and was soon promoted to corporal, then to sergeant and second lieutenant, and in June, 1862, for meritorious services at Fort Donelson and Pittsburg Landing, he was promoted to captain of his company. Among the notable engagements in which he served are Fort Donelson, Pittsburg Landing, second battle of Shiloh, Iuka, the siege of Vicksburg, Little Rock and Mount Elba. He was wounded twice, and in 1864 was mustered out at Springfield. He then returned to his farm, but was soon elected to the office of sheriff, and two years later served a couple of years as deputy. Then for one session of the State Legislature he served as postmaster of the House of Representatives. In 1870 he located in Stoddard County, engaging in farming until 1876, when he located in Dunklin County, and became a sub-contractor on the Little River Valley & Arkansas Railway. From 1877 to 1881 he was a member of the firm of Spiller, Haynes & Co., merchants at Malden. After completing a twenty-five-mile contract on the Cotton Belt Railway in 1882, he took charge of the Malden Clipper, a newspaper, which he managed for a year. In 1884 he was made justice and notary public, and in 1886 he organized the Dunklin County real estate agency and started the well-known county paper, the News, which he has since published. Capt. Haynes was the first mayor of Malden, and served for about eight years. On November 6, 1879, he married Judith E., a daughter of John McConnell, and niece of Hon. W. B. McConnell, of Kentucky. She was educated in Kentucky, her native State. Their children are Irene, Inez, John A. and Nannie. Capt. and Mrs. Haynes are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. He is now Master of the Masonic lodge at Malden, and has also filled the various offices of the local I. O. O. F.

Here the father died in 1864. His son, William J. Oxley, remained with his parents until about eighteen years of age, when he began working for himself on a farm in Western Tennessee. He came to Missouri in 1860, locating in Dunklin County, and in the fall of the same year (1861) married Miss Winnie M. Bray, a native of Western Tennessee, and daughter of Allen Bray, deceased. Mr. Oxley enlisted in Jeff. Thompson's regiment for six months during the war, and at the expiration of this time he did not again enter the service, but removed with his family to Scott County, in Southeast Missouri, where he worked at the boot and shoe business for one year. Then he worked as head sawyer at Mr. H. Brock's saw-mill. In the fall of 1865 he returned to Dunklin County, and settled on a farm near Four Mile, where he remained three years, and then moved to the place where he now resides, engaged in agricultural pursuits. He started a huckster wagon about 1875, and ran the wagon for several years. Mr. Oxley only went to school three months in his life. When married he could not write his own name, and did not know one figure from another. By self-application he was soon enabled to do all of his business himself, and commenced merchandising about 1879 at his homestead, where he now lives, and has since been in a store. He has a good local trade and is doing well. He organized the first postoffice on the Ridge between Dexter and Old Four Mile, named the postoffice, and was appointed postmaster, and ran the office seven years. He has eighty acres of land, most of which is improved. To his marriage have been born three children: A. R., James M. and Addie V. Mr. and Mrs. Oxley and two of their children are members of the Baptist Church. His dwelling-house and store and all of their contents were burned by fire on January 28, 1880, a severe loss being entailed.

George Wilber Peck was born in the "Empire State," St. Lawrence County, November 23, 1848. He is a son of Burley and Sophronia P. (Fish) Peck, natives respectively of Vermont and New York. The father is a farmer and Republican and resides in St. Lawrence County. George W. received a good education in the Potsdam Normal School, and taught school for about five years in York State. He came west in December, 1876, and located in Southeast Missouri and went on the engineer corps, surveying the L. R. V. & A. R. R., which was finally merged into the Cotton Belt Road, and in the spring of 1877 laid out the town of Malden for the company. He was made the first agent at Malden when the road was completed, and was the business agent for the sale of town lots. Mr. Peck remained with this company as agent for about five years and resigned in the fall of 1884, and at once engaged in the grain business, and to him belongs the honor of having bought and sold the first car-load of corn that ever was shipped from Malden. His business has since grown to be one of the leading enterprises of the town, and he handles nearly all the surplus corn of Dunklin County. He is also engaged in buying and selling real estate, and owns several fine farms, bodies of timber land, town property, building lots, etc. He is a Republican in politics, and has held several local offices in his town. He is a Master Mason and belongs to the I. O. O. F., and it can be truly said of him that he is one of the leading men of the county. In November, 1878, he was united in marriage to Julia Hopper, a native of Tennessee, and daughter of G. M. Hopper. They have three children: Wilber, Elmer and Irene. Mrs. Peck is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

William G. Petty, of Clay Township, is the son of Milford M. Petty and Nancy Petty, and was born in Hickman County, Tenn., January 25, 1853. The parents were natives of Tennessee, where they were married. After that event they located on a farm in Hickman County, Tenn., and lived there for thirty-five years, engaged in farming. The father then sold his farm and moved to Missouri, settling in Dunklin County in 1882. One year later Mr. Petty died. His widow survives him, and now resides with her son, William G. Petty, who grew to manhood in Hickman County, Tenn., spending his youth on the farm. In 1874 he came to Missouri, where he engaged in farming, and on the seventh day of September, 1879, he married Miss Amanda B. Harmon, a native of Dunklin County, Mo., and daughter of William Harmon, of that county. Mr. Petty then began farming for himself and continued that occupation for three years. In 1883 he purchased raw land in Salem Township, and made a farm which, in 1887, he sold, and purchased his present property of 200 acres, 160 under cultivation. Mr. and Mrs. Petty are the parents of three children: Harry, Curtis and Neel. Mr. Petty is a member of the Cotton Plant Masonic Lodge, and one of Dunklin County's best farmers, and a leading citizen in his community.

Samuel L. Phillips was born in Wayne County, Ky., June 26, 1851, and is the son of John and Elizabeth F. (Berry) Phillips, both natives of Wayne County, Ky. They were married in 1825, and lived there until 1863, then moving to Metcalf, remaining there three years, then to Marshall County, where they remained until 1886. They then moved to Dunklin County, Mo., and located at Kennett, where they are now living. Mr. Phillips followed merchandising and farming the principal part of his life, but has now retired from active business, but is bookkeeper for his son, and is the senior partner of the firm. Samuel L. Phillips grew to manhood in Kentucky, and spent his youth on the farm and in the store. He received a good education in the common and in the higher English branches, and followed the occupation of teaching in Marshall and Wayne Counties for a few years. He came to Missouri in 1879, locating first at Malden, where he clerked for his brother, C. P. Phillips. He then took charge of and sold a stock of goods for his brother at Oak Bluff, Ark., where he remained eight months. He then returned to Malden, remained there about one year, and then engaged as clerk at Paragould, Ark., where he remained fourteen months. In March, 1884, he came to Kennett and engaged in merchandising on a small scale, but increased his stock from time to time, until the present firm was established in March, 1888. January 31, 1884, while in Marshall County, Ky., he married Miss Laura W. Love, a native of that county, where she was reared and educated, and a daughter of a Thomas Love (deceased), who was a native of Scotland. Mr. Phillips is the father of one child, a daughter named Marbeth, a child three years of age. Mrs. Phillips is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Charles M. Pritchard was born in Benton County, Tenn., August 20, 1846, and is a son of P. P. and Elizabeth (Dodd) Pritchard, who were natives of the "Old North State." They were reared and married in Tennessee, and came to Missouri in 1860, locating in Dunklin County. Here the father died in 1864. He taught school in Tennessee and Missouri, and also held the office of justice of the peace. Charles M. Pritchard was reared in Tennessee, and remained with his father until he was nineteen years of age. June 23, 1864, he was married to Rachel D. Forsythe, who was born in Tennessee. They purchased a farm of 250 acres in 1867, and he is now one of the prosperous farmers of the county. Besides the 250 acres of land under cultivation, he has 116 acres of wild land. In 1884 he engaged in the mercantile business with J. P. George, and still continues the same. They have a good trade and are doing well financially. Mr. Pritchard belongs to the Masonic and I. O. O. F. fraternities, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They have four children: Frances Cordelia, Columbus E., Thomas E. and Arpy O.

John G. Rapp is a prosperous business man of Malden, Mo. He came to this town from Hot Springs, Ark., in 1884, and, although his means were limited, he established an eating house near the depot and was soon doing a prosperous business. From time to time, as his means increased, he enlarged his establishment, and also purchased real estate in the town. He erected houses on his lots, and now has six dwelling houses which he rents, and which bring him a good income, beside three new houses which are just completed. Beside this property he has a large feed stable and wagon yard, which he manages in connection with his other business. He was reared in Franklin County, Ohio, and Jefferson County, Ky., and when a young man went to Tennessee, where he was engaged in boating on the Cumberland River. From there he went to Louisville, Ky., and worked on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers for a number of years. He first came to Missouri in 1859, and lived near St. Louis, and in 1876 went to Arkansas, and after residing in Hot Springs for eight years, came to Malden. He was married in Louisville, Ky., to Rachel Pelts, a native of Indiana. She is a member of the Methodist Church, and he is a Mason.

Moore M. Rayburn was born in Mississippi, September 8, 1843, being the son of Maj. W. C. Rayburn and Melissa J. (Malone) Rayburn, who were born in Alabama and Mississippi, respectively. The family moved to Arkansas in 1857, and located in what is now Clay County. They resided there until 1865, and then moved to Missouri and settled in Dunklin County, near Clarkton, where the father yet resides. Moore M. Rayburn grew to manhood in Arkansas, and in 1862 enlisted in the Confederate army, in Col. Hart's regiment of Arkansas Infantry, and served until the close of the war. He was in the battles of Prairie Grove, Mansfield and Pleasant Hill. At the close of the war he returned home, and in 1865 came to Missouri with his parents. He has held the office of county sheriff and collector for two terms, and has since been engaged in farming. In 1866 he was married to Fannie Akes, who died in 1882, having borne six children. In 1882 Mr. Rayburn married Miss L. E. Giles, and by her is the father of two children. Mr. Rayburn is a Master Mason, and belongs to the I. O. O. F.

Thomas B. Reeves, merchant at Malden, Mo., is a Virginian, born in Halifax County, February 26, 1819. He is a son of Col. W. T. Reeves, who married a Miss Haskins, both of whom were natives of Virginia. The father was a farmer, and served as colonel in the War of 1812. He died in his native county. Thomas B. Reeves was reared in Halifax County, Va., and Rutherford County, Tenn. In 1849 he went to Gibson County, Tenn., where he resided ten years, and then located in Dunklin County, Mo., and purchased land in the northern part of the county. Mr. Reeves erected the first business house in Malden, and has two good dwelling houses in the town. September 5, 1848, he was married in Rutherford County, Tenn., to Louisa E. Ford, by whom he is the father of four living children: William W., residing on the home place, John H. (of Texas), J. L. (of Malden) and Lou A. (wife of Charles Moore). Those deceased are Thomas P. (who died at the age of twenty-three years) and Michel (wife of J. M. Carder, who died at the age of thirty-three). Emerson died at the age of twelve years. Mr. and Mrs. Reeves are members of the Missionary Baptist Church, and he belongs to the I. O. O. F.

Hon. David Rice, a prominent farmer and stock raiser of Vincit, Mo., was born on the 20th of March, 1837, in Henry County, Tenn. He came to Missouri in 1853, and three years later was married to Miss Jane Himmel, who was born in Obion County, Tenn. Their union resulted in the birth of five children. In 1860 he was elected to the office of county assessor, and served only one year, when the breaking out of the war disturbed his labors. From 1872 until 1876 he served the county as public administrator, and was an able and efficient officer. At the latter date he was elected to represent his county in the State Legislature, filling the duties of this office with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of all concerned. He is the owner of 165 acres of land, 100 of which are under good cultivation, with orchard and good house and out-buildings. Mr. Rice's early education was somewhat limited, but by contact with business life he has since acquired a good practical education.

Van Rice, an industrious young agriculturist of Dunklin County, was born September 14, 1863, and is the son of David Rice, a native of Tennessee, and a man well known in connection with public affairs in this county. After locating in Missouri, he was married to Miss Jane Himmel, also of Tennessee nativity. Mr. Rice, though not a man of much wealth, has always been recognized as an influential, substantial citizen of Dunklin County. He represented her in the Twenty-ninth General Assembly, and has held other civil offices. Van, as he grew up in this county, had but little opportunity for acquiring an education, and in 1881 he began doing for himself. He has since followed farming, and now owns eighty acres of land. June 16, 1881, he was married to Miss Mary C. Hale, daughter of Robert B. and Mary E. (Jackson) Hale, both now deceased. The father was a Tennessean by birth. His wife came originally from Illinois, and was a cousin of the well known Voorhies family of Indiana. Mr. and Mrs.

Rice have had five children. Ada and Rue are living, and Guy and two infants are deceased. Mr. Rice politically is a Democrat.

Robert F. Sanders, postmaster and deputy circuit clerk, in Kennett, Mo., is a native of Mississippi, born in Marshall County, January 20, 1846, and is the son of B. B. and Adelia (House) Sanders, natives of Alabama and Georgia, respectively. The father was reared in Mississippi and Alabama, was married in Marshall County, of the former State, and followed merchandising at Memphis for a number of years. Previous to this he had followed the same business in Alabama and Mississippi, and also did business in Cross County, Ark., where he was elected to the office of public administrator. Here he passed his last days. Robert F. Sanders removed to Arkansas with his parents when but thirteen years of age, and at the age of fourteen left home, without the permission of his parents, and went to Texas. In 1862 he enlisted in a Texas cavalry regiment, and served with several regiments. He was in the battle of Helena, Pea Ridge, and numerous skirmishes, and was with Jeff. Thompson at the surrender. After the war he went to Memphis, and took a commercial course, and was then clerk and bookkeeper for a house in that city for about eighteen months. He afterward studied medicine, and took one course of lectures at the Memphis Medical College. He went to Texas in 1872, and remained there until 1876, when he went to Sexton's Landing, Ark., and was bookkeeper and clerk at that place for one year. He came to Dunklin County in 1878, and was appointed deputy clerk for the county and probate courts, doing all the work of the office for several years. During this time he studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1880. June 3d. of the year previous to this, he married Miss Constance Bragg, a native of Knox County. The fruits of this union were three children: Robert B., George H. and Gertrude. He practiced law in Dunklin County for about seven years. In 1883 he was appointed postmaster, and has held that position ever since. He was appointed notary public in 1882, and re-appointed two years later. He is a prominent Odd Fellow, has been through the chairs, and is deputy lodge master. He is also a member of the Kennett Masonic lodge.

James W. Sexton, deputy circuit clerk at Kennett, Mo., was born in Dunklin County, Mo., near Kennett, January 28, 1860, his parents being Lafayette and Nancy G. (McCullough) Sexton, both natives of Kentucky. They were married in Missouri, and here Mr. Sexton entered land and made a home. He followed the occupation of a farmer until 1861, when he enlisted in the six-months service. He afterward volunteered, and served up to 1863, when he came home on a furlough, became sick, and died October 30, of that year. His widow survived him until 1888. Their family consisted of two children: James W. and R. E. The former grew to manhood in Dunklin County, and received a common school education. He was reared on a farm, and in April, 1886, was appointed deputy clerk, and has since held that position, and the office of circuit clerk. He is a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Kennett, and is a young man of good business ability and good habits.

William F. Shelton, merchant and capitalist, at Kennett, Mo., and one of the wealthy and influential men of Southeast Missouri who have worked their way up, was born in Perry County, Mo., June 4, 1838. He is the son of Enoch and Tabitha (Brown) Shelton, both natives of North Carolina. The father removed from his native State to Tennessee at an early date, and about 1843 he removed to Missouri, and settled in Cape Girardeau County, where he only remained three years, removing from there to Dunklin County, and there died two years later. William F. Shelton was reared in Dunklin County, receiving very little educational advantages, and grew to manhood on the farm. In 1861, when Gov. Jackson called for State troops, he enlisted in the militia, and served six months in the State Guards. He then engaged in farming in this county, continuing until 1865, when he engaged in merchandising with a very limited capital and a very small stock. From the first Mr. Shelton was successful, and added to his stock from time to time, as his means accumulated. He is now considered one of the wealthiest men of this county, and of Southeast Missouri. Mr. Shelton is mainly self-educated since coming to years of maturity. He is well posted on the leading topics of the day, and always takes an active part in the political campaigns, being a Democrat politically. He was appointed treasurer to fill out an unexpired term, and after this he was elected to the same office, and held the position two terms, occupying the position, altogether, eight years. He is considered one of the best financiers and business men of the county.

William H. Shelton, farmer and stock dealer, was born in Graves County, Ky., August 30, 1840. His parents, W. R. and Elizabeth (Rhodes) Shelton, were Virginians, and after residing in Graves County, Ky., for a number of years, came to Dunklin County, Mo., in 1856, and purchased the land on which William H. now lives. The parents moved to Arkansas, and there the father died in 1882. William H. Shelton remained with his father for several years after attaining his majority. June 14, 1860, he married Mary Jane Wright, and he and wife became the parents of eight children: John W., Pearl (Cox), Rosa Lee, Ora E., Gilmore, Joseph, William P. and Adolphus. Previous to his marriage Mr. Shelton had carried on the grocery business to some extent in Clarkton, but at the breaking out of the war he joined Jeff. Thompson's regiment for six months, and at the end of that time enlisted under Price, but only served with him a short time when he was captured, but managed to make his escape. He soon after took the oath of allegiance, and returned home and resumed farming on the home place. In the spring of 1870 he re-engaged in the grocery business at Clarkton, and the following years put in a stock of general merchandise, and in connection with farming carried on this business for twelve years. From 1882 to 1888 he was in the mercantile business at Malden, and in 1886 was appointed postmaster at that place, and held the position until 1888. He has a good farm of 112 acres, nearly all of which is under cultivation. Mr. Shelton is a Mason.

G. T. Smith, a Dunklin County farmer and stock raiser, was born in Boteourt County, Va., in December, 1821. He was taken by his parents to Maury County, Tenn., when an infant, and in 1848 came to Missouri and located in Dunklin County. After residing in Clay Township for about thirty years he removed to his present property, which consists of eighty acres of good land. Forty acres of his farm are under cultivation and well improved. He was married in 1840 to Miss Caroline M. Bond, by whom he became the father of two children. His second wife, Emeline Jordan, whom he married in 1850, bore him three children. His third wife, whose maiden name was Eboline Norman, is yet living. Mr. Smith is a member of the Baptist Church, and is a member of the Masonic and I. O. O. F. fraternities. He has been a member of the latter lodge for sixteen years. He was elected to the office of county collector in 1870, and was re-elected in 1884, and is a prominent man of the county, and takes an active part in the political affairs of the day. His property is valued at $12,000.

James F. Smyth, merchant, of the firm of Davis & Smyth, was born in Dunklin County, Mo., March 23, 1864, and is the son of James A. Smyth, a native of Tennessee. The father came to Missouri when a young man, locating in Dunklin County, where he entered land, and here married Miss L. Minerva Jones, who also was born in Tennessee. After marriage Mr. Smyth farmed in the summer and hunted during the winter, and continued this for twenty seven winters, making as high as $700 in one winter. He moved to Piedmont, Wayne County, in 1876, to educate his children, and there died May 6, 1877. The family remained there until January, 1878, when they returned to Dunklin County, where the mother died in August, 1887. Their son, James F. Smyth, attained his growth in Dunklin County, receiving a good education in the common schools and at Piedmont High School. After coming back to this county, he remained on the farm until his majority, and then commenced clerking for Judge Langdon, at Cotton Plant, and there remained about one year. He then clerked for about six months with his present partner, and then in the fall of 1886, took an interest in the store under the title of Davis & Smyth. In September, 1887, Mr. Smyth married Miss Katie Argo, a native of Tennessee, where she was reared until twelve years of age, and then moved to Texas, where she remained about six years, and then moved to Dunklin County, in 1886. Mrs. Smyth is a member of the Baptist Church, and Mr. Smyth is a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge.

Sylvester W. Spiller was born in Williamson County, Ill., August 14, 1842. His father, Elhelbert C. Spiller, was also born in Illinois, and was a farmer and stock raiser. He moved to Missouri about 1852, where he lived for one year and then returned to Illinois, and died in Williamson County. Sylvester W. was reared on a farm in his native county, and when twenty years of age began clerking, and continued the same for a number of years. In 1866 he began merchandising at Carbondale, Ill., and at the end of two years began clerking again. He moved to Missouri in 1871, locating at Cotton Hill, Dunklin County, where he operated a cotton gin for about two years. After residing in Lebanon, Mo., for some time, he returned home and engaged in railroading, but discontinued this business at the end of eighteen months. In 1878 he moved his business house from Cotton Hill to Malden, where he sold goods up to 1886. He began operating his cotton gin in 1883, and has continued this business up to the present time, and in connection with this has been engaged in the manufacture of lumber. November 3, 1870, he married Emma Rendleman, and their union has resulted in the birth of three children: Gertrude C., Otto E., Emma D., John (deceased) and an infant (deceased). Mr. and Mrs. Spiller are members of the Christian Church, and he belongs to the Masonic fraternity.

Hallett B. Spooner, proprietor of the Spooner Hotel at Malden, Mo., was born in Seneca County, Ohio, February 11, 1836, and is a son of Bennett and Irene (Alden) Spooner. The father was a native of the Empire State, and moved to Ohio in 1835, and there followed farming until his death, which occurred in Seneca County in 1882. He was one hundred and nine years old at the time of his death. He served in the War of 1812 and the Mexican War. The mother was of Puritan stock. Hallett B. Spooner received good educational advantages, and graduated from the scientific department of the Ohio University in 1855. He then took a commercial course at Bryant & Stratton's college, in Chicago, and for nearly three years was a bookkeeper in that city. In 1859 he returned to Ohio, and in December of that year married Matilda M. Westbrook, who was a native of the same county as himself. In 1860 they moved to Golconda, Ill., where Mr. Spooner was principal of a high school. In August, 1862, he enlisted in the One Hundred and Thirty-first Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and in 1863 was promoted on the field to first lieutenant, and served in that capacity until 1864, when he was mustered out at Paducah, Ky., owing to ill health. He clerked in Paducah until 1866, and then moved to Aurora, Ky., and for two years was engaged in the general merchandise business. After residing about two years in Newburg, Ky., he went to Tennessee, and lived in portions of that State until 1873, and then went to Birmingham, Ky., where he taught the high school for two years. The following two years were spent in manufacturing lumber and flour at that place, and he then sold out, and in 1880 came to Malden, Mo., and accepted a position as prescription clerk and bookkeeper at this place. In 1881 he engaged in business for himself and opened a restaurant, continuing the same until 1883, when he purchased a lot and built the Spooner Hotel. This building was entirely destroyed by a cyclone, but he soon had it rebuilt, and since that time has had remarkably good success with the hotel. He built a planing mill here in 1885, and in all his business undertakings has succeeded far beyond his expectations. He owns nine houses and lots in Malden, and a nice farm of 103 acres near the town. He is a Republican in politics, and is a member of the I. O. O. F. and G. A. R. Post at this town. He is the father of eight children: Tellah B., Izella Irene Wallace (wife of J. M. Wallace), Justine M., Jessie C., Minnie A., Ernest W., Azalia R. and Edmeau L. Spooner. Three children are deceased: Tellah B., Justine M. and Ernest W.; the latter died in infancy. Mrs. M. M. Spooner was with her husband through his campaign, at the capture of Arkansas Post, the siege of Vicksburg, and the final opening of the Mississippi River to the Federal authorities. While encamped at Young's Point, in Louisiana, opposite Vicksburg, their oldest child, Tellah Bell, died, and was buried in the levee of the river. Mrs. Spooner is a member of the Baptist Church.

Richard H. Squires, a merchant at Malden, Mo., was born in Illinois August 18, 1862, and is a son of Omar and Ellen (McHanly) Squires, who were born in Ohio and Illinois, respectively. They were married in the mother's native State, and after residing there until 1888 moved to Missouri and settled in Dunklin County. Here they still reside. R. H. Squires grew to manhood in Illinois and received a fair education. At the age of fourteen years he left home and spent about one year in Mississippi and Louisiana, buying cotton seed. He then worked in Cairo for a shingle manufacturing company, and was with them about eight months. He came to Malden in 1882 and after tending bar for some time, started a saloon in 1883, and soon built up a good business. In January 1888, he disposed of his goods and engaged in general merchandising, the firm being known as Squires & Lasswell. They have a fine stock of goods and are in a prosperous condition financially. He was united in marriage to Miss Tillie King May 27, 1884, and their union has resulted in the birth of one child, Inez. Mr. Squires belongs to the I. O. O. F., and is the owner of a nice home in the town and 160 acres of valuable land.

Robert Summers, another enterprising and successful merchant at Kennett, is a native of Illinois, born in Pulaski County, October 15, 1846, and is the son of Walter Summers, a native of Kentucky, where he was reared and where he married Miss Sarah Little, a native of Tennessee. Mr. Summers then resided in Pulaski County a number of years. His son, Robert Summers, grew to manhood in Pulaski County, and received a fair education in the common schools. In September, 1861, he enlisted, first in the navy on a gunboat and afterward in the One Hundred and Ninth Illinois Infantry, where he remained about eight months. He was then in the Fifty-eighth Illinois Infantry, and served in that until the close of the war. He participated in the following battles: Fort Henry, Shiloh, Fort Donelson, Nashville, the Red River Expedition, Fort Spanish, Mobile and a great many skirmishes. He was mustered out at Montgomery, Ala., April 11, 1866, and returned to his home in Pulaski County. December 24, 1867, he married Miss Mary E. Brooks, a native of Pulaski County, who died in Illinois, December 15, 1873. Five children were born to this union: Ella M. (wife of E. Deason), Lullie, Ada, George and Lude. Mr. Summers married his present wife, Miss Amanda Trout, in the fall of 1887. She is a native of Tennessee, but was reared principally in Dunklin County. Mr. Summers farmed in Pulaski County for a few years, and then engaged in the saloon business at Grand Chain, where he continued eight years. He sold out in 1886, moved to Missouri, located at Kennett, and there engaged in the saloon business, which he continued about a year and a half. He then closed out the business and formed a partnership with Mr. Phillips in the mercantile business. This firm have just completed a large two-story building for their business, with two rooms below, and a very large room above designed for clothing. They have a good trade, and are doing a good business. Mr. Summers is a member of the G. A. R. organization, and is also a member of the K. of H.

William M. Satterfield, farmer, proprietor of a cotton gin and postmaster at Caruth, Mo., is a native of Kent County, Del., born January 19, 1833, his father being Elijah Satterfield, a native of Delaware, where he was reared, and where he married Miss Sarah A. Fiddeman, also a native of Delaware. After marriage they resided in their native county until 1835, when they moved to Westtown, Penn., and there remained ten years. In 1855 they moved back to Delaware, and from there to Philadelphia, about 1863, where they are residing at the present time (1888). Their son, William M. Satterfield, was reared, principally, in Mercer County, Penn. He returned to Delaware with his parents, and received a good education in the public schools and in the Arcadia College. In the fall of 1857 he left Delaware and came to Western Missouri, where, in 1860, he married Miss Malinda Horner, a native of Dunklin County. Mr. Satterfield located at Hornersville, and here engaged in mercantile pursuits until the spring of 1861, when he enlisted in the Confederate army, First Missouri State Guards, under Col. Walker, and in the Second Missouri Cavalry Regiment, serving until the close of the war. He participated in the battle of Corinth, Price's Cross Roads, Memphis and a great many minor engagements. He at one time during the service was knocked down by the explosion of a shell and left for dead. He was paroled at Columbus, and returned home in the fall of 1865. He clerked during the winter of 1866, and followed farming up to 1870. Mr. Satterfield lost his first wife October 14, 1862, and January 7, 1869, he took for his second wife Miss Hattie F. Douglass, a native of Kentucky, and the daughter of Alexander T. Douglass. Three children were born to this union: William R., and Jennie and Maggie (twins). They lost four infants. Mathias, Jr., father of our subject, was a farmer, and was eight years old when the great earthquake of 1811 occurred. His wife was born in North Carolina, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1861, October 14. She was sixty-five years of age at that time. Both parents were members of the Catholic Church. To their marriage were born four daughters and two sons, Judge R. Belson being the eldest, and he and his sister Josephine being the only ones living at the present. The Judge received a rather limited education, but by observation and general reading he has become a well informed man on almost any subject. October 13, 1860, he married Miss Jane Tennison, a native of Obion County, Tenn., born in 1843, and the daughter of James Tennison. Mrs. Belson died in 1862, and left one son, James Richard, who is now living. August 15, 1877, Judge Belson married Mrs. Pollie Newton, widow of Nicholas Newton. She was born in Obion County, Tenn., in 1839, and was the daughter of Anderson Boone, a descendant of the far-famed Daniel Boone. She died in 1885, and left three children, one now living, Henry H. Those deceased were named Ann E. and Adam. In September, 1886, Judge Belson married Mrs. Martha A. Bettis, a daughter of G. W. Dowdy and the widow of Henry Bettis. She was born in Alabama, in 1847, and died May 8, 1888. After the death of his father the Judge took the reins into his own hands, managed the farm and assisted in educating the younger children. He has since continued to farm, and is now the owner of 326 acres of good land. November 30, 1862, during the late war, he enlisted in Company D, Second Illinois Cavalry, and during the latter part of these four years he was orderly sergeant. He participated in many important battles, and received a severe wound at the battle of Knob Creek, which placed him in the hospital for seven months. At that battle his clothing was nearly riddled with bullets. He was elected and served as justice of the peace when he was eighteen years of age, and continued to fill this position until 1868. In politics he affiliates with the Republican party, and he is a member of the Baptist Church.

John M. Bigham was born in Carroll County, Tenn., May 12, 1846, and is the son of James and Agnes M. (Damoss) Bigham. The Bigham family are of Irish descent. James Bigham was born in Carroll County, Tenn., in 1817, and died in the same county in 1853. He was a farmer all his life, and was very successful. He was a worthy member of the Presbyterian Church, and was the son of John M. Bigham, who was a native of Kentucky. Mrs. Agnes M. (Damoss) Bigham was of French descent. She was born in Carroll County, Tenn., about 1827, and died in the same county in 1861. She was also a member of the Presbyterian Church. To their marriage were born seven children, four now living. John M. remained with his parents until their death. In the early part of 1862 he enlisted in Company C, Sixteenth Tennessee Cavalry, Confederate service, and served twenty-seven months, being in the battles of Hollow Springs, Waterford, Jackson, Miss., Ripley, Miss., Missionary Ridge, Cumberland Gap, Corinth and Tullahoma. At Waterford he received a very severe wound in the left shoulder, and as a consequence received a furlough. Peace was declared before he was able to re-enter the service. Upon his return to Carroll County he found his property destroyed, and his sisters in destitute circumstances. He went to work, and soon had things in shape again. After remaining in Carroll County until 1870, he moved to Lawrence County, Ark., where he remained until the winter of 1872, when he began traveling and visiting Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, and in 1875 to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since been living. He came to this county with very limited means, and is now the owner of a good farm, well improved. In connection with this he deals in stock. March 31, 1875, he married Miss Margaret Eastwood, who was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., January 16, 1850, and who is the daughter of Arthur Eastwood. Seven children were born to this union, six now living: Maggie M., Mary A., Robert A., Albert J., Carroll P., Edgar and an infant daughter. Robert A. died when nine years old. Mr. Bigham, in 1882, was elected coroner of the county, which office he has held ever since. Since that year he has also held the office of deputy sheriff. He is a member of the Wheel, being vice-president of the same, is a Democrat in politics, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Rev. George William Boon, a prominent Baptist minister, of Pemiscot County, was born in Obion County, Tenn., April 6, 1858, and is the son of Reuben and Eliza (Crunk) Boon, who were natives of Maury County, Tenn. The father was a farmer and carpenter by occupation, and worked at his trade until his death, which occurred in Obion County, Tenn., in 1869, he being about forty-five years of age at that time. The mother died in Lake County, Tenn., in 1877. They were both members of the Missionary Baptist Church, and the father was a Royal Arch Mason. To them were born five children, four now living: George W., Lucinda (wife of Grigg Holt), Mollie E. (wife of Walter Galloway) and John L. George William Boon received very meager educational advantages until twenty years of age, when he attended school in Obion County, Tenn., and secured a liberal education. He joined the Baptist Church in 1877, and in 1882 he began preparing himself for the ministry, being ordained in 1884. On starting for himself he was without means, and taught school for several years, which aided him considerably. November 30, 1884, he married Miss Eva V. Bivens, who was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., and is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church. Mr. Boon is one of the enterprising citizens of the county, and at all times supports the cause of education, and all other laudable enterprises. He is a member of the Wheel, and is a Democrat in his political views.

W. A. Boon, one of the thrifty, wide-awake young farmers of Godair Township, was born near where he now resides, March 6, 1861, and is the son of Henry H. and Malinda (Curtner) Boon. The father was a native of Tennessee, and when a young man went to Pemiscot County, but previous to this he met and married Miss Curtner, in Lake County, Tenn. In 1865, he and family moved to Obion County, Tenn., where he lived until 1873, when he moved back to Pemiscot County, Mo. He was a successful farmer, and was Democratic in his political views. He died in Pemiscot County in 1879, and was sixty years of age at that time. His widow was a native of Tennessee, born about 1833, and is now a resident of Pemiscot County, Mo. She is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church. Of the seven children born to their marriage, only four are now living: George W., J. C., W. A. and P. E. L. W. A. Boon received his education in the schools of Tennessee. He remained at home until August 19, 1886, when he married Miss Mary D. Crocker, who was born in Arkansas in 1869, and is the daughter of Alfred Crocker. One child, Harrison A., has been born to this union. Mr. Boon is the owner of 112 acres of land, over half under cultivation. He and wife are members of the Missionary Baptist Church, and he is a member of the Wheel, and a Democrat in politics.

Bailey Brooks, the oldest settler of Cooter Township, Pemiscot Co., Mo., was born in Henderson County, Tenn., October 3, 1822, and is the second of seven children born to Midget and Rebecca (O'Neal) Brooks, who were born in Tennessee, and died in Missouri. The father was a farmer by occupation, and a Democrat in politics, and he and wife were worthy members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Bailey Brooks remained at home until twenty-one years of age, and then commenced farming for himself. In 1856 he went to Missouri, and located near the foot of Island No. 18, where he lived one year, and then removed to Pemiscot County, where he has since resided. He has been married six times. His first wife was Nancy E. Rhodes, who bore him eight children, two living, William C. and Rebecca (Davidson). His second wife was Martha J. Phillips, who became the mother of four children, three living: James Franklin, Nancy and Thomas. The third wife was Lucinda Smith, who lived three years. The next was Annie Prock, who lived four years. He then married Nancy Grubbs, who died after five years of wedlock. His present wife is Mrs. Martha Jane Brown, widow of Joseph Brown. She was born in Tennessee in 1843. Mr. Brooks is the owner of 260 acres of good land, well improved. He is a Democrat. During the war he served fifteen months in Company B, First Missouri Infantry, Confederate States army, and was at the battles of Shiloh and Corinth.

James Franklin Brooks, Sr., was born in Henderson County, Tenn., November 9, 1832, and is one of six children born to Midget and Rebecca (O'Neal) Brooks, who were born in East Tennessee in 1799 and 1802, and died in Missouri in 1874 and 1871, respectively. They moved to West Tennessee in 1824, and to Missouri in 1856. Here the father farmed the remainder of his days. He was a Democrat, and he and his wife were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. J. F. Brooks remained with his parents until their respective death, and February 24, 1866, was united in marriage to Sarah Richardson, a daughter of Enoch Richardson. She was born in Henderson County, Tenn., in 1841, and is the mother of eight children: Marquis De Lafayette, Fernando J., Catura, Almata, Ella, Noah and Dora (twins) and Emery. Mr. Brooks has been engaged in farming and stock raising all his life, and has bought and sold several farms. He owns a fine and well improved farm, and what he has accumulated has been the result of his own good management and industry. He is one of the most enterprising citizens of the county and is always ready to support worthy enterprises. He is a Democrat, and he and family are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

William C. Brooks, a thrifty young farmer of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in Henderson County, Tenn., March 3, 1852, and is a son of Bailey and Nancy E. (Rhodes) Brooks, whose sketch appears in this volume. He remained with his father until April 29, 1874, when he was united in marriage to Mozella M. Coleman, and by her became the father of three children, only one now living, Thomas L., who is now twelve years of age. Those deceased are James Robert and an infant daughter. Mrs. Brooks was born in Tennessee, April 29, 1858. Soon after his marriage Mr. Brooks purchased a tract of woodland, which he has cleared and has in a good state of cultivation. His property has been acquired by his own industry and economy, and by the aid of his wife. They are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and he is a Democrat and Prohibitionist. Mrs. Brooks' father, James Coleman, was an early settler of Pemiscot County, Mo., and, it is thought, was a native of Tennessee. He was a soldier in the Confederate army and died while in a Union prison.

Joseph Brasher, judge of Pemiscot County, is one of two surviving members of a family of seven children born to John L. and Martha (Davis) Brasher, who were born in Decatur County, Tenn., in 1828 and 1830, and died in 1880 and 1860, respectively. The father spent his days in Tennessee, and followed farming as an occupation. He served four years in the Confederate infantry during the late war, and was in nearly all the principal battles. After his first wife's death he married Nellie Wyatt. He (Joseph Brasher) has a brother, Charles, who is a farmer of Pemiscot County. Joseph Brasher was born in Decatur County, Tenn., March 23, 1851. He remained at home until he was nineteen years of age, then left home, and after residing one year in Arkansas and one year in Tennessee, came to Missouri and located at Cottonwood Point, Pemiscot County. Here his occupation has been that of a farmer. In 1878 he was elected justice of the peace, and served four years, and was then elected probate judge, and served one term. He has announced himself as a candidate for the office of sheriff and collector, and if elected will make an efficient officer. He is a Democrat in politics, and is a member of the Masonic fraternity. August 15, 1875, he was married to Susan (Huffman) Pate, a daughter of Jesse Huffman, and widow of Joseph T. Pate. Mrs. Brasher was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., April 14, 1850, and has borne Mr. Brasher three children: Mattie E., Mary Eunice and Herman Malcomb. The last named child died when an infant. Mr. Brasher received very poor educational advantages in his youth, but by self-application to his books during spare moments has acquired a good common education, and is well versed in the business affairs of life.

William Budde was born in Westphalia, Prussia, March 3, 1822, and is a son of John Henry and Katherine (Kamps) Budde, who lived and died in Germany. The father was a soldier and served under Napoleon, and was at the battle of Waterloo. They were members of the Lutheran Church, and the parents of five children, only one of whom is now living, William, who received an excellent education. He was studying for the Lutheran ministry at Westphalia, but owing to the rebellion in Prussia, abandoned this, and in 1849 came to the United States, and located in Decatur County, Tenn., where he followed the tanner's trade. He came to Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1867, and there has since resided, with the exception of two years (1883 and 1884) which he spent in Bollinger County. Katherine Meyer, who was born in Westphalia, Prussia, in 1821, became his wife in 1847. She died in Tennessee in 1855, leaving one daughter, Mariah. In 1857 he married Mary Bolcomb, a native of Tennessee, born in 1837. They have seven children: William, John H., Louisa, Elizabeth, Sarah, Anna and James. Mr. and Mrs. Budde are members of the Missionary Baptist Church, and he is a Republican in his political views.

Andrew Jackson Bush was born where he now lives, in Pemiscot County, Mo., April 4, 1848, and is the son of Conrad S. and Malinda Cherry (Wells)

Bush, natives of Hamilton County, Ohio, and Lincoln County, N. C. The father was born near Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1812, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1844, where he resided the latter part of his life. He was a farmer by occupation, was assessor two years, and made the first assessment after the close of the war. He was a prominent citizen of the county. The mother died when Andrew J. Bush was a young boy. She, like her husband, was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a Democrat in his political principles, but during the war was a Union man. After his wife's death, Mr. Bush married Miss Nancy Caroline Williams, who died in 1873. Before coming to Missouri he married Miss Jane Turner, who died shortly after coming to that State. Andrew J. was one of four children, two now living, born to his parents: Bailey J., who is now engaged in farming in Pemiscot County, and our subject. The latter received the rudiments of an education at home, and remained with his father until twenty-one years of age, when he began farming for himself. September 30, 1871, he married Louisa Jane Hartwell, a native of Jefferson County, Ind. She died in 1873, was eighteen years of age at the time of her death, and left one daughter, who is now living. Louisa Jane Hartwell was the daughter of John E. Hartwell, now a resident of Pemiscot County, and is a prominent farmer. January 10, 1874, Mr. Bush married Elizabeth (Hickman) Trainer, daughter of Benjamin Hickman, and widow of Dr. C. P. Trainer. Mrs. Bush was born in December, 1843, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1883, May 10. Two children were born to this union: Amos C. (now at home), and Lucy (who died when two years old). January 28, 1886, Mr. Bush married Mrs. Alice L. (Macksey) David. She was the daughter of Samuel Macksey, and widow of William A. David. She was born in Atlanta, Ga., March 28, 1867, and came to Pemiscot County in 1874. To this marriage one son was born, Charles O. Mr. Bush is a member of the Wheel, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and is a Democrat in politics.

John F. M. Campbell is a son of Lewis and Letha (Pace) Campbell, and was born in Hickman County, Tenn., in 1843. He is the sixth of their ten children, and remained at home until his father's death, when he began farming on his own account, and is now the owner of 160 acres of fertile and well improved land. In July, 1861, he enlisted in Company I, Twenty-fourth Tennessee Infantry, and served nearly two years. He participated in the battles of Shiloh and Perryville and at the former battle received a flesh wound in the right hip. April 10, 1873, he was united in marriage to Nancy J., daughter of Harvey Barger. She was born in Perry County, Ind., November 18, 1856, and died March 24, 1888. She was the mother of five children: Letha H., Lewis W., George W., John W. and Ada B. Mr. Campbell is a Democrat, and is a worthy and enterprising citizen of the county. His father was a native of South Carolina, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in the fall of 1872, aged about seventy-six years. He was a farmer and a Democrat, and an espouser of the Union cause during the late war. His wife died in Hickman County, Tenn., about 1854.

Maj. George W. Carleton was born in Stillwater, Saratoga County, N. Y., April 19, 1830, and is the son of Samuel and Dorcas (Cleveland) Carleton, both natives of the town of Bath, Grafton County, N. H., and grandson of Jesse Carleton, who fought for independence during the Revolutionary War. In September, 1830, Samuel and Dorcas Carleton immigrated to St. Clair County, Mich., and settled where the town of St. Clair is now situated. Here the mother died of Asiatic cholera two years later. In 1834 the father married Miss Sarah Barron, of Haverhill, N. H., and moved two and a half miles west from the town of St. Clair. Here George W. Carleton was reared, attending the public schools six months out of the year. He was a close student, and spent much of his time when others were sleeping in poring over his books. In 1849, 1850 and 1851 he attended the high schools in St. Clair, applying himself wholly to the English branches, and fitting himself for the position of civil engineer. September 16, he left home for the sunny south and landed in New Madrid, Mo., October 10, 1852, with but five dollars in his pocket. He soon made friends, and taught school during the winter. In the spring of 1853 he began teaching school in the town of New Madrid, and there continued until October, 1854. September 11, 1853, he married Miss Summerville Tomlin, and in January, 1855, he and his wife moved to Gayoso, Pemiscot Co., Mo., where they rented a farm. In June of the same year he was appointed clerk of the county court of Pemiscot County, and in August of that year, he was induced to run for the office of county surveyor. He was elected by over three to one majority over his opponent. In August, 1860, he was elected clerk of the county court for a term of six years. He was also made deputy clerk of the circuit court and discharged the duties of both offices. During the late war Mr. Carleton was strongly in favor of the Union, but was not an abolitionist. The affairs at Camp Jackson decided him as to his course and he declared himself for the South. In March, 1862, New Madrid fell into the hands of the United States forces and Pemiscot was invaded. Mr. Carleton received word through a Union man that the Federal commander was going to send a detachment down to remove the public records, and he procured a dugout and with another man, Dr. George H. Miller, paddled up the river on the Missouri side until they came opposite the Confederate gunboats, anchored near the Tennessee shore, then crossed the river and boarded the flag ship. He informed the commander of the intended invasion, and an armed force was sent to remove the records to a place of safety. This they did, storing them in Memphis, Mo., where they remained until the close of the war, or until September, 1865. Mr. Carleton was appointed acting master's mate in the Confederate States navy, and entered upon active duty, following the fortunes of the Confederacy. He went to Yazoo, Miss., with a part of the retreating fleet, and November 20, 1862, he was ordered to Charleston, S. C., with 100 sailors, to man an iron-clad in that harbor. Upon reaching that city, he was soon appointed to a position in the paymaster's department on board ship. He was on duty in the navy until November 19, 1864, when he proceeded to Macon, Ga., under orders from Col. John M. Glenn, in charge of the engineer's department, dated November 11, 1864. He had been appointed assistant engineer in the Provisional Confederate States army with the rank and pay of a major ($150 per month). He was taken prisoner on the fall of Macon, April 20, 1865. He was paroled April 26; May 19 he proceeded to Andersonville, Ga., under orders of Gen. Wilson, and made a topographical survey of the prison and surroundings, furnishing the General with a map and field-notes of the same. June 20 he got transportation to Missouri via Atlanta, Chattanooga and Nashville and reached home July 1, 1865, ostracised and with no country to call his own. He went to work with a will to regain what he had lost, but took no iron clad oath to regain citizenship. He assisted the officers appointed by the Governor to reorganize the machinery of government in the county, and to enforce law and order. He read law, but although not allowed to be admitted to the bar, the courts of Pemiscot County allowed him to practice therein without questioning his right to do so. After the expunging of the "iron clad" oath in 1870 from the State Constitution of 1865, he was duly admitted to practice, in March 1871, and has practiced his profession successfully ever since that time. He was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention of the State in 1875 from the Twenty-third Senatorial District, with Gen. N. W. Watkins as his colleague. He represented Pemiscot County in the Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second and Thirty-third General Assemblies of the State, introduced and passed several important bills, among which was the bill for creating drainage districts in the State, and a bill appropriating $4,000 to build a courthouse in Pemiscot County. In 1885 he took charge of the bill in the house known as the "Hunter bill," to indemnify the counties of Southeast Missouri for damages caused by the overflow of the Mississippi River in 1882, 1883, 1884, of which Pemiscot County received $3,000. In 1870 Mr. Carleton commenced the task of making an abstract of land titles of the county and has completed it up to May, 1882. The courthouse of the county was burned in December, 1882, destroying all the records of the county. This abstract here proved to be of incalculable value in determining titles to land. It was made evidence in all courts of record in this State, by an act of the Legislature approved March 17, 1885. At present Mr. Carleton is school commissioner of Pemiscot County, and county commissioner of swamp lands. He has but one child living, W. Sam. Carleton, who is now railway postal clerk on the St. Louis, Arkansas & Texarkana Railroad. Maj. Carleton is now fifty-eight years old and is hale and hearty. He became a member of the Masonic fraternity in 1860 at Point Pleasant, Mo., and afterward took four chapter degrees while at Charleston, S. C., and was a charter member of Caruthersville Lodge, No. 461. From 1871 to 1876 he was editor of the Gayoso Democrat, and in 1887 he again took charge of the paper and it is now under his control, he being sole editor.

Luke Cassidy was born near Cannelton, Perry Co., Ind., December 17, 1842, and is one of ten children born to Thomas and Esther Jane (Jackson) Cassidy, who were born in the State of Kentucky, he in Breckenridge County, in 1815, and she in Elizabethtown in 1816. The latter died in 1859. The father is now a resident of Perry County, Ind., and has followed the occupation of farming all his life. His second wife was Mary Ann Sprinkle, who bore him seven children, all of whom are living. He has been a lifelong Democrat and is a member of the Catholic Church. Luke Cassidy remained at home until the breaking out of the war, when he enlisted in Company D, Thirty-Fifth Indiana Infantry, and served until March 20, 1864, when he served for some time as corporal, and was commissioned lieutenant. He was at Stone River, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge and Ringgold, but was never wounded and never taken prisoner. April 6, 1864, he was married to Mary E. Mitchell, a daughter of Leonard Mitchell. She was born in Perry County, Ind., October 9, 1845, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., March 22, 1887, leaving eleven children: Ellen J., Mary A., Thomas T., John P., Frances C., Catherine E., Ann I., William H., Joseph A., Magdalena and May. Sarah H. died in 1884, aged fifteen years. Mr. Cassidy owns a well cultivated and fertile farm on which he located in 1873. He is a Democrat, and he and family are members of the Catholic Church.

George I. Coleman was born in Virginia, February 13, 1842, and is a son of Peter W. and Martha L. (Almand) Coleman, who were also Virginians, born in 1819 and 1822, and died in 1883 and 1843 respectively. The father's second wife was Sarah A. Barnard. She was born in Virginia, and is now living in Missouri. They became residents of Tennessee in 1850, and came to Missouri in 1857. The father was a farmer and a life-long Democrat. Mr. Coleman's first marriage resulted in the birth of one child, George I. To the second union were born thirteen children, ten of whom lived to be grown, and seven are now living: Peter A., Henry P., Ben B., Sarah L. (widow of John M. Mickie), Laura V. and Alice (Maxwell). George I. Coleman received very good educational advantages, and attended McLeomore's College in Carroll County, Tenn. At the age of seventeen he left home and went to Mississippi, and served for some time as pilot on a steamboat plying on the Mississippi River. He resided for about two years in Mississippi, and was deputy clerk of Panola County for some time. He returned to Missouri, and in 1870 was elected sheriff of the county, and after the expiration of his term began merchandising, and followed that business for twelve years. Since that time he has given his attention exclusively to farming. May 21, 1863, he was united in marriage to Elizabeth A. McClanahan, who was born near Memphis, Tenn., July 4, 1843, and died in Missouri in 1878. Six children were born to this marriage, four of whom are living: Martha L., George W., Zelia I. and Lee A. Those dead are Elizabeth A. and Clay C. On September 6, 1876, he married Lucy A. Tipton. She was born in Bedford County, Tenn., February 16, 1849. Mr. Coleman is a Mason, and in 1874 represented Caruthersville Lodge in the Grand Lodge of Missouri. He is a Democrat.

Henry P. Coleman, the present county clerk of Pemiscot County, was born in Dyer County, Tenn., near Dyersburg, July 2, 1856, and is the son of Peter W. and Sarah Ann (Barnard) Coleman, both of whom were natives of Virginia, he of Mecklenburg County, and she of Lunenburg County. They removed to Dyer County, Tenn., after their marriage, or about 1851, and later moved to Pemiscot County, Mo. Mr. Coleman was a farmer all his life, and while living in Dyer County, Tenn., was justice of the peace, but was never an office seeker. He died in 1883 being sixty-four years of age at that time. His wife is still living and is a resident of Virginia Township, Pemiscot Co., Mo., being sixty-three years old at the present time. To their marriage were born the following children: R. A., J. W. (a former sheriff of this county) and T. W. all deceased; Sarah, Peter A., Henry P., B. B., L. B. and A. B. By a former marriage Mr. Coleman became the father of one son, George I., a former sheriff of this county who, like the balance of the family, is living in Pemiscot County. Henry P. Coleman received a liberal education in Cape Girardeau Normal School, and afterward took a commercial course at Lexington, Ky. He followed agricultural pursuits until in 1886, when he was elected clerk of the county court of Pemiscot County. On March 26, 1882, he married Miss Cora O. Michie, the daughter of Ben and Sallie Michie, and a native of Mississippi. Her parents are now residing in Pemiscot County. Mr. Coleman is a member of the I. O. O. F., and is P. E. R. of that order. He is a Democrat in his political views.

Samuel T. Cross, postmaster at Covington, was born at Dresden, Weakley Co., Tenn., March 4, 1846, and is the son of Elijah W. and Minerva (Tansil) Cross, natives of Virginia and North Carolina, respectively. The father died in Dresden, Tenn., in 1855, and was about forty-five at that time. He was a mechanic, a member of the I. O. O. F., a member of the Christian Church, was a Whig in his political views, and was a soldier in the Mexican War, serving in several battles. He was of French descent. The mother is still living, and is a resident of Dyer County, Tenn. She was also a member of the Christian Church, and was the mother of seven children, all living; Samuel T. is the third child. He remained at home until the latter part of the war, when he enlisted in Company B, Thirteenth Tennessee Regiment, Confederate service, and participated in several battles. After the war he returned to his home in Dyer County, and for two years afterward attended school in Dyer County. In October, 1869, he moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., engaged in the mercantile business, and took charge of a store at Covington for one-fourth of the profit. The second year he bought a half interest, and was a partner of T. Chamblin, of Dyersburg. December 29, 1870, he married Miss Ophelia Peacock, a native of Dyer County, Tenn., and the daughter of Jack Peacock. Two children were born to this marriage: Thomas T. and Leda, both living. In the fall of 1873 Mr. Cross and Mr. Chamblin closed out their business, and in 1876 Mr. Cross engaged in the business for himself at Covington. He remained in the business until the fall of 1887, when he engaged in farming and stock raising. He has served as postmaster, off and on, for six years. He also served as constable and deputy sheriff for four years. He is a member of the I. O. O. F., and is a Democrat in politics. He is clerk of the school board, and is serving his third term.

David Henry Culp was born in Arkansas February 18, 1836, and is a son of Timothy N. and Nutty Maranda (Lewis) Culp. The father is of German descent, and was born in Bedford County, Tenn., in 1805, and died in Obion County, Tenn., in 1881. He was a farmer. His wife was of Scotch-Irish descent, and was born about 1804. She died in Marshall County, Miss., in 1840. David Henry Culp was the youngest of their four children, and is the only one now living. He resided with his father until about seventeen years of age and then went to Perry County and lived with an uncle until 1867. In July, 1862, he enlisted in Company I, Ninth Tennessee Cavalry, and served thirteen months. He then returned to his uncle's home and, after the latter's death in 1867, carried on the mercantile business. In the winter of 1867 he closed out the store, and in 1868 began farming in Perry County. This he continued until 1878, and a portion of this time was also in the merchandise business. In October, 1878, he came to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since been engaged in farming. He is a Democrat in politics, and in 1884 was elected justice of the peace. His marriage to Miss Mary E. Green took place August 20, 1860. She was born in Wayne County, Tenn., and died October 8, 1882, leaving six children: Oliver, Nancy H., Susie, Timothy, Mary and Lelia Nora. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and Mr. Culp belongs to the same. He is a member of the I. O. O. F.

George W. Curtner, sheriff and collector of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in Obion County, Tenn., December 8, 1853, and is the son of Williamson and Virginia J. (Hughlett) Curtner, who were natives of Carroll and Gibson Counties, Tenn., respectively. He was born in 1829, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1877. She died in Obion County in 1857, and was about twenty-three years of age at that time. After her death Williamson Curtner married Susan A. Harrington, in 1857. She died in Pemiscot County in 1867, and in 1868 he married Miss Sarah A. Relfe, who is now living. In 1857 Mr. Curtner removed from Obion County, Tenn., to Pemiscot County, Mo. He was a farmer all his life, was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a Democrat in politics. To the first marriage were born two children, George W. and Sallie (who died when she was eight years old). By the second union two children were born, only one, Thomas D., now living. He is a merchant at Braggadocia, Mo. The one deceased was named Amanda J. By the last marriage were born three children, two now living, Hattie and Ellen. Samuel died when quite young. George W. lived with his father until the latter's death. He received a liberal education at Montezuma and Union City, Tenn., and was engaged in farming up to the time of his election to the office of sheriff, in 1884. In 1886 he was re-elected by an overwhelming majority. November 7, 1877, he married Miss Addie E. Coleman, a daughter of P. W. Coleman. She was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1858, and died October 20, 1878, leaving no children. July 15, 1886, he married Miss Mary A. Popham, a native of Meade County, Ky., born May 16, 1863, and the daughter of A. D. Popham. This union resulted in the birth of one child, Williamson. Since December, 1887, Mr. Curtner has been engaged in the livery business at Gayoso. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and also a member of the Wheel. He is a Democrat in his political views, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Thomas D. Curtner, merchant, was born near where he now lives October 27, 1859. He is a son of Williamson and Susan (Harrington) Curtner, who were both born in Tennessee, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo. The former died in 1876. They moved to Missouri about 1858, and here the father followed farming until his death. He was married three times; first, to Virginia Hughtlett, who bore him two children, one living, George W. By his second marriage, to Miss Harrington, he has one child living, T. D. His third marriage was to Sallie Relfe. Two children are the result of this union, Harriet and Ellen. Thomas D. Curtner received such education as could be obtained in the schools of Pemiscot County, and assisted his father on the farm, and, after the latter's death, managed the farm for his step-mother until he was twenty-three years old, when he entered into partnership with Henry R. Edsall in the merchandise business, and has continued up to the present time, meeting with good success. April 14, 1887, he married Nannie Reed, who was a native of the county, and died April 16, 1888, aged twenty-one years. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Curtner is also a member of that church, and in his political views he is a Democrat. He is a Mason.

William W. Darrity, one of the enterprising citizens of Butler Township, Pemiscot County, Mo., was born where he now lives March 31, 1852, and is the son of James and Mary (Howell) Darrity. The father was born in Ireland in 1810, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1866. When a boy of fourteen, he left his native land, and immigrated to the United States, locating after a time in Pemiscot County, Mo., during the earliest settling of the county. He was a very successful farmer until the overflow in 1858, which destroyed all his property. His wife was born near Nashville, Tenn., in 1813, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1876. She was quite young when her parents moved to West Tennessee. They afterward moved to New Madrid County (now Pemiscot), where she met and married Mr. Darrity. To their marriage were born four sons and two daughters, two of whom are now living, the subject of this sketch being the younger one. John J., the other child living, is now a resident of Butler Township, Pemiscot County. William W. Darrity remained at home until 1876, when he began for himself, first working for wages, and afterward (1880) renting land and engaging in agricultural pursuits. The same year he purchased eighty acres, but this he soon sold, and since then he has been buying and selling until he has become the possessor of his present well improved and well located farm. In 1876 he went to Texas, remained there one year, and then came back to Pemiscot County, where he has since remained. October 16, 1881, he married Miss Frances M. Hamby, stepdaughter of A. J. Matthews. She was born in Arkansas, May 29, 1863, and by her marriage became the mother of two children, one now living, named Andrew J. Eva May died August 31, 1886, and was in her third year at that time. Mr. Darrity is a member of the Masonic order, the I. O. O. F., the A. O. U. W., and is a Democrat in politics. He is an excellent citizen and a good neighbor.

J. N. Delashmott, the present justice of the peace of Gayoso Township, and a prominent citizen of Pemiscot County, was born in that county when it was a part of New Madrid County, January 12, 1836, his parents being Dennis and Sallie Delashmott, who were natives of Pennsylvania and New Madrid County, Mo., respectively. They both died when the subject of this sketch was but a child, consequently but very little of the early history of this family is known. The Delashmotts are of French origin. Dennis Delashmott came to Missouri about the time of the earthquake in 1811. He was a farmer by occupation. To his marriage were born six children, five now living: Basil, who is a farmer and fruit-grower, and a resident of Colusa County, Cal.; Rudolph, now a resident of Red Bluff, Cal., and a teamster by occupation; Missouri, wife of Lewis R. McCollum (deceased); Virginia, wife of George Keyser (deceased), and J. N. who was very young at the time of his parents' death. He lived with John Ruddle, a farmer of New Madrid County, until 1846, when he went to Pemiscot County and lived on the farm of William Pringle, and there made his home until 1850, when he went on the farm of John Jackson, also a resident of Pemiscot County. Here he remained until 1854, when he started out for himself, working for wages, at which he continued until 1857, when he and his sister, Virginia, started in business for themselves on a farm. This Mr. Delashmuth has since continued. In June, 1861, he enlisted in Company G, First Missouri Infantry, Confederate service, and served until July 4, 1863, during the time participating in many battles. He was at Shiloh, Corinth, Port Gibson, Champion's Hill, Black River and the siege of Vicksburg. At the battle of Champion's Hill he received a flesh wound in the left thigh, was also wounded at Vicksburg, and shortly afterward received a flesh wound in the shoulder. On the 25th of June he received a severe wound in the right cheek. During the siege of Vicksburg he acted as sharp-shooter, and after the surrender of that place he quit the service, and went to Demopolis, Ala., and, after remaining there a short time, returned to Pemiscot County, where he has since lived. He raised a company of home guards and was made lieutenant of the same. This was to protect the people from adjacent bushwhackers and thieves. In 1868 Mr. Delashmuth was justice of the peace, and shortly afterward was made county judge, and served as such for two years, and has been justice of the peace most all the time since. March 24, 1864, he married Miss Louisa Castell, a native of Arkansas, born on December 14, 1842 and the daughter of H. C. Castell. To them were born seven children, all living: Sallie J., George M., Ellen V., Lora E., Mary B., Lillie May and John L. Mr. Delashmuth is a Democrat in his politics, is a member of the Wheel, being secretary of the same, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Judge Richard E. Dillingham, county judge of the First District of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in South Carolina on May 1, 1827, his parents being Benjamin C. and Cintha H. (Hannon) Dillingham, natives of Kentucky and South Carolina, respectively. The father was born in 1794, and the mother in 1796. The former died in his native State in 1840, and the latter also in Kentucky in 1868. Benjamin C. Dillingham, when a young man, went to South Carolina, where he was married, and where he remained for a short time, and then moved to Kentucky, where he passed the balance of his days. He was a farmer all his life. During the War of 1812 he served as a soldier under Gen. Jackson, at the battle of New Orleans. He was slightly wounded several times. His wife was a member of the Baptist Church for a number of years. Their marriage was blessed by the birth of seven children, all of whom lived to be grown. Richard E. Dillingham left his home in 1840 and went to Saline County, Ill., where he lived for about four years, or until 1853, when he went to Gallatin County, Ill. Previous to this, in 1851, May 1, he married Miss Elizabeth Gates, a daughter of Squire Gates. She was born in Saline County, Ill., and died in Gallatin County, of the same State, in 1856, leaving no children. January 8, 1858, Judge Dillingham married Elizabeth Broten, a daughter of Milton Broten. She was born in Gallatin County, Ill., in 1842, and died in that county in 1858, leaving no children. November 14, 1861, the Judge married Cynthia Ann Gossett, a native of Kentucky, born March 6, 1844, and the daughter of James Gossett. To this union were born eleven children, seven now living, viz.: James C., Nannie, Tomazin, William H., Edward L. and Allie (twins) and John J. The Judge remained in Gallatin County until 1871, when he came to Pemiscot County, Mo., and here he has since lived. He has a fine farm, well improved and well cultivated. When a young man he learned the cabinet-maker's and carpenter's trade, and this he continued to work at until he came to Missouri, when he abandoned this for farming. In 1882 he was elected county judge, and in 1884 and 1886 he was re-elected. While a resident of Gallatin County, Ill., he was elected constable and also deputy sheriff for three years. When a young man, and while living in Kentucky, he was elected captain of the militia.

Sidney H. Dowd was born at Albany, N. Y., October 17, 1822, and is the son of Charles H. and Ann Eliza (Mills) Dowd, who were, it is thought, natives of New York State. The father died in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1830 or 1831, aged about fifty-five, and was a merchant by occupation. While in Virginia he was also a manufacturer of tobacco and cigars. He and family moved to Wheeling in 1822 or 1823, and here the father passed his last days. His wife also died there in 1840 at the age of fifty-five. Mr. Dowd was quite successful in his business transactions, and left a large property at his death. They were the parents of nine children, three now living. Sidney H. was the seventh child. He secured but a limited education, but by observation and reading he has acquired a fair education, and is considered a well-informed man. At the age of nine years Sidney H. left home and went to Louisville, Ky., where he remained a short time. From that time, until he was twenty-six years of age, he spent his time traveling. He has been on every navigable river in the United States. During the Mexican war he belonged to Capt. C. C. Donnelly's Company, of Yell's Regiment of Arkansas Cavalry. He served until the close of the war. He was wounded three times at the battle of Buena Vista, twice with sword and once with ball. At the same battle he had one horse shot from under him, and his cartridge belt stopped another ball. October 14, 1847, he married Miss Adaline Jones, who was born in Paducah, Ky., June 15, 1831, and died in Southern Illinois, February 25, 1872. Nine children were born to this union, six now living: Cullem A., Mary E., Madira E., James L., Robert H. and George F. Those deceased were named Charles H., William A. and John (an infant). In 1848 Mr. Dowd located at Paducah, Ky., and was agent for Langstaff & Co., with whom he remained for twenty-five years. His family were in Southern Illinois. In 1875 he moved to the farm that he now owns, which consists of 1,100 acres of good land. During this time he has never been sued and has never sued. He was never a witness, or a jurymen, and does not owe a dollar. February 8, 1873, Mr. Dowd married Miss Mary C. Chandler, a native of Paducah, Ky., born March 20, 1856, and is the daughter of George W. and A. E. Chandler. Seven children were born to the last union, four now living: Nellie, Edward, Arthur and Carrie. Those deceased were named Henry, Annie and Mamie. Mr. Dowd is a Democrat in politics and is an excellent citizen.

George William Dowdy, a thrifty and enterprising farmer of Pemiscot County, Gayoso Township, was born in Carroll County, Ga., July 21, 1847. He is the son of James and Susan Josephine (Lee) Dowdy, who were natives of Georgia. The parents were married in their native State, and came to Missouri in 1861, locating in Pemiscot County, where the father died in 1871, at the age of fifty-three. The mother died the same year, aged forty-four years. They were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and were the parents of four children, two now living: George W. and Sarah Jane (who is now the wife of C. T. Moseley, a prominent farmer of Pemiscot County). George W. Dowdy received a limited education, and remained at home until the death of his parents, since which time he has engaged in business for himself. March 26, 1871, he married Miss Armida Castleberry, a native of Illinois, born in 1844, and the daughter of David Castleberry. Mr. and Mrs. Dowdy are members of the Missionary Baptist Church, and Mr. Dowdy has been deacon of the same for some time. He is a Democrat in his political views, and is one of the enterprising citizens of the county, and at all times supports the cause of education.

Marshall G. Dudley was born in Perry County, Tenn., February 18, 1848, and is a son of Dr. Guilford and Mahala (Dicus) Dudley, who were born in Tennessee, in 1799 and 1817, and died November 15, 1860, and August 20, 1861, respectively. The father was a very prominent physician, and was a graduate of the Louisville Medical College. He was a Whig in his political views, and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Only two of their seven children are living: Marshall G. and Anna B. (wife of John W. Hendricks). In 1864 Marshall G. Dudley enlisted in Company I, Ninth Tennessee Cavalry, Confederate States army, but was soon after captured and retained at Nashville, Tenn., until the close of the war. Soon after his marriage he removed to Wayne County, where he resided, engaged in farming, until 1882, when he became a resident of Pemiscot County, Mo. In connection with farming he has followed merchandising, and was city marshal of Clifton, Wayne Co., Tenn., for some time. Since coming to Missouri he has been engaged in farming and stock raising. July 15, 1866, he was married, in Wayne County, Tenn., to Mary F. Warrington, who was born in Wayne County, Tenn., November 15, 1845. She is a daughter of Elijah and Docia Caroline Warrington, who were born in Tennessee and Kentucky, in 1799 and 1817, respectively. The father is now residing with Mr. Dudley. The mother died near Clifton, Tenn., in 1880. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley are the parents of the following children: Guilford, Edwin (born April 16, 1867), Louie Marshal (born February 20, 1869), Lulu Docia Bland (born December 19, 1874) and Frank W. (born October 10, 1881). The following children are dead: Milton T., Fred T. and Mattie A. Mr. Dudley is a Democrat, and he and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Samuel Allen Everright, a native of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born February 13, 1853, and is a son of Thomas and Annie (Hubbs) Everright. The father was born in New York, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., when Samuel E. was very young, and in consequence but little is known of the Everright family. The mother was born in Henderson County, Tenn., and died in Pemiscot County, April 23, 1877. After Mr. Everright's death, she married D. A. Harrington who is also dead. Samuel A. Everright is the fourth of five children, all of whom are deceased except himself. He made his home with his mother until eighteen years of age and then worked for wages for a number of years. From 1874 to 1884 he rented land, and at the latter date purchased his present farm. He is a Democrat and held the office of constable for some time, being elected in 1874. He is a Mason. August 10, 1873 he was united in marriage to Harriet Orton, a daughter of Thomas Orton. She was born in Pemiscot County, October 10, 1855, and she and Mr. Everright became the parents of five children, four of whom are living: Rosa L., Cora, Lela and Cleveland. Dora died at the age of two years. Mr. Everright is a deacon in the Baptist Church, of which he and wife are members.

William R. Fields, was born in Kentucky, Fulton County, July 12, 1827, and is the son of Absalom and Lucy Ann J. P. (Hester) Fields. The father was born in Williamson County, Tenn., and was killed by the explosion of a steamer, "Persian," one of the first Mississippi steamers. He was a carpenter by occupation. He had moved from Williamson County, Tenn., to Graves County, Ky., where he located and remained for some time. He afterward moved to Weakley County, Tenn., where he passed the balance of his days. He was constable for several years. His wife was a native of North Carolina, and died in Weakley County, Tenn., in 1842, when about thirty five years of age. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Of the nine children born to their marriage, four are now living: Absalom, Matilda, Mickey and William R. The last named received a rather meager education, but by his own exertions has become quite well informed on nearly all subjects. He remained at home until after the death of his parents, when he was obliged to start out for himself, and worked for some time on a farm, for $4 per month. In 1847 he entered a blacksmith shop in Obion County, Tenn., and there worked for seven years, when a broken arm caused him to abandon this and he afterward engaged in farming. July 27, 1850, he married Miss Eliza Jones, a native of Pittsylvania County, Va., born November 16, 1826, and the daughter of John D. Jones, a farmer of Weakley County, Tenn. This union was blessed by the birth of four children, only one, Eliza J., now living. She is the wife of Solomon Nelson, a farmer in Pemiscot County. In 1870 Mr. Fields and family moved to Greene County, Ark., where they lived one year, and then moved to Pemiscot County. Here they have since remained. Mr. Fields is the owner of a fine farm, well located and well improved. In 1861 he enlisted in Capt. Buford's company, of the first troops organized in Tennessee. He was in the Confederate service but was a Union man, and is that to-day. He served twelve months against his will and participated in the battles of Shiloh and Belmont, and in the former battle received a flesh-wound in the right arm. In connection with his farming interest, Mr. Fields raises cattle and hogs and is doing well. While in Obion County, Tenn., he served two years as constable, and has always been a Democrat in his political views. Mr. Field is a Mason, an Odd Fellow and is also a member of the Wheel. He and wife are members of the Baptist Church, of which he is a deacon. He takes a great interest in Sunday-schools, and is a much respected citizen.

Judge Charles W. Fisher, a prominent citizen of Pemiscot County, Mo., and the son of Sylvanius and Nancy (Yarbro) Fisher, was born in Perry County, Tenn., July 27, 1823. The parents were natives of Mecklenburg County, N. C., born about 1797, and both died in Perry County, Tenn., in 1834 and 1876, respectively. The father was a farmer and blacksmith by occupation, and moved to Tennessee about 1816. Both he and wife were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and were the parents of seven children, six now living: John W., a Methodist minister and farmer of Decatur County, Tenn.; Electy, widow of C. Fisher, who was a farmer of Pemiscot County; Charles W. Fisher, the subject of this sketch, now living in Pemiscot County, Mo.; James, died in Decatur County, Tenn., in 1858 (was a farmer); Mary Ann, now residing in Decatur County, Tenn.; Arnold A., farmer of Weakley County, Tenn., and Sylvanius, a farmer of Lamar County, Tex. After the death of her husband Mrs. Fisher married Daniel White. Charles W. Fisher left his home at the age of eighteen, and began to farm for himself, which has since been his occupation. He remained in Decatur County, Tenn., until 1861, when, on February 27 of that year, he went to Pemiscot County, Mo., and has been residing there ever since, with the exception of the years 1863 and 1864, when he resided in Illinois. He received a liberal education by his own exertions, and when nineteen years of age was elected captain of a company of militia, and remained an officer in the State militia for about eight years. December 7, 1842, he married Miss Sarah Nix, who was born in Marshall County, Tenn., January 6, 1825, and who died in Pemiscot County, Mo., May 7, 1882. She was the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Nix, and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. To her marriage were born eleven children, only two now living: William J. and Arnold A., both living in Pemiscot County. June 25, 1882, Mr. Fisher married Mrs. Mary A. Thompson, a native of Tennessee, the sister of Mr. Fisher's former wife, and the widow of James Thompson, who died in the Federal army. About 1848 Mr. Fisher was appointed justice of the peace, which position he held for about two years. In 1859 he was again elected justice of the peace, and this time held the office until he left the State. In 1865, after coming to Missouri, he was appointed county judge, and served until the next general election, when he was re-elected, and served two years longer. He was then elected probate judge, served one term, and afterward served another term as county judge. During the war Judge Fisher was a consistent Union man, and since the war has been a Democrat. His first presidential vote was for Henry Clay. He has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for forty years, is a member of the Wheel, and is the owner of a well improved and cultivated farm.

John J. Fisher, a leading citizen of Godair Township, and the owner of one of the best located and improved farms in Pemiscot County, was born in Decatur County, Tenn., October 9, 1863, being the son of John F. and Nancy Jane (Moody) Fisher, natives of Decatur County, Tenn. The father was a farmer all his life. In 1870 he left Decatur County, Tenn., and moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he died December 20, 1883. He was successful in his business transactions, was a Democrat in politics, and he and wife were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She was born in Decatur County, Tenn., and died in Pemiscot County, when her son, John J., was but eight years of age. Their family consisted of eleven children, only three now living: William C., James H. and John J. William C. remained at home until his father's death. John J. began life as a farmer, and on starting for himself he had about forty-five acres, and to this he has added enough to make 180 acres. March 25, 1881, he married Miss Fannie L. Lewis, a native of Obion County, Tenn., born February 18, 1867, and the daughter of Dr. L. N. Lewis, of Pemiscot County, who was born in Tennessee, November 29, 1836, and who died in Pemiscot County, April 9, 1883. To Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were born two children only one, Ella V., now living. Ernest L. died when eleven months old. Mr. Fisher is a supporter of the Democratic platform, and is one of the enterprising farmers of the county.

Aladdin C. Foust was born in Kentucky, April 26, 1834, and is the son of Lewis and Rebecca (Parmley) Foust. The father was born in Pennsylvania, and the mother in Kentucky. He died in Missouri in 1854, at the unusual age of ninety-four, and she died the same year at the also unusual age of eighty-two. They lived together about sixty years. He moved to Kentucky when a young man, was married there and there remained until 1827, when he moved to Obion County, Tenn., and there remained twelve years. He then moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., then a part of New Madrid County, and a wilderness. The inhabitants were Indians and wild animals. Mr. Foust lived in this county about twelve years, when he moved to Dent County, and there passed his last days. He was a cabinet-maker by occupation, but followed farming the latter part of his days. He was very successful and accumulated a large amount of property. When in Obion County he was the owner of a large tract of land and a large number of slaves, but security broke him up. During the War of 1812 he was under Gen. Jackson at New Orleans. He and wife were life-long members of the Baptist Church. Eleven children were born to this marriage, the subject of this sketch being the eleventh. Aladdin C. Foust received a limited education, but by observation and general reading is considered a well-informed man. He remained with his parents until twenty years of age, or until 1852, when he crossed the plains to California, enduring many hardships on the way. He there mined for two years, and was successful, bringing home with him $2,000. He then located in Pemiscot County, his old home, invested his money in land, and farmed until just before the war, when he traded land for a stock of goods at Spring Creek, Tenn., but the war took all. During 1864 and 1865 he carried dispatches, and was in many a tight place, but though shot at numerous times, was never wounded. After the war he settled on the farm where he now lives, went in debt for it, but by hard work soon paid for the same, and now has 320 acres of as good land as is to be found in the county. He has 2,000 apple trees, all the fruits of his own exertion. In 1856 he was elected registrar and land receiver of Pemiscot County, holding the office until 1860. In 1856 he married Margaret McFarland, who was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1827, and died June 17, 1886, leaving six children, five now living: James M., Mary F., Dixie A., Margaret S., John E. (deceased) and R. E. Mrs. Foust was the daughter of Elab and Elizabeth McFarland, the oldest family in the county, with the exception of the Walker family. Mr. Foust is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and is, in his political views, a Democrat.

Patrick Fowler is a native of Perry County, Ind., and was born May 7, 1832. He is a son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Stephens) Fowler, who were born in Marion and Nelson Counties, Ky., in 1802 and 1797, and died in Perry County, Ind., in 1884 and 1874, respectively. They became residents of Perry County, Ind., in 1829. The father was a farmer, and a Democrat, and he and his wife were members of the Catholic Church. Patrick Fowler is the third of their seven children. He received a limited education, and for about three years engaged in boating on the Mississippi River. He then turned his attention to farming, and has continued the same up to present time. He came to Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1875, where he owns a good farm. November 22, 1853, he married Ann Wheatley, a daughter of Thomas Wheatley. She was born in Perry County, Ind., August 22, 1834, and became the mother of ten children, seven of whom are living: Bridget, William D., Leonard E., Amanda, Emeline, Charles T., Josephine M. and Elizabeth. Those deceased are John, Thomas J. and an infant. Mr. Fowler is a Republican, and he and family are members of the Catholic Church.

Hon. Henry Clay Garrett, a prominent merchant of Cottonwood Point, Mo., was born in Vanderburg County, Ind., January 11, 1840, and is a son of Corydon and Sarah (James) Garrett. The father was born in Kentucky, June 3, 1813, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., September 13, 1861. He was a resident of Indiana until 1858, when he located in Missouri, and here lived until his death. His wife was born in Vanderburg County, Ind., in 1818, and there resided until her death. They were the parents of nine children, and Henry C. is the second child, and the eldest of the three now living. Martha E., a sister, is the wife of Dr. Q. A. Tipton, and is residing at Cottonwood Point. James M., a brother, is also living at Cottonwood Point. Henry C. Garrett received a good education, and was attending school in Indiana when the war broke out. He left school for the purpose of joining the army, and enlisted in Company G, First Missouri Infantry, of the Confederate States army, and served twelve months. He was taken prisoner at Memphis, Tenn., and paroled. He did not re-enlist in the service, but began teaching school, but soon discontinued that business and began farming, which occupation he has followed up to the present time. He kept a general merchandise store at Cottonwood Point for some time, and then disposed of his goods, and since that time has been selling drugs and groceries. He was postmaster of the town for some time, and served several years as magistrate. In 1886 he was elected to represent Pemiscot County in the State Legislature, and did good work in the Thirty-fourth General Assembly. In 1863 he married Amanda Jackson, who died in Missouri in 1866, leaving two children: Eva and William. In 1867 Mr. Garrett took for his second wife Annie M. Seavy, and by her became the father of five children, three living: Edgar T., Walter B. and Georgia I. Those deceased are Sarah M. and Hattie Mabel. Mr. Garrett is a Democrat and a member of the A. F. & A. M.

Newberry Gibson, a leading citizen of Virginia Township, and the owner of a well improved and well located farm south of the Pemiscot Bayou, was born in Henderson County, Tenn., February 15, 1848, and is the son of Roger and Elizabeth (Still) Gibson, natives, respectively, of Henderson and Decatur Counties, Tenn. The father was a successful farmer and stock raiser by occupation, and died at the age of forty-nine, on March 22, 1875. His widow still survives at the age of sixty, and finds a pleasant home with her children in Coffman County, Tex. She is a member of the Baptist Church. Mr. Gibson was a Democrat in his political views. They were the parents of ten children, five of whom are living: Nancy (wife of Dixie Still, of this county), Porter J., Greenberry, and Margaret (Mrs. William Jackson), all residents of Texas, and Newberry, the eldest of the family. He remained at home and worked upon his father's farm until his marriage, February 11, 1873, to Miss Mary G. Stone, a daughter of William Stone. She was born in Decatur County, Tenn., October 18, 1861, accompanying her parents to Missouri when young. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson have had five children, three of whom are living: Eudore Lee, Gideon and Bonnie. Aurora and Roger are deceased. Since his marriage Mr. Gibson has been carrying on farming on his own account, first renting land, but in 1875 he purchased ninety acres, which he has since sold, buying other property until he is now owner of one of the best farms in this section, all the result of his own industry and good management. He is a member of the Masonic order at Cottonwood Point, belongs to Gayoso lodge of the I. O. O. F., to the Wheel, and politically is a Democrat.

Thomas B. Gordon, a worthy citizen and native of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born January 16, 1858, and is a son of Duff Gordon, who was killed during the war. After the death of his father, which occurred when Thomas was about two years of age, he was taken into the family of Rev. Henry T. Blythe, a Methodist minister, of Mississippi County, Ark., and remained with him until 1876, when he returned to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since been engaged in farming. All his property has been acquired through his own industry and good management. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and in his political views is a Democrat. October 11, 1883, he was united in marriage to Amanda Edsall, a daughter of James and Charlotte Edsall. She was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., December 24, 1864, and is the mother of one daughter, Edith M. Mr. Gordon worked for wages until 1884, when he rented land, and in 1886 purchased his present farm.

Thomas J. Green, son of Andrew J. and Jane (Nighton) Green, was born in Wayne County, Tenn., March 18, 1838. The parents were natives of Wayne County, Tenn., also, and both are now deceased. The father died in Wayne County, in 1850, at the age of thirty-six, and the mother died in Pemiscot County, in 1879, at the age of sixty-six. The father was a farmer all his life, and a Whig in politics. His wife was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for over fifty years. Our subject was the second of eight children, and is the only one living at the present time. As all early settlers know, education was a thing not easily obtained at that day, and consequently Mr. Green did not get very far in his studies. Notwithstanding this, by general reading and observation he is considered a well informed man. At the age of fifteen he began to aid in supporting the younger members of the family, and assisted his mother in every way he could. In the fall of 1862, he enlisted in Company A, Ninth Tennessee Cavalry, and in September of the following year he was severely wounded in the right leg, which disabled him from further duty during the war. He was orderly sergeant during service, and participated in the raid through West Tennessee, Middle Tennessee, around Nashville, and was in various engagements. After the war he engaged in farming and dealing in stock, which he continues at the present time. January 22, 1858, previous to the war, he married Miss Elizabeth Churchwell, a native of Wayne County, Tenn., born September 1, 1838, and the daughter of Elias Churchwell. The fruits of this union were seven children: John W., William J., Andrew J., Fannie E., Elias D., Amos A. and Alonzo F. In 1873 Mr. Green moved from Tennessee to Pemiscot County, where he has since resided. In 1882, during the high water, he lost over 100 head of stock; since then he has been engaged more in farming. He has a fine farm and is doing well. He was deputy sheriff of Pemiscot County under Peter H. Scott, and when Mr. Scott resigned in May, 1884, Mr. Green was appointed in his place, and served the balance of the unexpired term. Previous to this he had served for several years as deputy under several officers. Mr. Green is a Democrat in politics, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They are well respected by all who know them.

Martin Luther Grymes, a young and enterprising farmer of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in that county August 26, 1856, and is the son of Henry B. and Harriet (Marsh) Grymes, natives of Tennessee, and New Madrid County, Mo., respectively. The father, when a young man, moved to Missouri from Tennessee, and located in what was then New Madrid County, but what is now Pemiscot County. He followed agricultural pursuits, and in connection dealt largely in live stock, being quite successful, and leaving at the time of his death, which occurred in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1859, considerable property. He was a Democrat in politics, but did not aspire to office holding. His wife died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1875, and at the time of her death was about forty-three years old. Mr. Grymes was about thirty-eight years of age when he died. After his death Mrs. Grymes married William A. Ruddle, who is now living, and is a resident of Pemiscot County. To her first marriage were born three children, two now living: Braden Columbus and the subject of this sketch. Braden is engaged in agricultural pursuits in Pemiscot County, is married and doing well. Martin Luther Grymes remained with his mother until her death, when he began to farm for himself, and at that time was the owner of seventy-four acres. He is now the owner of 400 acres of good land, 140 acres under cultivation, all well improved and well located, being one mile west of Stewart's Landing. Besides farming Mr. Grymes is also engaged in raising stock, having on hand not less than sixty head of cattle. He is a liberal supporter of the cause of education, is a Democrat in politics, and is a member of the Masonic fraternity.

John Hartwell is a native of Jefferson County, Ind., born May 15, 1828, being the son of Ephraim and Susan Hartwell, who were natives of New York and Pennsylvania, respectively. They were married in Indiana, but both had been previously married. The father was a farmer and distiller by occupation, and was eighty-seven years of age at the time of his death, which occurred in Indiana. The mother also died in the same State, and was seventy-three years of age at that time. To their marriage were born four children, all living. John Hartwell was the third child born to this union. His advantages for receiving an education were limited, but reading and coming in contact with all kinds of business have rendered him a well informed man. He remained at home and worked on his father's farm until twenty-two years of age, when he engaged in business for himself on a farm, and this he has since continued. September 19, 1849, he married Miss Elizabeth Ann Tobias, who was born in Jefferson County, Ind., and died in Iowa in 1857, being about twenty-five years of age at the time of her death. She left four children, two of whom are now living: Mary Ann and Arena Ada. Those deceased were named Eliza Ann and Elizabeth Ann. July 5, 1858, Mr. Hartwell married Ann Eliza Hudson, who was a native of Vermont, born January 1, 1852, and who died in Pemiscot County, Mo., January 8, 1873, leaving five children, three now living: Lewis L., James H. and James Alexander. The two deceased were named Lemuel Elsworth and Eliza Ann. In 1855 Mr. Hartwell went to Appanoose County, Iowa, where he lived five years. He then moved back to Jefferson County, Ind., and after remaining there two years moved to Scott County, Ind., where he lived until 1867, when he moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since resided. He has a fine farm of 320 acres, a considerable portion of which is improved. In 1874 Mr. Hartwell married Mrs. Nancy Powers, who died in 1879, leaving no children. Since then Mr. Hartwell married Mrs. Barbara Ann Smith, who was born in Georgia in 1829. He affiliates with the Republican party in his political views, is a member of the Wheel, a member of the Masonic order, and is a member and an officer in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

John Henderson, an enterprising citizen of Pemiscot County, Mo., and the son of William and Cynthia (Miller) Henderson, was born in Hardin County, Ky., June 4, 1837. His parents were natives of Jefferson and Grayson Counties, Ky., and his grandfather, John Henderson, was born in Pittsburgh, Penn. He was a soldier in the War of 1812, was at the battle of New Orleans, and was quite a prominent man. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and died at Louisville, Ky., while attending lodge. William Henderson followed agricultural pursuits all his life, and was also a miller by occupation. He died in 1843, when about thirty years of age. His wife then married Diamack Hay, and lived in Kentucky until her death in 1861, at the age of about forty. William Henderson was a member of the Catholic Church, and his wife a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. To their union were born three children, John Henderson being the only one now living. Jacob M. died while a prisoner at Andersonville during the war; was a member of the Louisville Legion, or Second Kentucky Cavalry, Federal service, and was a veteran. William P. was accidentally killed immediately after the battle of Murfreesboro. He was a member of the Second Kentucky Cavalry. John Henderson left home when fourteen years of age, and was on the Louisville and Nashville Pike for ten years teaming, and was during the time working on the Nashville & Memphis Railroad. At the breaking out of the war he was in Arkansas, and immediately came back to Louisville, Ky., where he enlisted in the Louisville Legion, which afterward became the Second Kentucky Cavalry (United States army). This was in July, 1861. He was in service until the fall, when he was taken down with the rheumatism, and was obliged to go on crutches eighteen months after he was out of bed. As soon as he was able he began farming in Hardin County, on rented land, where he remained until the close of the war, when he moved to Spencer County, Ind., and continued to farm on rented land. He lived in this State and Kentucky until 1879, when he came to Pemiscot County, Mo., and rented the farm that he now owns, which now consists of 370 acres in Pemiscot County, Mo., and he also owns 120 acres in Arkansas. He is a self-made man, and owes his success to his industry and good management. In 1863 he married Miss Betsy Ann Miller, who was born in Hart County, Ky., and died in Spencer County, Ind., in 1874. She was born about 1838, and became the mother of four children, two now living: Riley and Lee. Those deceased are named James and Laura. In 1876 Mr. Henderson married Mrs. Laura (Adams) Kirkland, a daughter of Alfred Adams, and widow of Thomas Kirkland (deceased). She was born in Perry County, Ind., in 1847. This marriage resulted in the birth of one son, Harry. Mr. Henderson is a Republican in politics, and his wife is a member of the Baptist Church.

David Glen Hendrick, ex-judge of Pemiscot County, Mo., is the youngest of twelve children, and the only one now living, born to Hance and Sarah (Nevels) Hendrick. He was born in Guilford County, N. C., September 1, 1825, shortly after his parents' removal from Virginia to that place. Hance Hendrick was of Irish descent, and was born in Virginia. He was a farmer and shoemaker, and was a soldier in the War of 1812. He died in North Carolina in 1845. His wife was born in Virginia, and died in what is now Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1852. Both were worthy members of the Christian Church. After the father's death David G. Hendrick began taking care of his mother and sister, and to do so engaged in the occupation of farming, which he has continued up to the present time. In 1849 he came west and located on Island No. 21 on the Mississippi River, but soon located in Missouri in what is now Pemiscot County. After the high water of 1858 he moved to Dyer County. The following March he located on his present farm. In 1860 he was elected justice of the peace, and in 1870 was elected county judge and served two years. Sarah Pitman became his wife in 1852. She was born in Decatur County, Tenn., about 1837, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1866, leaving no children. The latter part of the same year Mr. Hendrick married Mrs. Nancy Gordon, who was born in Mississippi County, Ark. She is a daughter of Moses Crawford, who is the oldest citizen of Northeast Arkansas. Mrs. Hendrick was the mother of one child by her marriage with Duff Gordon: John T. (deceased). She is the mother of seven living children by her present marriage: Julius H. and Julia N., Lillian, Anna, David G., Ellen and Iola. Isaac B. and Etta are dead. Mr. Hendrick is a Good Templar, a Mason and Democrat, and his wife is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Leonard C. Hickerson is a native of New Madrid County, Mo., and was born February 28, 1845. He is a son of Henry L. and Martha (Reaves) Hickerson, both of whom were born in Tennessee in 1820, the former in Weakley County, and the latter in Humphreys County. They were married in New Madrid County, Mo., whither they had come with their parents. The mother died in 1863. The father is still living, and has been engaged in farming all his life. During the late war he served in the Confederate army for six months, and in his political views is a Democrat. After the death of his wife, he married Mrs. Dicey Randall, and, after her death, married Connie Forsythe, who is still living. Nine children were born to his first marriage, five of whom are living at the present time. Leonard C. is the eldest of those living. He received very poor educational advantages, owing to the early times and to the fact that his services were needed on the farm. At the age of twenty-one he began earning his own living, and engaged in farming, being now the owner of 160 acres of excellent land. In 1873 he was married to Mary M. Lawson, who was born in Arkansas, in 1856, and died in 1876, leaving two children, John Henry and Robert L. Mr. Hickerson is a Democrat, and a member of the Baptist Church.

Ransom Hicks is a native of Gibson County, Tenn., born June 16, 1833, and is the son of James and Susan (Sanford) Hicks, natives of South Carolina and Gibson County, Tenn., respectively. The father died in Greene County, Ark., in 1862, and at the time of his death was forty-three years of age. He was a Whig in politics. He was but a child when his parents moved from South Carolina to Gibson County, Tenn. He was married in the last named county, and in 1859 moved to Greene County, Ark., where he passed the remainder of his days. Mrs. Hicks died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1869, and was forty-five years old at that time. To this marriage was born a large family of children, eight now living, Ransom being the eldest. At the age of eighteen, he left home, hired out and worked for wages until twenty-four years of age, or until August 20, 1857, when he married Miss Elizabeth Biggs, a native of Gibson County, Tenn., and the daughter of Zachariah Biggs. Nine children were born to this marriage, six now living: Mary S., Sarah, Lucy E., Matilda J., George Y. and Samuel S. Those deceased are James R., Thomas E. and Francis. After marriage Mr. Hicks began farming and stock raising, and this he has since continued. In the spring of 1862 he enlisted in the Confederate army, and served one year, when he was discharged on account of ill health. During that time he participated in the battle of Cane Hill. He and family moved from Gibson County, Tenn., to Dunklin County, Mo., where they resided two years. He then moved to Greene County, Ark., and from there, in 1863, to Pemiscot County, Mo. He is now the owner of 1,300 acres of good land, all the result of hard work and good management. He is a member of the Wheel, is a Democrat in his political views, and he and his wife are members of the Baptist Church.

William H. Hudgens, son of Josiah and Harriet (Lasaur) Hudgens, was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., February 5, 1847. The father was born in Indiana, in 1827, is now living, and is a resident of Pemiscot County. He came to Missouri when a young man, and located in Pemiscot County, where he has followed farming all his life. He is a Democrat in politics, and is a member of the Wheel. His wife was born in New Madrid County, about 1828, and both are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They reared an interesting family of four children, three now living, viz.: Mary E. (now the wife of Walter M. Hoag, now a resident of Pemiscot County, and a photographer at Needmore), William H. and Alfred W. (now a resident of Pemiscot County, engaged in farming). William H. Hudgens received a limited education, but notwithstanding this, by his own efforts, he has become a well-informed man. July 16, 1868, he married Miss Mary H. Teror, a native of Pemiscot County, born January 9, 1852. The fruits of this union were seven children, all living, viz.: Harriet A. and Mary J. (twins), William D., John W., Nicholas R., James H. and Ruth Ann. Mr. Hudgens has a good farm, well located, and well improved, all the result of his own exertions. He has been a great hunter, and can relate many interesting anecdotes connected with his hunting expeditions. He is a member of the Wheel, and he and wife are members of the Missionary Baptist Church, of which he is a deacon. He is a staunch supporter of the Democratic platform.

Hon. Jesse Huffman was born in Pittsylvania County, Va., December 28, 1822, and is a son of Michael and Millie (Kaizee) Huffman. The father was of German descent, and was born in Maryland, where his parents had located on coming to the United States. He afterward moved to Virginia, thence to Tennessee, where he died, in 1865. He was a very successful farmer, and was a life-long Whig. The mother was born in Virginia, and died in Missouri, in 1876. She was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, all her life. They were the parents of eighteen children. Jesse Huffman received very limited early educational advantages, but acquired a good education through his own exertions at home. At the age of twenty-two he left home, and went to Dyer County, Tenn., where he worked for wages for over a year, and then engaged in the wood business. This work he continued for five years. September 26, 1846, he married Melissa D. Branch, who was born in Tennessee, and died in Missouri, March 23, 1870. Six of their nine children are living: Emma E. (Helm), Susan (Brusher), William H. and James S. (twins), Jesse David and Missouri Ann. Those deceased are Amanda M., Ella (Powell) and Andrew. In 1871 Mr. Huffman married Amanda M. Powell, who died in Missouri, in 1879, leaving two children: Anna M. and Edwin S. After his first marriage Mr. Huffman moved to Arkansas, and after residing there seven years, moved to Missouri. In connection with farming he has been engaged in the mercantile business, a considerable portion of the time. He owns 1,000 acres of good land well improved. While residing in Arkansas he served as magistrate four years, and two years as associate judge. In Missouri he has held the offices of postmaster, magistrate, and in 1856 was elected presiding judge of the county, and held that office for six years. After the war he was appointed supervisor of registration. In 1870 he was elected to the State Legislature and served one term. He is a Mason and Democrat.

John W. Jacobs, an enterprising citizen of the county, was born in Arkansas, January 18, 1840, and is the son of William and Missouri (Cersey) Jacobs. The father was born in Cape Girardeau County, Mo., and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1854, being about thirty-five years of age at that time. He was a farmer all his life. When a young man he went to Arkansas, was married there and there resided until 1841, when he moved back to Pemiscot County (then New Madrid County). His wife is a native of Arkansas, is now living and is about sixty-three years of age. After her husband's death she married John G. Jacobs, who is now living, and is nearly eighty years of age. After the death of his father, John W. Jacobs lived with his uncle until June, 1861, when he enlisted in Company K, First Missouri Infantry, Confederate army, and served three years. He participated in many battles, the principal ones being Shiloh, Corinth, Port Gibson, Baker's Creek and siege of Vicksburg. While at the last named battle he received a musket ball through his wrist, which has disabled him for life. At the same battle he received a wound in the right hip and was then granted a furlough. From that time until July, 1865, he was traveling through Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi. He then returned to Pemiscot County, where he has since resided. April 11, 1867, he married Miss Clorilda Harris, a daughter of William A. Harris, and a native of Lake County, Tenn., born in 1858. She died in Pemiscot County, Mo., December 6, 1879, leaving four children, one now living, Stella, who is at home. Those deceased are Frank, Mary and Philip. February 29, 1880, Mr. Jacobs married Mrs. Nannie (Fisher) Hicks, daughter of Patrick Fisher and widow of William Hicks. She was born in Decatur County, Tenn., March 18, 1848. After his first marriage, Mr. Jacobs began farming, and has continued this ever since except about two years, when he kept Stewart's Landing. He has 160 acres of good land, and is a self-made man, having started with nothing. He held the office of constable for ten years, or until he was elected assessor, which office he held one term. In 1886 he was elected justice of the peace of Butler Township. He is I. G. of the I. O. O. F., and is politically a Democrat.

James L. Johnson is a native of St. Francis County, Ark., born January 11, 1840, and is the son of Elisha and Sarah (McFall) Johnson, natives of Kentucky and Indiana, respectively. The father died in Hancock County, of his native State, in 1848, and was about forty years of age at that time. He was a farmer, and he and wife were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mrs. Johnson died in Kentucky when her son James L. was fifteen years of age. He was the fourth of six children, three now living. After the death of his mother, James L. worked at different places until July 26, 1861, when he enlisted in Company F, Twenty-sixth Indiana Infantry, serving three years and four months. He re-enlisted in the Kentucky State Guards, Company D, Grand River Battalion, and was made first lieutenant. During service he participated in the siege of Morgan Bend, La., and was taken to Tyler, Texas, where he was kept a prisoner ten months. After the war he went to Indiana, and after remaining there a short time returned, and in 1866 came to Southeast Missouri, locating in Pemiscot County, with the intention of hunting and farming, which he has since continued. In 1871 he married Miss Elizabeth Acuff, who was born in Kentucky in 1848, and is the daughter of Benjamin Acuff. The result of this union was the birth of six children, two living, John W. and Henrietta A. Mr. Johnson is a Republican in his political views, is a member of the Wheel, and he and wife are members of the Baptist Church.

John W. Jones, a leading citizen of Gayoso Township, Pemiscot Co., Mo., was born in Johnson County, Tenn., June 29, 1834, being the son of John W. and Eva Ann Jones. The father was a native of Virginia, and died shortly after the Mexican War, perhaps about 1849 or 1850. He was engaged in iron mining and smelting on the Cumberland River, following this business for many years. He was highly educated, and was by occupation a shoemaker. He was also an expert bookkeeper and was a prosperous man. He was preparing his business to come to Illinois at the breaking out of the Mexican War, and so he sent his children to that State, but before he could settle his business transactions, to follow them, was taken ill and died. He was justice of the peace for many years, was a soldier in the Florida War, and had been twice married, his last marriage being to the mother of our subject, the result being the birth of three children, only one now living, John W. He was sent to Illinois, and here attended the country schools for about six or seven years, after which he attended the high school at Alton for some time. He then left school to serve as night watchman, and afterward had control of the school at Alton prison for three years, which position he gave up to enlist in Company B, Twenty-second Illinois Volunteer Infantry, under Col. John Daugherty, who was afterward governor of the State of Illinois, and served three years. He participated in many battles, the most important being Belmont, Shiloh, Corinth, Farmington, Stone River, Tullahoma, Chickamauga and Chattanooga, and was then ordered home as recruiting officer. He shortly afterward returned to the army at Dalton, Ga., was in the march to Atlanta, was in the army of the Cumberland, and was wounded but once, when a spent ball made a slight mark on the side of his head. He then returned to Alton, Ill., and turned his attention to farming, which he continued until 1884, when he came to Pemiscot County, Mo., and again began farming. He was the first one to introduce the culture of the castor bean, which has become a profitable employment. While in Illinois Mr. Jones was justice of the peace, which position he held for three years. August 27, 1865, he married Miss Julia A. Hayes, who was born in Madison County, Ill., but where she was born is now in the middle of the Mississippi River. Her birth occurred August 28, 1848, and she received her education in the Alton Female Seminary. She has been engaged in teaching school since coming to Missouri until the present year. She is the daughter of Elijah Hayes. To Mr. and Mrs. Jones were born five children: John H., Edith R., Mary F., James E. and Ben P. Mr. Jones is a Republican in politics, is a member of the Wheel, being trustee and lecturer of the same, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

William A. Joplin, merchant at Caruthersville, whose stock of goods is valued at $5,000, and whose annual sales equal $40,000, established his business in 1885, and carries a full line of dry goods, groceries, hardware, queensware, provisions, flour, etc. He was born in Bedford County, Va., December 11, 1844, and is the son of James W. and Emma (Booth) Joplin. The father was a farmer by occupation, was quite wealthy, but during the late war all his property was destroyed. He is now living with his children. His wife was born in Franklin County, Va., and died in that county in 1868, at the age of sixty-three. Of the eight children born to this union, seven are sons, and six of them went through the war. They are named as follows: Thomas M. (a lumber dealer at Nashville, Tenn.), James B. (merchant, and farmer of Alabama), Jesse (resident of St. Louis County, Mo., an extensive stock dealer), J. C. (who resides in Los Angeles, Cal., and is a fruit dealer), F. M. (who is a merchant of Elizabethtown, Ky.), William A., and Bettie Martin (widow of William C. Martin, who was a resident of Nashville, Tenn.) and O. K. (who is now residing in Memphis, Tenn., and principal stock owner of the Memphis & St. Francois Packet Co. He is also captain of the steamer "Rene McCady," plying between Memphis and St. Francois). Charles P. was drowned at Memphis when in his sixteenth year. Six of these sons were in active service in the Confederate army during the late war, and Thomas was major in Gen. Morgan's brigade. William A. Joplin was married to Miss Emma Cromey in 1882. She is the daughter of William Cromey, of Louisville, Ky., and by her marriage became the mother of two children, Mary K. and W. A., Jr. Mr. Joplin began business as a clerk in a wholesale grocery house at Memphis, and remained there from 1866 until coming to Caruthersville. After three years he went on the river as clerk and afterward as captain of the "Osceola Bell" and others. From 1877 to 1885 he was in the shoemaking business; also dealt in cotton, etc., under the firm title of Joplin & Co. He then came to Caruthersville. He is a Democrat in politics, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. During the late war he served in Company A, Thirty-seventh Virginia Cavalry, and was in service nineteen months. He was at the battle of Winchester and many others, but was never wounded or taken prisoner. He was sergeant-major of the regiment.

A. E. Ketcham, a farmer of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in East Tennessee, April 28, 1848. His parents both died when he was quite young, and he made his home with his uncle, David Ketcham, who was a resident of Marion County, Tenn., and remained with him until 1869, when he moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since been engaged in the occupation of farming. He owns a well improved and fertile farm, all of which he has earned through his own exertions. In 1876 he was united in marriage to Martha Joice, who was born in Hickman County, Tenn., and is a daughter of Alexander Joice. Mr. and Mrs. Ketcham became the parents of the following children: Jane, Jack A., Cordelia, Mary and Lulu. Letha died when an infant. The Ketcham family are among the well-respected citizens of the county, and are among the first to encourage all laudable enterprises.

Henry W. Kimberly, one of the old and much respected citizens of Pemiscot County, Mo., and the son of Samuel W. and Sarah (Boyer) Kimberly, was born in Gallatin County, Ill., October 29, 1822. The father was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., and died in Illinois, when Henry W. was but an infant. He was about forty-five years of age at the time of his death, and was of Scotch descent. He learned the tailor's trade when a young man, and followed this occupation all his life. His parents were natives of Scotland. His wife was born on an island in the Ohio River, above Cincinnati, February 22, 1797, and died in Obion County, Tenn., in March, 1837. Four children were born to their marriage, Henry W. being the only one now living. The mother, after the death of Mr. Kimberly, married L. Stinson, who was also of Scotch descent. By the last union five children were born, only one now living: Eliza Morgan, the widow of John Morgan. She is now residing in Braggadocia, Pemiscot County, Mo. After her second marriage the mother moved to Obion County, Tenn., and here our subject remained until eighteen years of age, or in 1840, when he began for himself as a farmer. In 1845 he moved to Pemiscot County, where he has since resided. On starting for himself he had nothing, but by industry and good management, he is now the owner of 300 acres of as good land as is to be found in the county. January 18, 1853, he married Miss Loretta Castleberry, a daughter of David Castleberry, and a native of Princeton, Ky. In 1857 Mr. Kimberly was elected assessor of the county, and in 1861 was re-elected. Mrs. Kimberly died in Pemiscot County, Mo., on January 27, 1878, and was forty-eight years of age at that time. To their marriage were born seven children, only two now living: Willie Ann (the wife of F. M. King, a farmer of Pemiscot County) and Henry W. (who is at home). July 31, 1879, Mr. Kimberly married Mrs. Mary Wilson, daughter of John Williams, and the widow of William C. Wilson. Mrs. Kimberly was born near Humboldt, Madison Co., Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Kimberly are members of the Missionary Baptist Church, of which Mr. Kimberly has been a member for twenty-seven years, and has been deacon and clerk of the same. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Wheel, and is a Democrat in his political views.

J. B. Latshaw, merchant at Caruthersville, Pemiscot Co., Mo., was born at Ottawa, Ill., December 28, 1857, and is the son of William and C. B. (Smith) Latshaw, who were natives of Pennsylvania, and who moved to Illinois soon after marriage, locating near Ottawa, and remained there until 1860, when they moved to Evansville, Ind., where they have lived since. The father was a miner and speculator, and died in 1880. Five children were born to their marriage, four now living: Henry S. (now a resident of Vincennes, Ind., and a dentist by occupation), Thomas R. (a resident of Boonville, Ind., engaged in the livery business), Mary E. (wife of Samuel Matthena, who is in the livery business at Evansville, Ind.), Christian (who died when eight years of age) and J. B. (who is the youngest child, and the subject of this sketch). He lived in Evansville, Ind., until 1878, when he came to Cottonwood Point, Mo., and four years later he moved to Caruthersville, Pemiscot County. Until 1881 he was engaged in the mercantile business as salesman. At that date he began business in a general store, with a stock of groceries, drugs, etc. He now carries a stock of goods valued at $9,000, and his sales for 1887 equaled $28,200. December 1, 1881, he married Miss Mary L. Tinsley, daughter of Dr. J. D. Tinsley, of Caruthersville. This union was blessed by the birth of three children: Clara, May and J. B., Jr., all of whom are living. In connection with his store Mr. Latshaw operates a cotton-gin, also runs a warehouse, and buys and handles all kinds of country produce. He is now postmaster at Caruthersville, having been appointed to that position in the spring of 1887. From 1883 to 1885 he was mayor of the city, and has held almost all other city offices. Francis M. Lester, farmer, was born in Fulton County, Ky., July 2, 1842.

his parents, Lewis and Polly Ann (Gamble) Lester, having been natives of Georgia and Mississippi, respectively. The father was sixty-three years of age at the time of his death, which occurred in Pemiscot County, Mo., in 1868. He was a farmer and stock raiser by occupation, being fairly successful until the war, when he lost all his stock. In Mississippi he married Miss Gamble, and they afterward removed to Fulton County, Ky., during the very earliest settlement of the country. In 1850 they removed from there to Pemiscot County, Mo. In their family were six children, four now living: John W. (farmer), Josiah (also a farmer), Lewis and Francis. The last named lived at home until after his father's death, when he began tilling the soil on his present farm, which he purchased from the Oldham heirs. This farm is well located and well improved, all the effects of hard work and good management. August 6, 1866, he married Miss Mary Williams, a native of Stewart County, Tenn. She died in Pemiscot County in 1869, leaving one child, William P., who lived to be only eight years old. In 1873 Mr. Lester married Miss Amanda Stephens, who was born in Pemiscot County, and who died the year following, leaving one daughter, Amanda E., who died while yet an infant. In 1875 Mr. Lester took for his third wife Miss Frances Gilbraith. She was born in Pemiscot County, and died the year following her marriage, leaving an infant daughter, Anna E., who died afterward. The year following, on January 11, he married Miss Martha E. Benton, a native of Dunklin County, Mo., born in November, 1856, and the daughter of James Denton. Four children have blessed this union, all living: Ada, Lener, Henry N. and Bertha. Mr. Lester is a member of the Wheel, and in his political views affiliates with the Democratic party.

James D. Long, farmer, and son of Jefferson J. and Nancy C. (Jeffress) Long, was born in Bedford County, Tenn., January 23, 1865. The parents were both natives of Tennessee. The father was forty-one years of age at the time of his death, which occurred in 1869. He was a successful physician, and was a graduate of a medical college. He practiced his profession in Bedford County, Tenn., and came to Missouri with the intention of engaging in agricultural pursuits, and, in connection with this, also practiced his profession. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, a member of the Masonic fraternity, and a Democrat in politics. His widow is still living, and after the death of her husband, J. J. Long, she married Alfred F. Allen, and is now residing in Texas. To Mr. and Mrs. Long were born six children: R. F. (farmer), Sallie (wife of Alonzo Kersey), Mollie (wife of Samuel White, farmer), William A. (farmer), Annie (wife of Joseph White, farmer and merchant) and J. D. (who is the youngest). He left home in 1883 and began working for himself on a farm. May 24, 1884, he married Miss Elizabeth Harrington, daughter of D. A. Harrington, of Pemiscot County. The fruits of this union are two children: William J. and Herbert D. Mr. Long is a member of the Baptist Church, is a Democrat politically, and is one of the thrifty and enterprising farmers of the county.

Rev. Robert Marcelles Morgan, a prominent and successful Baptist minister of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in Decatur County, Iowa, February 17, 1856, and is the son of Uriah S. and Harriet Ellen (Fry) Morgan. The father was born in Highland County, Ohio, October 22, 1822, is now living and is a resident of Pemiscot County, Mo. He lived in his native county until 1854, when he moved to Decatur County, Iowa, where he and family resided until 1864, when they moved to Vermillion County, Ill. In 1865 they moved to Mississippi County, Ark., and five years later (1870) they moved to Pemiscot County. Here they have since resided. The father has followed farming all his life, and, although starting with nothing whatever, he has been very successful. The mother was also born in Highland County, Ohio, in 1836, and died in Hancock County, Ill., January 28, 1864. To their marriage were born eight children, five now living: Mary (wife of Sanford Q. Spain), Nancy A. (wife of William J. Matthews), Robert M., John N. and Josiah W. Those deceased are Julia Bell, who died at the age of four years; Sarah E., who was born in 1852 and died in 1881; David A. was born in 1862 and died from the effects of a fall from his horse, May 28, 1888; he was a farmer and a member of the Wheel. Robert M. remained at home until his marriage, which occurred December 13, 1877, to Miss Sarah Cavender, a native of Tennessee, born September 16, 1860, who died a little over a year after her marriage, leaving one daughter, Edna R. December 12, 1881, Mr. Morgan married Julia Vanover, a native of Pemiscot County, Mo., and died in the same county March 6, 1882. July 19, 1883, Mr. Morgan took for his third wife Miss Kate R. Garriott, who was born April 21, 1858, and who obtained a good education at Cape Girardeau and at Jonesboro, Ill., Normal. She is the daughter of Elijah Garriott, one of the most prominent citizens of the county and one of its first settlers, coming to this county in 1830. He was, it is thought, born in 1812, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., March 31, 1879. He kept the landing at Gayoso and was captain on a steamboat. He was postmaster and justice of the peace, and at the time of his death was the owner of a valuable amount of land. By his third wife Mr. Morgan became the father of one son, Harrold E., who was born December 12, 1886. Mr. Morgan joined the church July 23, 1883, and was ordained a minister June 28, 1884. His wife is also a member of the Baptist Church, but his father belongs to the Christian Church. Mr. Morgan is a Democrat in political principles, and a man with many friends.

Cannaday T. Moseley was born in Jefferson County, Tenn., September 22, 1833, and is the son of Benjamin F. and Rebecca (Owens) Moseley, who were natives of Virginia and Jefferson County, Tenn., respectively. The father was born about 1813, and died in Troup County, Ga., in 1853. He was a child when his parents moved to Tennessee, and when he was ten years old they moved to Georgia. In 1843 he moved to Wright County, Mo., and one year later he moved back to Georgia, and there resided until his death. He was successful in farming, and became quite wealthy, as also did his father before him. In 1836 and 1837 he was with the company that moved the Cherokee Indians to their reservation west of the Mississippi River. His wife was about his age, and died in Floyd County, Ga. She was a devoted member of the Baptist Church. To their marriage were born seven sons and two daughters, Canaday T. being the only one now living to represent the Moseley family. Being the eldest child, his advantages for receiving an education were very limited. Notwithstanding this, he compares very favorably with men who have had much better chances. He remained with his father until the latter's death, when he started for himself as a farmer. November 17, 1859, he married Miss Sarah Jane Dowdy, a native of Alabama, born January 20, 1844. No children were born to this union, but Mr. Moseley has reared five orphan children. In 1860 Mr. Moseley left Alabama, and moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since resided. He came to Missouri with limited means, all his wealth being five eagle half-dollars. He is now the owner of a good farm, and is engaged in dealing and trading in stock. He has on hand at the present 126 head of cattle, and trades in hogs as well as cattle. He is a Democrat in politics, a member of the Masonic fraternity, and is a worthy and respected citizen. His wife is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church.

George M. Nolin (deceased) was one of the prominent and respected citizens of Pemiscot County. He was born in Dickson County, Tenn., in 1827, and died at his residence in Pemiscot County, Mo., April 21, 1887. He was the son of Jonathan B. Nolin, who died in Dover, Tenn. George M. Nolin received an unusually good education, having attended some of the best schools and colleges in Tennessee, and was well informed on every subject. February 14, 1855, he married Miss Nancy C. Stewart, a native of Pemiscot County (when it was New Madrid), Tenn., born January 5, 1835, and the daughter of Robert Stewart, a very old settler of Pemiscot County, or rather of Southeast Missouri. Mr. Nolin came from Tennessee to Missouri when twenty-nine years of age, and made Pemiscot County his home the balance of his days. He began dealing in stock, and this continued, in connection with farming, all his life. He was, by close attention to business, industry and economy, very successful, and, at the time of his death, was the owner of about 1,000 acres of land in Pemiscot County, which is well located and well improved. He was never an office-seeker, and was a man well respected by all acquainted with him. By his union to Miss Stewart, who died January 4, 1873, were born seven children, only three now living. Jonathan B. was born February 21, 1858, and died April 10, 1887. He was twenty-six years of age at that time. Jacob Monroe was born March 18, 1863, and died April 17, 1887. He was twenty-three years of age at that time. Elizabeth E. was born October 19, 1860, and is still living. Robert P. was born February 17, 1856, and died May 19, 1862. Carrie was born December 4, 1868, and is now at home. Nancy was born July 19, 1870, and died January 9, 1880. Thomas Theodore is now living, and is managing the home farm. He is also engaged in dealing in stock, in connection with his farming interest. He was born September 17, 1865, and is succeeding admirably in improving the home farm, and expects to make it one of the best in the county. He is an enterprising young man, and, like his father, continues to contribute to the cause of education, and all public enterprises. He is also, like his father, a staunch Democrat. George M. Nolin was the son of Philip B. and Curren A. (Tubbs) Nolin, and the grandson of Abraham Nolin. The father, Philip B. Nolin, was born near Nashville, Tenn., and died in Stewart County, of the same State. He was then a steamboat pilot on the Cumberland and Tennessee Rivers, being one of the first and best pilots, and, as a consequence, commanded a high salary. In connection with this he also carried on farming. His father was a native of Ohio, was a soldier in the War of 1812 under Jackson, and was at the battle of New Orleans, being one of the eight that was killed at that battle.

James Riley Orton was born in the county and State where he now resides, on February 14, 1857, and is a son of Thomas and Clarissa (Edsall) Orton. It is not known whether the father was born in England or the United States. He came to Missouri with his parents, but they afterward went back to England, and he remained in the United States. He was married in St. Louis County, Mo., and moved to Pemiscot County, in 1850, returning to St. Louis County in 1858, where he spent the remainder of his days. He was a farmer. James Riley Orton was the fifth of seven children, and was about four years old when his mother died, and eight years old when his father died. The family were left in very destitute circumstances, but James found a home with James R. Edsall, his uncle, and remained with him until about sixteen years of age. He then worked for wages for six years, and then rented and tilled land for three years. At this time he purchased land and is now the owner of a well located and well improved farm in Braggadocia Township, which he has earned by industry and good management. In connection with farming he is also engaged in stock raising. January 2, 1881, he married Emma V. Franklin, who was born in Kentucky, February 15, 1857. She is a daughter of Robert G. and Amanda Franklin, who were Kentuckians. They came to Missouri in 1859, and her mother died in New Madrid County, in 1861. The father died in 1881. He was a Democrat in politics, and belonged to the Masonic fraternity. By occupation he was a farmer and merchant. Mr. and Mrs. Orton are the parents of the following children: Clarissa A. (born December 30, 1881), Gertrude G. (born February 27, 1883), Thomas R. (born March 6, 1885), Harriet A. (born November 5, 1886) and Mattie W. (born February 12, 1888, and died February 20, 1888). Mr. Orton is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, and in his political views is a Democrat. He belongs to the Masonic fraternity.

Curtis I. Popham was born in Meade County, Ky., March 6, 1865, and is the son of Albert D. and Ann J. (Oats) Popham, who were natives of Meade County, Ky., and North Carolina respectively. The father was born June 8, 1830, and is now residing in Pemiscot County, Mo., whither he moved in 1861. He has followed farming all his life, in connection with merchandising and boating on the Ohio River, and in his time has taken boats to New Orleans. His wife was born September 26, 1839, and is also living. They have been members of the Baptist Church for many years, and Mr. Popham is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and a Democrat in his political principles. To their marriage were born eight children, all living: Emma F., Mary A., C. I., Sebastian C., Thomas L., Arthur E., Robert E. L. and Albert Karl. Curtis I. came with his parents to Missouri, and remained with them until twenty-one years of age, when he returned to Kentucky, and there remained one year, after which he returned to Missouri, and settled in Pemiscot County. He has followed farming up to the present date, and has a fine tract of land. January 17, 1888, he married Miss Annie E. Warrington, a daughter of Abner and Mary Ann (Tarkington) Warrington, who were old settlers of Southeast Missouri. The father was a merchant at New Madrid, and at Gayoso. He was born in Southeast Missouri, and both he and his wife died when Mrs. Popham was quite small. Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Warrington, only two now living: Abner E., now a resident of Texas, and a blacksmith by occupation, and Annie E., wife of Mr. Popham. The latter is a Democrat in politics, is a member of the Wheel, being secretary of the same, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Daniel Rohrer was born in Lancaster County, Penn., June 9, 1831, and is the son of Daniel, Sr., and Mary (Kreider) Rohrer, both natives of Lancaster County, Penn. The father was born March 2, 1803, is now living and is a resident of the county of his nativity. He has been a farmer all his life, and has been very successful, having accumulated much land and money during his lifetime. His wife was born October 18, 1807, and is also living. They were married in 1827, and have lived together since. Mr. Rohrer is a Republican in politics, and he and wife are church members. Eleven children were born to their union, seven now living: John, Jacob, Daniel, Abram, Nancy, Isaac and Mary. Daniel Rohrer and his brother, Isaac, remained in Lancaster County, Penn., until 1866, when they came to Crittenden County, Ark., and, after farming one year, went to Decatur County, Tenn., where they again engaged in agricultural pursuits, and there remained six years. Isaac left after the first year and went to Texas, was married there, and then remained fourteen years, when he moved to Marion County, Mo. Daniel remained in Decatur County, Tenn., for six years, and then moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has since remained, engaged in tilling the soil, and in raising stock. He has 220 acres of good land in Pemiscot County. In April, 1869, he married Miss Lucinda Caroline Fisher, a native of Decatur County, born January 10, 1846, and the daughter of Charles and Electa Fisher. To Mr. and Mrs. Rohrer were born ten children: Mary, John, Jacob, Henry, Alice, Charles and Emma. Those deceased were named Harry, Anna and Daniel. Mr. Rohrer is conservative in his political views, and votes for whom he considers the best man. Mrs. Rohrer is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Martin Luther Stancil (deceased), one of the oldest settlers of Pemiscot County, was born in North Carolina, September 26, 1807, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., October 31, 1855. He was the son of John Stancil, a native of North Carolina, who died in Stewart County, Tenn. Martin L. Stancil moved with his parents to Stewart County, Tenn., at the age of five. He here grew to manhood, married Miss Martha Ann Nolin, and in 1840 moved to Pemiscot County, Mo., where he passed the remainder of his days. He was a farmer and trader, and made many a trip to New Orleans with stock and produce. He was never an office-seeker, but finally, after much urging on the part of friends, he accepted the position of circuit judge. He was a well informed man, spending all his spare time in the perusal of books, and the principal part of his education was received after twenty-one years of age. He had a splendid memory, and was a self-made man in every respect. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and a staunch Democrat in his political views. To Mr. Stancil and his wife, Martha Ann (Nolin) Stancil, who was the daughter of Philip B. Nolin, a native of Dickson County, Tenn., born April 15, 1822, were born six children, all deceased. They are named as follows: John P., who was born August 13, 1841, and died December 3, 1873, while living in Pemiscot County. He was a graduate of one of the best colleges in Tennessee, and was also a graduate of the McDowell Medical University, of St. Louis. During the war he served as a commissioned officer in the Confederate army, and was taken prisoner, but only retained a short time. He practiced medicine for several years, and was a very successful practitioner. He represented Pemiscot County in the State Legislature twice. He married Emily Butler, who is now living, and to this union were born three children: two now living: George, Lula and John P. (deceased). Jonathan W. was born May 29, 1844, and died September 12, 1844; Elizabeth K. was born April 21, 1846, and died September 25, 1847; George C. was born Aug. 6, 1849, and died August 15, 1863; Martin L., Jr., was born June 25, 1853, and died at the age of four years; Martha A. was born July 21, 1855, and died when seventeen months old. When Mr. Stancil died he left 640 acres of land, which his widow, Martha A., managed until her eldest son became old enough to assume control. She educated her son John herself, and made him one of the most prominent physicians in Southeast Missouri. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South a few years previous to the death of her husband, and the first Sunday-school in New Madrid County she was instrumental in organizing. For many years the Sunday-school was held at her own home, and under her shade trees. She was superintendent of the same for many years, and is a very intelligent and practical woman. June 5, 1859, she married Stephen Ross, a native of Kentucky, born December 16, 1803, and who died in Pemiscot County, Mo., January 16, 1868. The Ross family were of Irish descent, were wealthy people, and were one of the oldest families of Kentucky. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, serving as steward, and was a Democrat politically. He was twice married before his marriage to Mrs. Stancil, and he has one daughter, Cynthia Hector, now living. By his marriage to Mrs. Stancil were born three children: Nancy M. (whose death occurred August 23, 1861), Frank Lee (who was born January 22, 1862, and who at the present time is engaged in farming the old home place). He was married to Miss Rebecca E. Wiggear, who bore him two children: Ida Cora and Martha Ann (for her grandmother). The last child born to Mr. and Mrs. Ross is Anna E., who was born January 7, 1864, and who is the widow of James Bandy. They were the parents of one child, James J. Mrs. Martha Ann Ross has not only educated her own children, but has taught a number of terms of school. In 1882 her house was destroyed by fire, and all records, etc., were lost.

James Franklin Rowe, a leading citizen of Little River Township, Pemiscot Co., Mo., was born in Texas in 1851, and is a son of Reuben and Elizabeth (Marks) Rowe, who came to Missouri in the fifties. Reuben Rowe was a farmer, and as both he and his wife died at an early day but little is known of their early history. Their family consisted of four children and James F. is the eldest and the only one living. At the death of his parents he was taken into the family of Alexander Summers, and made his home with them until he was nineteen years of age, at which time he began doing for himself. He engaged in farming and is now the owner of 700 acres of land, 135 acres being under cultivation. In 1873 he was married to Ellen Walker, a daughter of James Walker. She was born in Pemiscot County and died December 24, 1880, aged twenty-four years. She was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, and left two children, one of them now living, Mary E. Laura J. died when five years of age. August 11, 1886, Mr. Rowe married Elizabeth Bustle, who was born in Weakley County, Tenn. She is a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, and is the mother of the following children by a former marriage: George L. (died when twenty-two years of age), Alfred F. (died when twenty-five years old), Robert L. (died aged fourteen years), and Jennie Ann (died when six years old). The father of these children was John McCaul. Mr. Rowe is a member of the I. O. O. F., and in his political views is a Democrat.

Hina C. Schult, circuit clerk and ex-officio recorder of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born at La Crosse, Wis., March 19, 1858. He is the son of John H. D. and Eliza (Oentrich) Schult, natives of Hamburg and Berlin, Germany, respectively. They were married in their native country and shortly afterward, in 1853, immigrated to the United States, locating in New Orleans, where they remained for two years and then moved to La Crosse, Wis., where the father passed his last days. He was a merchant by occupation, and as such was very successful. The mother is still living and is a resident of La Crosse, Wis. She has never married since the death of John H. D. Schult. Four children were born to their marriage, all now living: Emma (wife of E. W. Krebs, who is a bookkeeper by profession, and is now living in La Crosse, Wis.), A. F. (a commercial traveler, doing business for the Curtis Manufacturing Co., of St. Louis), William D. (attorney and clerk of the Board of Public Works of La Crosse, Wis.) and Hina C. (who is the second child and the subject of this sketch). He learned the printer's trade working on Brick Pomeroy's paper, the La Crosse Democrat, for a number of years, and was city collector of that paper. He was afterward promoted to the position of foreman of the composing rooms of the same paper, which position he held until in June, 1877, at which time he left La Crosse and visited various cities and towns. This trip was partly for business and partly for pleasure. He published for a time the Osceola Times, a Democratic paper, and in 1878 he came to Gayoso, and took charge of the Gayoso Democrat. In July of the same year he suspended the publication of the paper on account of the yellow fever epidemic, and during the time was employed in the circuit clerk's office as deputy. In October, 1878, he resumed the publication of the Democrat and continued until May, 1879, when he returned to La Crosse, Wis. In October of the same year he returned to Gayoso, and received the appointment of deputy sheriff and collector, under Ben F. Bancroft. In November of the following year Mr. Schult resigned the position to accept that of deputy circuit and county clerk, under William J. Hudson. Mr. Hudson resigned in April, 1883, and Mr. Schult was appointed to fill the vacancy by Gov. Crittenden. In November, 1884, he was elected by the people of Pemiscot County as circuit and county clerk. In 1886 he was re-elected circuit clerk and ex-officio recorder without opposition. He was master of the Masonic fraternity at Caruthersville, and represented his lodge at the Grand Lodge of Missouri in 1887. At present he is V. G. of the I. O. O. F., and is a member of the A. O. U. W., and is a Democrat of the staunchest kind. He is now secretary of the Democratic Central Committee of the Fourteenth Congressional District. In 1886 he was elected secretary of the Congressional Convention, which met at Charleston, Mo. In 1884 and 1886 he was a delegate to the Democratic State conventions. In 1880 he purchased a half interest in the Gayoso Democrat, sold his interest in 1881, but purchased a third interest in the same paper in 1886. June 22, 1892, he married Miss Etta Ward, daughter of Dr. Hardin M. Ward, of Caruthersville, Pemiscot Co., Mo. Two children were born to this union, Mary E. and Edna A. Mrs. Schult is a member of the Catholic Church.

George W. Seten was born in Washington County, Ind., June 4, 1837, and is the son of Roswell and Elizabeth (Housh) Seten. The father was a native of Connecticut, born February 4, 1805, and died in Washington County, Ind., November 19, 1856. When a young man he moved from his native State to Indiana, where he passed the balance of his life. He was a farmer and the son of Samuel Seten, a captain under Gen. Harrison during the War of 1812. He was at the battle of Tippecanoe. He was a seaman by occupation, and was captain of a vessel. The Housh family came from Germany, settling in Jackson County, Ind., and here Andrew Housh built the first fort. He was a lawyer by profession. This family made Seymour, Jackson County, their home for many years. Elizabeth Housh was born in 1808, and died September 9, 1863, in Saline County, Ill. To Mr. and Mrs. Seten were born seven children, four now living: Roswell (a merchant at Harrisburg, Ill.), George W., Andrew (a farmer of Pemiscot County) and Charlotte (wife of W. M. Miller, a stock dealer of Oregon). George W. received a liberal education in the schools of Indiana, and remained at home until twenty-two years of age, when he went to Saline County, Ill.

and there remained ten years. He and his brother Roswell purchased a large tract of land, and engaged in farming. February 15, 1858, he married Miss Susan E. Christian, who was the daughter of Jonathan Christian. She was born in Hardin County, Ill., and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., March 28, 1887, and at the time of her death was forty-six years of age, having been born February 22, 1842. She had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for years, and was the mother of seven children, five now living: Martha Thompson (wife of Joseph Thompson, a farmer of New Madrid), William S., Marquis D. L., Walker B. and Susan E. Those deceased are Cornelius R. and John R. Mr. Seten went from Illinois to Kansas, where he remained two years, and then came to Southeast Missouri, locating in Pemiscot County. He has spent a fortune traveling, has been all over Indiana, Illinois, Arkansas, Kansas, Iowa, Colorado and Texas, etc. In the year 1884 he spent the entire year visiting different States. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and is a Republican in his political views. He has followed farming all his life, and has been quite successful.

Judge Stephen H. Steele, present probate judge of Pemiscot County, and a leading citizen of the same, was born in Ripley, Lauderdale Co., Tenn., October 29, 1830, being the son of Isaac M. and Jane (Hadley) Steele, who were natives of Knox County, Tenn., and Mecklenburg County, N. C., respectively. The father was born March 7, 1805, is now living, and is a resident of Ripley, Tenn. He has, in the past, been known as one of the most prominent lawyers in West Tennessee, and is still connected with the law firm of Steele & Steele, the firm comprising himself and son Thomas. He held the office of circuit and county clerk for sixteen years in Lauderdale County, Tenn., was first elected in 1840, and was admitted to the bar in 1844, having studied law during the time he was in the clerk's office. In 1855 he was elected to the State Senate, held that office one term, when he withdrew from politics and practiced law afterward. He still practices to some extent, and is considered high authority on all law questions. His wife was born January 5, 1811, and is also living. They were married in 1829, and have lived together over fifty-nine years. She is a member of the Presbyterian Church. Eleven children were born to their marriage, four sons and two daughters now living: Stephen H., David P. (a physician of Ripley, Tenn.), Horace T., Thomas (a lawyer of the firm of Steele & Steele), Martha (now at home) and Frances (the wife of William Wall, a druggist, and now a resident of the State of Texas). Stephen H. Steele received a very liberal education under the instruction of Charles Beard, a graduate of Virginia State University. In 1850 he began studying medicine, and in 1851 and 1852 he attended lectures at Louisville Medical University. In 1852, 1853 and 1854, he attended lectures at the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, where he graduated in 1854, and began immediately to practice, which he has continued ever since, it being his principal business. He began practicing at Ripley with Drs. Lackey and Oldham, and at times was a partner of David P. Steele, brother of our subject. In 1865 Judge Steele came to Pemiscot County, and located at Caruthersville. In 1859 he married Miss Cornelia E. Stith, who lived but a year after her marriage, leaving a daughter who is now the wife of Samuel Pierce, a resident of Dyersburg, Tenn. In 1866 the Judge married Miss Mollie P. Looney, a native of Alabama, born July 27, 1847, and the daughter of Joseph Looney. To this union were born six children, all daughters: Emma, Jane, Eva, Lilly, Hannah and an infant daughter, unnamed. In 1874 Judge Steele was elected to represent Pemiscot County in the State Legislature, and has held the office of county judge. In 1886 he was elected probate judge from the second district of the county. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, and has, for the past five years, until the present year, been Master of Caruthersville Lodge No. 461, and has represented the same in the Grand Lodge twice. He is Democratic in his political principles, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Leonidas L. Steele was born in Graves County, Ky., August 6, 1845, and is a son of Richard B. and Elizabeth M. (Wilson) Steele, who were born in Tennessee and South Carolina, in 1819 and 1820, and died in Missouri and Kentucky, in 1886 and 1864, respectively. They were married in Kentucky, and in 1868 the father came to Missouri, and located in Morley County, where he followed the occupation of farming for several years. He then began selling goods in Lynneville, Ky., and was also engaged in buying and shipping tobacco. He was a Whig before the war, but afterward affiliated with the Democratic party. He was the father of five sons and one daughter. Leonidas L. is the second child and is the only one now living. He was educated in his native county, and in 1861 left home and joined Company K, Fifth Tennessee Infantry of the Confederate States army, and after serving about fourteen months was discharged. In August, 1863, entering Company F, Col. Faulkner's cavalry, he served until April, 1864, when he was taken prisoner and kept at Camp Douglass, Chicago, Ill., until the close of the war. He returned to Graves County, Ky., and in 1868 came to Missouri. After again residing in Kentucky for a time, he went to Tennessee, but in 1874 again returned to Kentucky. Since 1885 he has been a permanent resident of Pemiscot County, Mo. He engaged in the mercantile business, and is also following the occupation of farming. January 10, 1875, he married Ellen Wilford, who was born in Graves County, Ky., in 1853, and died November 25, 1875, leaving one daughter, Elizabeth E., who died when an infant. April 19, 1886, Mr. Steele married Geneva Kidd, daughter of William and Nancy Waldey and widow of K. Kidd. She was born in Pemiscot County, Mo., February 24, 1864. They have two children: Danton and Elizabeth. Mr. Steele is a Democrat, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Henry Stephens is a Tennessean, born in Carroll County, March 22, 1847, and is a son of William and Eliza (Huffman) Stephens, who were born in North Carolina and Virginia, and died in Missouri, in 1864 and 1872, respectively. They were married in Tennessee, and in 1851 located in Missouri. The father was a farmer, and was a Democrat in his political views. Ten children were born to their union, three of whom are living: Mary (McArthur), Michael and Henry. The latter is the second of the family. He remained at home until twenty-two years of age, when he married Eliza McArthur, who was born in North Carolina, September 11, 1849. Their union resulted in the birth of two children, both of whom are dead: Emma E. and George F. The former died at the age of seven years, and the latter when an infant. Mr. Stephens is the owner of the old home place, and is a thrifty and enterprising farmer. He takes great interest in the cause of education, and supports all laudable enterprises. He is a Democrat in his political views, and he and wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

James Stewart, farmer and stock raiser of Virginia Township, was born near Memphis, Shelby Co., Tenn., January 2, 1855. His parents were H. B. and Catherine (Redditt) Stewart, natives of Sumner County, Tenn., the former of whom was born in 1812, and died in Fayette County, Tenn., August 14, 1874. He was overseer until the breaking out of the late war, after which he engaged in merchandising at Hickory Withe until 1873. The last few years of his life he retired from business. He was a very successful merchant, was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and a Democrat in politics. During the muster of militia, in war times, he was captain. Mrs. Stewart was born in 1813, and died in the State of Arkansas, in September, 1880. The result of their marriage was the birth of several children, James Stewart being the fourth. At the age of seventeen he left his home in Tennessee, and went to Harrisburg, Ark., remaining there one year, when he came to Dunklin County, Mo. Here he remained a short time, and then moved to Pemiscot County, where he has since remained engaged in agricultural pursuits. July 25, 1887, he chose for his life companion, Miss Mary Denton, a native of the State of Kentucky, and a member of the Baptist Church. Mr. Stewart is a Democrat in politics, and is a good citizen.

Nicholas J. Teror, one of the very first settlers of Pemiscot County, or rather, a representative of one of the first families to move to Southeast Missouri, was born near Point Pleasant, New Madrid County, July 1, 1820, and is a son of Nicholas, Sr., and Mary (Philpot) Teror. The father was a Frenchman and was born in Lower Canada, April 23, 1758. He died November 7, 1867. The mother was a native of North Carolina, born February 14, 1799, and died in New Madrid County, Mo., April 15, 1863. She was the daughter of Isaac Philpot, a Revolutionary soldier. Nicholas, Sr., when a young man, came with his father to Vincennes, Ind., and from there to Caruthersville, where he was living at the time of the earthquake of 1811. For many years he was engaged in boating from Louisville to New Orleans, and made, altogether, forty trips. He was one of the men to erect the first house in New Madrid, and was an old line Whig in politics, and a member of the Catholic Church. He followed farming the principal part of his life. He was, at the time of his death, one hundred and ten years old, and on the day that he was one hundred years old he split 100 rails to test himself. His wife was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for many years. To their marriage were born seven sons and one daughter, Nicholas, Jr., being the third child, and the only one now living. He remained with his parents until December 17, 1843, when he married Miss Mary E. Bird, a native of Cape Girardeau County, Mo., born in 1826, and the daughter of William Bird, who was an old settler of Southeast Missouri, and who was born in Cape Girardeau County, Mo. Mrs. Teror died in Pemiscot County, Mo., September 26, 1860. To their marriage were born seven children, only two now living: Isaac N. and Mary E., who is the wife of Pleasant Seecoi, an enterprising farmer of Pemiscot County. Isaac N. is now living on the old homestead. The children deceased were named John R. (who died in his twenty-fourth year, January 1, 1867), William B. (who was born January 24, 1847, and died October 8, 1883), Stephen P. (born March 11, 1849, and died March 11, 1850, with cholera), Rachel M. (born August 17, 1851, and died December 6, 1861) and Sarah E. (who died in April, 1861). When first married Mr. Teror began operating a wood yard on the bank opposite Island No. 16, about twelve miles from where he now lives. He continued this until after the war, when he turned his attention to farming. He started with very little, and is now the owner of a good farm. He has filled the position of constable several different times, and when he first took the office could not read or write, learning to do both while in office. He is a Democrat in politics, and is an attendant of the Catholic Church.

Jesse M. N. Thompson was born in Giles County, Va., January 29, 1844, and is a son of Joshua and Esther (Smith) Thompson, who were natives of the same county and State. The father was born in 1814, and is yet residing near his birthplace. The mother died about 1844, and after remaining single for about twenty years the father married Margaret McCoy, who is still living. He has been a farmer all his life, and is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and is a Democrat in politics. Seven children were born to his first marriage, six of whom are living. Jesse M. N. Thompson received a limited early education, owing to the breaking out of the war. April 29, 1861, he joined Company F, of the Fourth Virginia Infantry, Confederate States army, serving under Stonewall Jackson. He was ensign of the regiment, with the rank of first lieutenant, and was a participant in the following battles: Both battles of Bull Run, Fort Donelson, Antietam, seven days' fight before Richmond, Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, Knoxville, Cedar Creek, New Market, Rich Mountain, Harper's Ferry, Waynesboro and Piedmont. June 4, 1864, he was taken prisoner, and kept at Camp Morton, Indianapolis, Ind. He received a flesh wound in the right side at the first battle of Bull Run, and at Gettysburg received a severe wound in the left knee, and at Sharpsburg was wounded in the right foot. After the war he went to Iowa, and after residing there one year returned to Virginia, and in February, 1869, moved to Missouri and located in Pemiscot County, where he has been engaged in farming and stock raising. Since 1884 he has held the position of assessor by re-election. He is a Democrat and a member of the I. O. O. F. March 14, 1867, he married Mary A. Thompson, a distant relative, and daughter of Patton and Elizabeth Thompson. She was born in 1842 and is the mother of the following children: Henry H., Sullivan S., Goah M., Winfield C., Minnie B. and Augusta I.

Dr. Quincy Adams Tipton was born in Fayette County, Tenn., June 10, 1844, and is one of five children born to Pleasant M. and Charity Lawrence (Allen) Tipton, who were also born in Tennessee, in 1813 and 1811, and died there in 1875 and 1865, respectively. The father was a farmer and miller, and he and his wife were members of the Missionary Baptist Church. Their children who are living are Jonathan D. B. (a miller of Finley, Tenn.), Pleasant L. (who is in partnership with his brother, Jonathan D. B., at Finley), Preston M. (an attorney at Dyersburg, Tenn.) and Dr. Quincy A. The latter was educated in the schools of Dyersburg, Tenn., and when the war broke out he left home and joined Company N, Heavy Artillery, at Island No. 10, and after that place was taken by the Union soldiers he attached himself to Forrest's cavalry, Company E, Fourteenth Regiment, and served until the close of the war, having been a participant in nearly all the principal battles in which Forrest took part. After the war he returned home, and in 1866 went to Lauderdale County, Tenn., where he studied medicine under Drs. Johnson and Walker. In 1869 and 1870 he attended the Medical University of Louisville, Ky., and then came to Pemiscot County, Mo., and in 1871 again attended the University at Louisville. He received his diploma in 1877, and since then has been a practicing physician of Pemiscot County, and has been very successful. He has always taken an active part in politics, and supports the Democratic party. He belongs to the A. F. & A. M., and represented his lodge in the Grand Lodge of Missouri. February 10, 1871, he married Louisa Cavender, who was born in Perry County, Ind., in 1853, and died in 1874. She left one child, Ada, who died when three years of age. March 7, 1877, the Doctor married Mattie Ellen Garrett, who was born in Evansville, Ind., March 20, 1855. This union has been blessed with three children: Minnie A., Quincy C. and Pleasant Corydon. The Doctor and wife are members of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Hon. William A. Ward, the present prosecuting attorney of Pemiscot County, was born in Mississippi County, Mo., October 7, 1855, and is the son of Hardin M. and Mary J. (Allen) Ward, natives of Henry County, Tenn., and Mississippi County, Mo., respectively. The father was born December 11, 1821, and died in Charleston, Mississippi Co., Mo., October 21, 1874, while on his way home from Arkansas, where he had been on business. When a young man he moved to Kentucky, and thence to Mississippi County, Mo., and at different times represented that county in the Legislature. He received a medical education at the Louisville University, medical department, and practiced his profession several years before coming to Missouri, when he retired and farmed for some time. He moved to Pemiscot County in 1857, and was residing there at the time of his death. His wife was born September 8, 1836, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., September 15, 1881. Mr. Ward was a Mason and a Democrat in politics. To their union were born eight children, only three now living: William A., Etta L. (wife of Hina C. Schult, whose sketch appears elsewhere) and Martha M. (wife of Frank L. Ferguson). Hon. William A. Ward received a liberal education at the Academy at Charleston and at the State University at Columbia. In 1875 and 1876 he attended law school at the University of Louisville, and in November, 1876, was admitted to the bar. Since returning from the school, in 1876, he has been engaged in the practice of his profession. In 1874 and part of 1875 he was deputy circuit and county clerk of Pemiscot County, under Clerk Adams. In November, 1876, Mr. Ward was elected prosecuting attorney and was re-elected in 1878. In 1886 he was again elected. He is engaged in farming and stock raising with H. C. Schult, on their farm near Caruthersville. April 11, 1877, Mr. Ward married Miss Mary K. Garrett, of Gayoso, and a daughter of Robert Garrett. By this union four children were born, two living, viz.: Martha M. and Hardin M. Mr. Ward is a Democrat in politics, is a member of both the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges, and his wife is a member of the Catholic Church.

Richard Crockett Warren was born in Gibson County, Tenn., September 2, 1836, and is one of six children born to William and Nancy Elizabeth (Ridgeway) Warren, who were born in North Carolina, and died in Gibson County, Tenn.; the former in 1859, at the age of fifty-five years. He was but a small boy when his parents moved to Tennessee, but he always made that State his home, and followed the occupation of farming. After the death of his wife he married Ruth Caroline Keatley. Richard Crockett Warren received his name from the old Crockett family, who were intimate friends and neighbors of the Warrens, in Tennessee. He remained at home until twenty-one years of age, and then went to New Madrid County, Mo., where he remained one year and helped to build the plank road from Clarkton to Point Pleasant. He then went to Arkansas, and worked on the Memphis & Little Rock Railroad for one year, and at the end of that period came back to Missouri, and was in the mercantile business at Weaverville until 1864, but was compelled to give up business owing to the depredations of the soldiers. He began farming, and has continued to follow that occupation up to the present time, being now the owner of 300 acres of land. In 1864 he was married to Angeline Keath, a daughter of Silas Keath. She was born in Indiana in 1836, and died in Pemiscot County, Mo., the year following her marriage. She left one daughter, Sarah L., who died when a child. August 20, 1867, he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Parmenter, a daughter of James Parmenter. She was born in West Tennessee in 1840, and became the mother of seven children, six of whom are living: Amanda M., James T., Jesse C., Robert L., Mary J., William H. (deceased) and Sallie. Mr. Warren is a Democrat, and he and wife are members of the Missionary Baptist Church. His brothers and sisters are William J. (who was in the Confederate army, and was killed at the battle of Atlanta), Catherine (Matthews), Edwin, Sallie Ann (Gillard) and Nancy E. (Hynes).

C. P. Wells, the present postmaster and county treasurer of Pemiscot County, Mo., was born in Clark County, Ind., January 13, 1837, and came to this county in 1860. In 1861 he joined the Confederate army, and served in the First Missouri Infantry, under Col. John S. Bowen, until June 22, 1864, when he was taken prisoner at the battle of Kenesaw Mountain, in Georgia. He was kept in Camp Morton prison, at Indianapolis, until May 23, 1865, when he was released on President Johnson's proclamation. Mr. Wells was in several battles during the war, beginning with the battle of Shiloh, in 1862, and afterward in Corinth (Miss.), Baton Rouge, Grand Gulf Post, Gibson, Champion's Hill, Vicksburg, and many fights and skirmishes through Alabama and Georgia, until taken prisoner. He had four brothers in the Union army, who served with distinction and valor for the Union. Mr. Wells is a Democrat. In 1887 and 1868 he assisted to survey the Union Pacific Railroad, from Fort Wallace to Fort Wilmington, Cal. Since 1868 he has been a citizen of Pemiscot County, Mo., where he has been engaged in farming and merchandising, which he has made a success.

William W. Wilford is the ninth of twelve children, five of whom are living, born to the marriage of John and Elizabeth (Eaker) Wilford. The father was a native of North Carolina, and died in Weakley County, Tenn., in 1864. He was a farmer and hotel keeper, and in his political views was a Democrat. His wife was born in Kentucky, and died in Graves County, of that State, in 1876. William W. Wilford was born in Graves County, Ky., March 7, 1849, and made his home with his parents until 1873, when he came to Missouri, and engaged in farming and operating a cotton-gin. Since 1879 he has been engaged solely in farming, and is the owner of 240 acres of fertile and well improved land. He also engages quite extensively in stock raising, and breeds from seventy-five to 100 head of cattle annually. December 16, 1873, he married Elizabeth New, daughter of William New. She was born in Graves County, Ky., May 11, 1851, and to her union with Mr. Wilford were born the following children: Virginia E., John W. and Elmer. Myrtle J. and May are deceased. Mr. Wilford is a Democrat, and he and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Judge Henry J. Wilks was born at New Albany, Ind., April 29, 1846, and is the son of John and Lovina H. (Johnson) Wilks. The father was born in Yorkshire, England, June 21, 1820, is now living and is a resident of Pemiscot County, Mo. He learned the brickmaker's trade when a young man, and made the brick that was put into the first brick house in New Albany. He came to the United States in 1836, located in Ohio, but afterward (1842) moved from there to New Albany, Ind., and Louisville, Ky., where he remained until 1849, when he moved to Henderson County, Ky., and after remaining there until 1856 he moved to Posey County, Ind., and from there two years later to Pemiscot County. He was also a farmer, and was a Democrat in politics. His wife was born in New Albany, Ind., March 27, 1829, and is still living. Five children born to this union are still living. Henry J. is the eldest of the family. He received a very liberal education, attending the Commercial College at Evansville, Ind., and learned the blacksmith's trade at New Albany, that State, in 1863, 1864, and 1865. In October, 1867, he started a shop at Caruthersville, Pemiscot County, where he worked until in 1870, when, July 22, of that year, he married Miss Cornelia Spencer, who died February 14, 1878, at the age of twenty-seven. Their two children, Lura and Ward, are now living. After his marriage Judge Wilks abandoned the blacksmith business for farming, and this continued for three years. Previous to this he had studied law, and in 1879 was admitted to the bar. A year previous to the last date he was elected probate judge of Pemiscot County and served four years, when he was elected prosecuting attorney, and served two years. January 1, 1879, he married Miss Emma Whitehead, a native of Nelson County, Ky., born in 1860. To them were born four children, all living, viz.: Delia, Addie, Emma and William H. Judge Wilks is a member of the I. O. O. F. and is a high tariff Democrat.

Thomas E. Young, M. D., one of the leading physicians of Pemiscot County and a resident of Virginia Township, was born in Henry County, Tenn., April 1, 1855, his parents being Thomas A. and Martha (Waltis) Young, who were natives of Raleigh, N. C., and Petersburg, Va., respectively. The father died at Paris, Tenn., in 1877, and was eighty-one years old at that time. His wife died in 1879, at the age of seventy. They were married in Henry County, Tenn., and he was a Methodist minister and the first man to preach a sermon in Paris, Tenn. In connection with his ministerial duties he carried on merchandising, and was quite successful until the breaking out of the war, when he lost all his property. He was a Democrat and a Southern sympathizer. He was well educated and was a preacher of ability. Mrs. Young was a life-long member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Their son Thomas was the youngest of a family of thirteen children, only two now living. He received a liberal education at Paris, Tenn., and in 1871 he left home, going to Carroll County, where he followed farming one year, after which he returned home and after staying here another year went to Texas, where he studied medicine under Dr. John F. Fuller, of Ripley Springs. In 1875 he began to practice medicine at the last named place, and here continued for about eleven months when he returned to Searcy, Ark., and from there to Paris, Tenn., the latter part of 1876. He remained there until the summer following, when he moved to Dyer County, Tenn., and while here married Mrs. Kate Richey, daughter of Marcellus Cross, and the widow of George Richey. Seven children blessed this union: Mattie May, Susan and Tommie Ann (twins), Ella, Lillie and Dillie (twins) and Juna. After marriage Dr. Young moved to Pemiscot County, October 2, 1878, and here has since resided engaged in practicing medicine and in farming. He is a member of the I. O. O. F., and is also a member of the Wheel.

COMMENT ON THE INDEX

In the following index topics and surnames are interfiled, with the latter in SOLID CAPITALS. All personal names are listed except insignificant incidental mention such as the commander of a military unit in which a man served. A page reference shows that the topic or person(s) is mentioned at least once on that page.

The surname, IN CAPITALS, is followed by given name(s). Then in parenthesis is the original family name of a woman. If a previous marriage is known, that family name is given between colons. Nicknames are indicated by single quotes. Brackets are used to supply parenthetical comments. A question mark meand the identification is not positive.

The use of the index can perhaps be best illustrated by the interpretation of hypothetical entries:

CHICKWEED, --- (Olson?) 1721
Margaret 'Polly' (Brown) :Carter:
1547, 1981; W. C.(f) 1624n; Wolf
[an Indian] 1391

Mrs. Chickweed, whose given name is not known but who is thought to have been a Miss Olson, is mentioned on page 1721. Mrs. Margaret Chickweed, nee Brown, whose nickname was 'Polly,' was formerly married to a Mr. Carter, is noted on page 1547 and 1981. W.C., who is a woman, is named in a footnote on page 1624. Wolf Chickweed, page 1391, is an Indian.
