This is the sixth and final page from the case papers.

Francis & others
vs Romine et al
deposition of Richard Major

[This deposition probably belongs with another case, although it does appear to have the docket notes for M2750 on the reverse side. However, in none of the three or four docket notes that are given for the case is there any mention of any witnesses being called nor depositions taken for this case.]

....advise him not to be concerned with it, Butcher ask'd why, this deponent then inform'd him of Cleveland's contract and likewise informed him that Clevelands claim was not all the encumbrances hanging over the land but Robert Bland claimed apart and Thomezin Ellzey other part of the said land and if the said Butcher purchased it he would probably purchase a great deal of trouble. That some weeks or months after this conversation the deponent & Butcher met again and the conversation was again revived much to the same purpose & this Deponent then further added that if Butcher bought the land it was doubtful whether he would ever get it. That at another time after this second meeting the deponent was riding through Leesburg, and the said Butcher came out of a Tavern and told this deponent he and Hough were just then concluding their bargain about the Land and this deponent told Butcher he thought he had purchased trouble, to which Butcher replied that John Hough was such a confounded rogue that he could make out any thing that he undertook or words to this effect and further Deponent saith not"

Richard Major
